GERMAN CRISIS FADES; MONEY GOES INTO BANKS

Bruening Leaves to See Mussolini.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 5.—Corroborating the opinion of experts that the recent suspension of banking operations today would reveal no excessive clamor for withdrawals, the banks throughout the country, which have been closed for the past three weeks, opened their doors this morning in an atmosphere of complete calm.

Nearly every banking center saw more money paid in than was paid out, and banks which had expected to meet heavy demands reported surplus cash to the Reichsbank this afternoon because there was no need for it.

While Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius, reassured by the crisis financial air, left Berlin by plane at 10 o'clock tonight to confer with Premier Mussolini. They also will see Pope Pius.

"Just an Ordinary Day."

Many doubting Thomases, who had predicted that the reopening of the banks would find huge crowds trying to force their way in, saw paying and receiving ordinary business done.

"It was just an ordinary day," bank bankers stated, and reports from the provinces indicate that the same was true throughout the country.

The unexpected amount of deposits is due to the high rate of interest paid—more than 8 per cent—and all banks stated that they had sufficient money at the end of the day to carry them on tomorrow.

Depositors Return Money.

It was noticed in some instances that depositors who had rushed their funds in panic three weeks ago just before they were closed by President Hindenburg's decree returned to deposit their money today.

The normal banking activity today indicated that the country is confident that the government has safely met the peak of the crisis and will continue to improve conditions which led to the edge of financial disaster a month ago.

Although three weeks of obligations had accumulated, there was no voluminous amount of business transacted. This was even true at the Darmstadter and National bank and the Dresdner bank.

New Savings Bank Restriction.

With the opening of the banks today President von Hindenburg issued two decrees, conferring on the government drastic powers for the control of savings banks, which will not be permitted to make full payments until next week.

The decree gives the government power to lay down the principles of control of savings banks and clearing houses, order mergers, and found new institutions. It also separates municipal savings banks from municipal finances, forbidding those banks to grant loans or credits to municipalities or other public corporations. This decree lays the foundation for normal resumption of savings bank operations. These banks are now only permitted to pay out a maximum of $12.50 on each account.

The reason given by the government for the decree is that the Reichsbank can now extend the same aid to savings banks that was given to commercial banks during the crisis. The savings banks, while being solvent, suffered severely through the difficulties of the past months.

Budget Is Reduced.

Chancellor Dietrich, who also holds the portfolio of finance minister, declared that every criticism of extravagance in the German budget [illegible] Seymour Parker Gilbert, agent general for reparations under the Young plan, has been met in the budget.

The budget has been cut to the bone, he said. "Every department has felt the pruning knife, and the budget is really one of drastic economy."

The new budget as passed by the cabinet calls for expenditures of $2,- [illegible], which is $385,500,000 less than the 1930 budget. This saving does not include the benefits made possible by the Hoover moratorium. Reductions for salaries and wages of federal employés have been cut to the 1927 level and savings have been made in purchases for all departments.

Hold Referendum Sunday.

Excitement was running high today over the plebiscite to be held next Sunday on the dissolution of the Prussian [illegible]

CITY'S COLORED PEOPLE INCITED BY COMMUNISTS

Pastors Open Fight on Propaganda.

A communist plot to foment a rent strike among Chicago's colored residents came to light yesterday afternoon as the authorities continued their investigation of the south side riot in which three Negroes were killed on Monday in a clash between the police and a mob.

Evidence that the communists had incited hitherto peaceful colored people to an assault with pistols, rocks, and razors, resulting in serious injury to three of the ten policemen in the riot, was presented at an inquest conducted during the morning by Coroner Bundesen over the bodies of the dead, Abe Grey, John O'Neal, and Thomas Paige. The inquest indicated that there was no racial factor in the rioting.

Negro Leaders Told of Plot.

Reports that the communist agitators have won thousands of Negro adherents in the rent strike were made at a meeting of colored clergy and business men, which opened at 3 p. m. in St. Mark's Methodist Episcopal church, 5001 South Wabash avenue. Members of the Council of Unemployed, a communist organization, attempting to break up the meeting, were repulsed by the ministers.

A dozen ministers, including several white pastors whom the conferees had invited as advisers, were seated in the pews when a thunderous knock echoed through the edifice. The Rev. Henry W. Porter, pastor of the Grace Negro Presbyterian church, 3800 Vincennes avenue, had just been elected chairman.

Communists Are Repulsed.

Mr. Porter hurried down the aisle, unlocked the door, and was confronted by six or seven belligerent members of his race, led by a tall mulatto. The minister demanded an explanation of the noise and asked the intruders to identify themselves.

"Who are you?" retorted the mulatto, shoving the clergyman aside and striding in. "I've got a right to be in here. I'm from the council of unemployed. I'll give you facts."

Other ministers crowded round their chairman. With a concerted push the mulatto and his followers were thrown back into the vestibule and the door was relocked. Mr. Porter appointed a sergeant at arms and called the meeting to order.

Urges "Rent Moratorium."

The Rev. Norman B. Barr, head of Olivet institute, white evangelical church of the north side, was asked for suggestions. In an extended speech Mr. Barr criticized Mayor Cermak's adminstration for discharging political payrollers and advocated a "rent moratorium" as a cure for the unrest among the colored people caused by recent evictions of delinquent tenants.

Cheers greeted the proposal. Several colored pastors were on their feet at once, asking recognition from the chair. A minister whose name was not learned finally gained the floor.

"There won't be any eviction problem after another four or five days," he asserted. "The communists are signing up our people by the thousands. They guarantee that, if any member of the party is evicted, the vigilance committee will replace his furniture in his home."

A Dollar for Each Recruit.

"They call it a rent strike," the minister explained. "They charge a dollar dues and get members from among the unemployed. At the rate they're going not a landlord in our district will be able to collect rents before long."

Several of the colored pastors in the room nodded confirmation. The discussion diverged to another topic, but corroboration of the minister's charge later came from two official sources, Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton and Bailiff Albert J. Horan of the Municipal court.

The corporation counsel said that at a conference with colored leaders, immediately following the riot, the Rev. J. C. Austin, pastor of the Pilgrim Baptist church, the largest colored congregation in the city, had informed him that many of his own flock had joined the rent strike.

Business Men Confirm It.

A number of Negro business men, owners of south side property, had confirmed the story, Mr. Sexton said. The tenants, he was informed, flatly refused to pay rent, declaring the communists would protect them, and the landlords accepted the situation, preferring a profitless occupancy to the expense of obtaining an eviction.

SHE GETS NUMBER OF BANDIT AUTO; PAIR ARRESTED

Miss Catherine Archibald, manager of a Royal Blue store at 5945 Belmont avenue, brought about the capture of two alleged bandits last evening. They are Herbert Lissner, 6945 Wolfram street, and Clarence Amundsen, 6960 Fullerton avenue, both 20 years old.

Late in the afternoon, Miss Archibald was robbed of $35 by two gunmen who entered the store. Despite their warnings not to follow, she ran to the door after their departure, and jotted down the license number of their car.

Miss Archibald gave the number to the Cragin police, and Policemen William Dwyer and Frank Schultz traced it to Mrs. Sarah Lissner, operator of a feed store at 7119 Grand avenue. She is the mother of Herbert. The policemen waited a half hour, and finally the youths drove up in their automobile. They were seized. A revolver was found in their car. Miss Archibald identified them as the bandits.

75 CANARIES SET FREE; REMAIN IN WAUKEGAN TREES

Dwellers along Clark avenue, Waukegan, had their fill of canary music yesterday. From early morning on they listened to trills and warbles as seventy-five of the tiny birds flitted from tree to tree over the neighborhood. The owner of the birds, Mrs. Andrew Troth, 914 Clark avenue, had not been able to recapture any of them by nightfall.

Mrs. Troth had the canaries for sale in a specially built system of cages on her lawn. She went to the business district to shop about 9 a. m. yesterday and while she was gone some prankster pried the latches and released the birds. All were gone when she returned. During the afternoon she saw two small boys on the street holding canaries, but she was not able to catch them.

FINDS $200,000 GEMS IN TAXI; RETURNS THEM

New York, Aug. 5.—[Special.]—The finding of a black bag containing 41 pieces of jewelry belonging to Mrs. R. S. Reynolds Hitt, who is socially prominent in Washington, D. C., in a taxicab on Tuesday morning by the driver, Frank Brusza of Richmond Hills, Queens, and the return of the jewels to their owner was disclosed tonight by police.

The police were informed by Mrs. Hitt's daughter, Mrs. Andor de Hertelendy, wife of an attaché of the Hungarian legation, that the jewels, including a $50,000 pearl necklace, were worth a total of $200,000.

A Bride Calls on Governor to Guard Sleep

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ashland, Wis., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—The Finns are a determined race. The stick-to-itiveness which permitted Willie Ritola and Paavo Nurmi to run all rivals off their feet, is winning a new world record for the Finns of Marengo Valley.

It is furnishing wild evenings for the youth of the hitherto peaceful vale but much more for a young bridal couple.

Arvo Takes a Bride.

Thirteen days ago Arvo Juoni took unto himself a bride. That evening, as the young couple prepared to retire in the home of the bride's father, the charivari began.

A charivari—for the information of the uninitiate—is a combined house warming, welcome home and levying of tribute.

Its devotees—they invariably pronounce it "shivaree"—gather in the dusk before the newlyweds' home and, with guns, pans, rattles, and cowbells, await a signal that the bridal ceremonies are ended.

Chivalry and Beauty Gather.

So thirteen nights ago the chivalry and beauty of Marengo Valley gathered before the farm home of John Peterson, father of the bride. Guns fired, drums beat, dishpans boomed, and clubs rattled merrily along the pickets of the fence.

It was a soul satisfying racket, but bride and groom refused to appear. Mr. Peterson came out on the porch, but not bearing the cakes and cider or the money gifts which a charivari demands.

$15 Is Price of Sleep.

The tribute was set at $15 by the celebrants. Mr. Peterson replied with a shotgun.

The party dispersed, but was back the next night and the next and the next, until now 13 are reached, each time gaining in numbers and noise capacity.

The leaders relied on the law as handed down from Paul Bunyan, the mythical giant god of the lumber jacks. Bunyan, they said, had ordained that if a charivari continues a month, legal license may continue it a year.

The Juonis placed their faith in the laws of Wisconsin. They appealed to the courts and four ringleaders of the charivarists were arrested. These four were discharged with warning and were back last night.

The bridal couple appealed today to Gov. Philip LaFollette. Their petition said:

"We have appealed to the sheriff, but the charivari is still going on. The four arrested were released and returned to join the others. We are appealing to you as governor to bring about some action that will give us the peace and property rights to which we as citizens are entitled."

Tonight the celebrants were at it again in a bigger and better way. All Marengo valley seemed to be there, adding circular saws, iron stoves and wash boilers to their noise producing effects.

"We aren't even afraid of the militia," some of the chesty ones said. "That's what we want. If the governor gets after us, they'll have to put the whole caboodle in jail. And there's the law that says the father-in-law has to foot the bill. He's got oodles of money and he's got to cough up.

"If the sheriff arrests one, we'll make him arrest us all. The jail isn't big enough."

Tombstone Job Is Dead, He Says in Alimony War

Arraigned in court at the demand of his wife, Anna, who asked $40 a week alimony pending the hearing of her suit for divorce, Joseph Strauz, 3959 West 111th street, a tombstone cutter, offered a defense yesterday.

"The tombstone business is dead," he told Superior Judge James J. Kelly, producing his ledgers which showed he had lost $1,200 during the last year.

The judge allowed Mrs. Strauz $7 a week for the support of her only child, Emelie, 3 years old. Strauz, who was represented by Attorney Victor Frohlich, recently filed suit for divorce, and his wife instituted a cross bill. Both charged cruelty.

Oklahoma's Oil Shutdown Lures Texas

BULLETIN.

Austin, Tex., Aug. 5.—(AP)—The lower house of the Texas legislature voted today, 101 to 19, a favorable report on a bill approved by Gov. Ross Sterling, which would delegate to a state commission authority to set "allowable" oil production. Action was taken as a committee of the whole.

CICERO MURRAY.

And tonight, with virtually all of Oklahoma's 3,016 prorated well closed down or closing, the Oklahoma governor telegraphed Gov. Sterling of Texas asking the latter to join in the shutdown.

"I trust you may see your way clear to join me in shutting down all flush wells in Texas, which beyond a doubt would bring the desired results," the telegram said.

Gov. Sterling previously had said he did not believe he had constitutional power to follow Gov. Murray's example, though he praised the Oklahoma executive's move today as one calculated to increase oil prices in both states.

Texas Offers Cheap Oil.

Gov. Murray's invitation to Texas came after Oklahoma refiners, their local supply cut off, reported that east Texas producers were offering them unlimited quantities of oil at 15 cents a barrel plus freight, making the delivered price here about 50 cents.

With the great oil gushers of the Oklahoma City field quiet under martial law invoked yesterday, the battle moved on to the Greater Seminole field today. Lieut. Col. Cicero I. Murray and Adj. Gen. Charles F. Barrett of the Oklahoma National Guard called National Guardsmen into action there.

It appeared that within 48 hours there would be only one refinery operating in the Oklahoma City field district unless outside oil from Texas can be delivered here.

Refiners said the shutdown may affect independent filling stations here within a few days. Others predicted a stiff increase in gasoline prices if the shutdown is prolonged and companies are forced to import refined products.

Kenneth Winship of the Gypsy company said: "Naturally, great unemployment is going to result."

May Offer Governor Plant.

Homer F. Wilcox of the Wilcox Oil and Gas company announced it might be forced to shut down its refinery at Bristow. About 350 out of 719 men employed would lose their jobs, officials said. Only two men were left on the production department pay roll here today, they added.

Mr. Wilcox said that he was "seriously considering offering Gov. Murray our refineries to let him operate them as he sees fit."

A Shell company executive said his company would have to discharge about 150 men.

A federal court at Guthrie this afternoon upheld the oil proration laws of Oklahoma, attacked by the Champlin Refining company, a shutdown opponent. These laws were cited by the governor as a basis for the shutdown.

GENERAL MOTORS FINANCE OFFICIAL KILLED IN CRASH

Clayton Faville, 35 years old, 1626 Farwell avenue, territorial manager of the General Motors Acceptance corporation, the financing company for General Motors automobiles, was instantly killed early this morning when an automobile in which he was riding plunged into a ditch at Dundee and McHenry roads, just west of Wheeling. P. W. Motherell, 11057 South Hoyne avenue, credit manager of the finance corporation, who was driving the car, escaped with only slight injuries. They had been attending a picnic of employés of their organization at Lake Zurich.

Motherwell was driving southeast on McHenry road, which ends at Dundee road. He did not know the McHenry road ended there, and the machine dashed on across Dundee road into the ditch. The car turned over several times and Faville was pinned beneath it. His neck was broken. This death raised the total 1931 motor fatalities in Cook county to 669.

Refuel Plane for Trip to Alaska.

BULLETIN.

TOKYO, Aug. 6.—(AP)—The American aviators, Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon Jr. arrived at the Haneda aerodrome near Tokyo at 5:50 p. m. (3:50 a. m. Chicago daylight saving time) today. Their troubles over landing in Japan were settled by the American embassy arranging to file a landing application and the aviation bureau announced the permit would be granted.

AKLAVIK, Northwest Territory, Aug. 5.—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh slipped down out of a cold gray dawn at 3:05 a. m. [7:05 a. m. Chicago time] today, completing a nonstop hop direct from Baker Lake, an air line distance of 1,115 miles.

"I'm sorry to make you folks get up so early in the morning," Col. Lindbergh smiled as he stepped from his machine. He helped Mrs. Lindbergh to a canoe which was run out from shore and together they went to the residence of Dr. J. A. Urquhart, Canadian government medical officer, and were given steaming coffee.

Set a Record.

The Lindberghs' flight from Baker Lake to Aklavik set a new record. It was the longest nonstop airplane journey ever made over the lake-filled tundra country of northern Canada. They made the flight in eleven and one-half hours, having taken off from Baker Lake at 2:35 p. m. [6:35 p. m., Chicago time] yesterday.

The next hop in the itinerary of the famous couple is to Point Barrow, Alaska, 536 miles west and north. However, since the U. S. coast guard cutter, Northland, bearing a supply of gasoline for the plane, has been blocked by fog and the arctic ice pack near Icy Cape, 150 miles from Point Barrow, there is some question whether they will stop there.

Coast guardsmen were preparing to refuel the plane from the ship, should Col. Lindbergh decide to alight on the Arctic ocean for his gasoline.

Greeted by Eskimos.

The Lindberghs surprised Aklavik by the time of their arrival, but in a few seconds after his motor hum was heard to the west, a couple of dozen white people and as many Eskimos had gathered on the river bank. The natives were dressed in typical Eskimo parkas and muckluks, the women with their children in sacks on their backs.

Hundreds of husky, howling dogs, the pack animals of the north country in the winter, were chained along the beach.

Queer-shaped Eskimo boats were anchored in the water and there also are other craft owned by the Hudson's Bay company and the northern traders. Propelled by motors, they generally ply the waters between Aklavik and Herschel island, the last outpost of Canada, which is 150 miles north of Aklavik.

Wants to Sleep.

This was the scene that greeted the Lindberghs as they were paddled ashore in the light which at this time of year makes the far north as bright as day.

"When do you expect to start again?" he was asked.

"I don't know about that," he smiled. "We will have to get some sleep first and decide about that later."

"We had to check the motor and got away late from Baker Lake," he explained, "that's why we arrived here at such an hour."

The Lindberghs on their night flight had the advantage of long hours of sunshine in the north. It never really gets dark at this time of year, the sun just dips under the edge of the horizon for a little over half an hour. Aklavik is 130 miles inside the arctic circle. Asked if radio signals sent out by the Royal Canadian corps of signal stations along the Mackenzie river from here to Edmonton had been received Col. Lindbergh answered: "Mrs. Lindbergh will have to tell you about that."

Both Are Tired.

The question was not answered then because Mrs. Lindbergh was in the kitchen of the doctor's residence, talking to Mrs. Urquhart while the latter

Both of the visitors looked tired when they arrived. But they stepped nimbly out of their plane, the colonel first and Mrs. Lindbergh after. He helped her down to the left float and she stepped into a canoe pushed out by members of the Aklavik radio station. While this was under way a radio operator was busy flashing the world news of their safe arrival.

Both Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh evidenced great interest in the Eskimos. Mrs. Lindbergh turned and watched them while her husband busied himself with the instruments in the plane. Usually the Eskimo is completely silent and unresponsive but on this occasion they smiled and chatted with one another.

Find Eager Helpers.

A big parcel of bedding held by Mrs. Lindbergh as she stood in the canoe waiting for the colonel was taken by some one and held for her.

"It's heavy; you better let me hold it," she smiled.

"Not a bit," replied the man holding it, who seemed glad to get the honor of doing something for the distinguished couple.

Two Americans, J. N. Chester, Pittsburgh, Pa., and M. E. Chester, New Haven, Conn., were here to welcome the Lindberghs. They had flown in a Canadian Airways machine from Fort Yukon, Alaska, Tuesday to commence a river journey south to Edmonton, Alberta.

The Lindberghs' plane was tied to the bank, Lou Parkenter, Canadian Airways' mechanic, and Walter Gilbert, pilot for the same company, wading into the water and connecting ropes to the pontoons.

A Royal Canadian mounted police detachment turned out and were at the shore in time to welcome the visitors.

The Lindberghs ate a hot breakfast and went to sleep. In the meantime their plane is being watched. Gasoline drums were being rolled down the river bank this afternoon in preparation for refueling the machine.

WORLD FLYERS FACE JAIL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Aug. 6.—[Thursday.]—Hugh Herndon Jr. and Clyde Pangborn, American around the world flyers, today were winging their way toward Japan, after hopping off from Khabarovsk, Siberia, for Tokio. The Japanese ministry of communications declared today that if they land on Japanese soil they will be arrested and their plane confiscated.

The world flyers took off at Khabarovsk at 6:56 a. m. today [4:56 p. m., Chicago time, Wednesday].

The flyers, although they wired ahead their intention of landing at Tokio, did not officially ask permission to land in Japan. Therefore, under article 32 of the aviation law, their plane is subject to confiscation and the men to imprisonment. The government today said it would act under that law if the flyers arrive here.

According to the telegram received here from Herndon and Pangborn, they plan a non-stop flight from Tokio to Seattle.

DO-X LANDS AT BAHIA

BAHIA, Brazil, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The German flying boat DO-X arrived here this afternoon at 4:10 o'clock, ending the first day of its flight from Rio de Janeiro to the United States. The ship, which is on its way to New York, with ten passengers, landed earlier in the day at Caravellas.

She is making the trip in command of Lieut. Clarence M. Schildhauer, U. S. N. There are two women aboard, Mrs. Clara Adams, an American, and Frau R. Clausbruck, wife of one of the German pilots.

Boardman Plans Pacific Hop.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 5.—(AP)—From far away Turkey a message came today from Russell Boardman, New York-Istanbul flyer, inquiring about prizes for a nonstop Seattle-Tokio flight, several hours after a similar inquiry was made in behalf of Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon. W. W. Conner, Washington state governor for the National Aeronautic association, said he sent messages in reply that a $25,000 prize had been posted here and that a similar award has been offered in Tokio for the first nonstop flight between the cities.

Amy Johnson Reaches Tokio.

TOKIO, Aug. 6.—[Thursday.]—Amy Johnson, the British aviatrix, landed at Tachikawa airdrome at 5:17 o'clock this afternoon [3:17 a. m. Chicago daylight saving time], after a hop from Okayama, which she left at 12:20 p. m. This was the last lap of her flight from London to Tokio.

LINDBERGHS SET RECORD ACROSS NORTHWEST

The map shows the point from which Parker Cramer started and the town on the east coast of Greenland near which he landed, with the territory between the two. The arrows indicate the probable course of his flight, although no details as to his route are available.

SET AIR MARK IN ROUND TRIP, N. Y.-CHICAGO

Flyers Cut 38 Minutes Off Westbound Hop.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Two New York brokers, who are also unit commanders in The Crusaders—the anti prohibition organization—made a round trip flight from Roosevelt field, Long Island, to Chicago and back yesterday, clipping 38 minutes from the record for the westward flight.

James Goodwin Hall and Andre de Coppet, both wartime flyers, made the trip. They flew a Lockheed monoplane, The Crusader, and arrived at the Chicago airport at 9:30 a. m. daylight saving time, just four hours and twelve minutes after their takeoff from Long Island. Leaving again at 11:11 a. m., they arrived at Roosevelt field at 3:16.30 p. m. eastern standard time, coming within thirty seconds of tying the record of four hours and five minutes made by Frank Hawks two years ago. Their time out beat the air mail record of four hours and 50 minutes by 38 minutes.

Flyer Collapses on Arrival.

Hall was so eager to begin his trip in the early morning that he neglected breakfast and on landing in Chicago collapsed after drinking a glass of cold water. Col. Ira L. Reeves, chief of the Crusaders, said that Hall had been gassed during the war and that the fumes from the plane engine brought on the attack of faintness. The airman was carried into the hangar and revived a few minutes later. After breakfast he had completely recovered.

Col. Reeves and other officers of the Chicago Crusaders met the flyers when they arrived and one member of the office force was disguised in the "blue nose" costume used by cartoonists to depict the uncompromising prohibitionist. H. P. Ingram took the part. He ordered the flyers from "dry" territory.

World Flyers Land Here.

Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, 'round the world flyers now touring the country in their prize ship, the Winnie Mae, also landed at the airport yesterday afternoon after a flight from Des Moines, Ia. They were guests of the National Broadcasting company at a banquet in the Morrison hotel last night and will resume their tour this morning, flying to Janesville, Wis.

BERGEN, Norway, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Sir Hubert Wilkins' polar submarine Nautilus left Bergen this evening, bound for Tromsoe, Norway, on the way to Spitzbergen. Sir Hubert Wilkins hopes to take the submarine Nautilus to the North pole under the ice. If she goes on schedule she will reach the ice barrier in ten days, including stops at Tromsoe and King's bay for fuel.

ATTEMPT TO HALT ELEVATOR; ONE KILLED, ONE HURT

One man was killed, and another critically injured last night when they attempted to stop a runaway elevator at the fifteenth floor of the Old Colony building, 407 South Dearborn street. The dead man was Paul Sargos, 65 years old, 605 Briar place. The injured man is Ole Olson, 66, of 2107 North Kedzie avenue.

Olson, foreman of janitors, operated the lift to the fifteenth floor and stepped out. As he did, the elevator started to descend, and Sargos tried to leap into the narowing opening. He was caught. Olson attempted to rescue him, and he, too, was caught. Police were called, after other workers freed the men, and took Olson to St. Luke's hospital.

COURT ORDERS LAST DRUGGAN BREWERY SOLD

Auction of the Hoffmann Products company, 2606-18 West Monroe street, the last of the well known Druggan-Lake breweries of by-gone days, was ordered yesterday by Federal Judge E. Woodward in behalf of George Hoffmann, who has a lien of $106,855 on the property. Hoffmann's lien represents a mortgage of $98,334 plus interest and attorney's fees. He started foreclosure proceedings in the state courts several months ago and obtained a decree of sale, but was unable to collect on the property because, at the time, the government held a lien of $47,655 in unpaid corporation income tax for the year of 1924.

Federal Judge Woodward's order was received by United States Marshal H. C. Laubenheimer, who announced that he would immediately advertise the auction of the property in accordance with the law, which provides that a period of three weeks must pass after notice is given before the date of sale can be set.

ENDS LIFE WITH GAS AT 66.

THOUSANDS DIE AS RIVERS RUN WILD IN CHINA

Panic Threatened in the Wake of Floods.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PEIPING, Aug. 5.—Rushing floods from the overflown banks of the great Yangtse and Yellow rivers today rolled over sixteen provinces of central China, drowning thousands, making hundreds of thousands homeless, and spreading the possibility of famine and famine and pestilence.

More than 50,000,000 people are, or soon will be, affected by the rising waters, which are pouring into larger areas as the artery rivers, fed by swollen tributaries after days of torrential rains, continue to burst their banks at new points. Many cities have been covered with several feet of water, and bodies of the dead, unable to be buried in submerged cemeteries, are floating through the streets.

Cannot Bury Dead.

No estimates of the number drowned have been attempted, but press reports in Chinese papers say that "several thousand" have perished in the sister cities of Hankow, Wuchang, and Hanyang. These cities, with a total population of 1,300,000, including a number of white foreigners, are partly under water, and police and army forces are fighting to beat back the headwaters of the Yangtse and Han rivers.

More than 200,000 refugees from Hankow today fled to higher areas, some by railway and some by boats across the roaring rivers. The hills are covered with thousands of homeless and all are without good water, food, or shelter.

It stopped raining today and a hot sun came out, making the air thickly humid and raising a stench that forewarned of the danger of disease. Melting snow in the Himalayas is expected to add to the floods, now that the rain has ceased.

Never in modern times has the Yangtse reached such flood levels. Shipping is unable to proceed up or down, and cargoes cannot be landed because docks are either washed away or under several feet of water. Food supplies, which are carried on river boats, are in danger of perishing on the boats. The old bed of the Yellow river, which has been waterless and dry for 65 years, was rushing today with a torrent that is believed to have caught and drowned hundreds in Kiangsi province.

Messages from all parts of the country tell of terrible suffering. In Nanking 6,000 homes have been submerged and thousands of refugees are living on public charity. At Kiukiang, in Kiangsi province, famine conditions have followed the floods and peasants are selling their farm animals to get money to buy food at exorbitant prices.

Many of the safety zones where homeless refugees were rushed yesterday in boats requisitioned by the city of Hankow were in danger of being flooded today, as the river broke through dykes on the Wuchang side of the river and rose into the rolling hill country.

Mexicans Appeal for Aid.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 5.—(AP)—An urgent message for relief was received today by congressmen representing the state of San Luis Potosi, saying the town of Villa Guerrero was under six feet of water as a result of the overflowing of the Panuco and Tancuin rivers, and that the people, who have taken refuge in the hills, are in dire need of food and other supplies. Many cattle were lost, the report said, and heavy damage was done to crops.

In the state of Vera Cruz the Guayelero river overflowed, completely inundating the El Mante ranch of Gen. Calles, practically destroying the recently completed irrigation system, ruining crops and drowning most of the cattle.

The Mante river also overflowed and the swift currents of the two streams have joined to devastate a large section of the country.

EDISON IS STRONGER; CHATS WITH INSULL; DOCTOR STILL WORRIED

New York, Aug. 5.—[Special.]—Thomas A. Edison passed a pleasant day at his West Orange home and had almost an hour's chat with his friend, Samuel Insull, Chicago utilities magnate. The eighty-four year old inventor appeared strengthened by the automobile ride he took yesterday afternoon.

His physician, Dr. Hubert S. Howe, of New York City, said this morning that Mr. Edison is not yet out of danger but has shown rapid and marked improvement. He slept four hours last night, a night described by Dr. Howe as typical of Mr. Edison, whereas the eight hours' sleep on Sunday and Monday nights were most unusual.

"His condition is like the fraying out of an elevator rope," Dr. Howe observed. "The elevator functions until the last strand breaks. The outside looks all right. All that is left for the engineer to do is protect the last few strands."

Dr. Howe added that his distinguished patient "has a chance of coming out of this and living for some time," but said that his restoration to health requires careful nursing.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

CRAMER CROSSES GREENLAND ON MYSTERY FLIGHT

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 5.—News received here tonight from Iceland reported that the American aviator, Parker D. Cramer, landed unexpectedly on the East Greenland coast near Angmagsalik this afternoon. The radio word stated that he planned to continue his flight here. Word of this transatlantic flight, via Greenland, came as a surprise to Copenhagen. There had been no previous word of the flight.

Sometime ago, said the reports, Cramer deposited a $1,000 fund in Greenland for costs in connection with his flight. Definite details were lacking but his landing time at Angmagsalik was put at 1:45 p. m. [11:45 a. m. Chicago time].

Cramer had tried to follow a northern air route to Europe twice before, first in 1928 when he flew with Bert Hassel of Rockford, Ill., to Greenland and was marooned there two weeks when the plane was forced to the ice. The following year he was co-pilot, with Robert Gast, of the CHICAGO TRIBUNE ship, the 'Untin' Bowler, which was lost off the northern tip of Labrador, after battling the ice in Hudson strait.

SPONSORED IN CLEVELAND.

Word came from Cleveland last night that the Cramer flight is sponsored by the Trans-American Airline corporation, an aerial survey company. The flyer intends continuing to Denmark by way of Iceland and the Faroe islands with the desire to prove that a northern air route to Europe is navigable for mail planes.

Cramer is flying a Bellanca monoplane equipped with seaplane floats and is accompanied by an unknown radio operator, according to Cleveland reports. He left Detroit July 28 but his precise route through Canada and Labrador is unknown. This provided the mystery of the hop—the fact that a large plane could travel so many hundreds of miles, with necessary stops for fuel, yet no word of its passage seeped through from the north.

Speculate on Route.

If cable dispatches are correct, Cramer has probably accomplished a feat never performed before. He has flown over the Greenland "ice-cap," that vast and uniform snow mantle which covers this insular land-mass, with elevations of 4,000 and 8,000 feet.

Since officials of the Trans-American corporation could not be located last night, much speculation was made on the probable route of the ship. It seemed logical to presume that Cramer would chose that with which he was most familiar and his two previous flights to the region have led towards, and one over, Mount Evans, Greenland.

U. S. Interested in Flight.

His latest attempt to fly the northern route to Europe began last winter when Cramer interested E. G. Thompson, president of the Trans-American corporation, in the idea. He wished to fly the route and, if successful, attempt to interest the government in it as the ideal route for air mail to Europe, it was stated, and Thompson became absorbed in the scheme.

Recently Mr. Thompson conferred in Washington with W. Irving Glover, second assistant postmaster general and Mr. Glover said last night that the postoffice department is interested in the flight. The airline head also sought the advice of Vilhjalmar Stefansson, the arctic explorer, and of Prof. W. H. Hobbs of the University of Michigan, who has conducted scientific parties into Greenland and has headquarters at the Mount Evans observatory.

JUDGE REPLIES TO LINCOLN PARK BOARD CHARGES

Judge Leon Edelman in the Town Hall court yesterday answered the criticism made by the Lincoln park board that he had been too lenient with speeders arrested by the park policemen.

"It is the Lincoln park officials' own fault," Judge Edelman said. "They have stationed a sergeant in this court to prosecute all their arrest cases. The arresting officer never appears. I have to take the word of the defendant for the facts of the cases.

"Several months ago city policemen were ordered to appear in person to prosecute persons they had arrested. If Lincoln park policemen will come into court and prosecute their cases in the proper manner I will impose fines accordingly."

At the Lincoln park station an officer in charge said that in the future every effort will be made to see that the judge's suggestion is followed.

'ALFALFA BILL' FOR PRESIDENT BOOM IS FIZZLE

Officials Say Murray Isn't Candidate.

A spectacular presidential boom for "Alfalfa Bill" Murray, governor of Oklahoma, it was learned last night, may have been hung on a single campaign button that arrived in Chicago earlier in the day.

It came on the person of Carlton Weaver, speaker of the Oklahoma lower house, who with Senator W. G. Stigler, president pro tem of the upper chamber of the Oklahoma legislature, brought in an official commission to look over the prospects for the Century of Progress exposition and plan for Oklahoma's participation in the fair.

The delegation had not been in the city many hours when news began to spread that some mysterious and unidentified Oklahoman had said that "Alfalfa Bill" was an announced candidate for the presidency on a promise to "raise more hell than any candidate since Andy Jackson."

Officials' Feelings Hurt.

That yarn hurt the feelings of the official representatives of Oklahoma, all of whom, they said, are sincere admirers of Gov. Murray and hate to see him put in a ridiculous light.

"I never heard of Gov. Murray's announcing himself for President," said Speaker Weaver, "and I certainly should have heard it if he had made any such announcement. I am sure he hasn't done so. And I am just as confident that no member of our commission was responsible for the sensational story about his running."

The speaker was asked if it was not true that some members of the delegation had distributed buttons in Chicago bearing the words: "He Wins Your Battles! Murray for President."

Tells Story of Button.

"Why," he replied, "I had one button like that. Some one gave it to me at the statehouse just as I was leaving, and I put it on my coat. But that doesn't mean that Gov. Murray is running for the White House. One button doesn't make a President, or even a presidential candidate."

The speaker said Oklahoma will be represented in the new World's Fair "to the extent of our financial ability and our brain power."

Governor's Father Dies.

Bethany, Okla., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Urian D. T. Murray, 91 year old father of Gov. W. H. Murray, died in his home here tonight of influenza after a week's illness.

Yellow Tom Purs His Gratitude for Operation

Tom, the yellow-streaked and unhandsome cat who hangs out in Haffner's drug store, 1358 Devon avenue, drank an eggnog yesterday and was reported on his way to recovery. Tom stayed out late Monday night and returned the next day with a broken lower jaw and some teeth missing. Two of his friends—Dr. Bertram Fitzgerald, a physician, and Dr. William Grabow, a dentist—administered ether, set the jaw, and added a few teeth. Yesterday Tom was purring his thanks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VALPARAISO, Chile, Aug. 5.—Hundreds of Chileans, including aristocrats and society folk of both sexes, are fleeing over the Andes by rail and northward by steamer as the result of a threat by congress to publish a list of spies employed during the regime of the deposed President Ibañez. Fifty of these persons have applied at the American consulate alone for passport visas.

It was revealed today that the former dictator spent $20,000,000 to create a vast social espionage system. The spies lured at least 1,000 prominent citizens, including doctors, judges, and editors, into conversations in which the Ibañez régime was denounced, and then betrayed their victims. The latter were sent to prison and exile.

Demand Navy Probe.

Simultaneously, the national press today began clamoring for an investigation of British contracts with the Chilean navy by which, it is alleged, $100,000,000 was spent for an excessive number of destroyers and submarines. This sum included $12,000,000 for modernization of the battleship Almirante Latorre. The newspaper El Mercurio today said:

"While the mayor of Plymouth, England, was thanking Chile for providing work for 5,000 dockmen for two years, at least twice that number of jobless Chileans were starving."

Presidential Vote Oct. 4.

At noon today Vice President Montero signed a decree fixing the presidential elections for Oct. 4. There appears to be little doubt that the assurances of the radical former president, Arturo Alessandri, recently returned from exile, that he does not intend to reënter public life, were platonic in character, and that he will figure as a popular candidate in the approaching elections. He will certainly have Montero as a formidable opponent.

At present no other names are seriously considered, although it is generally held that the Conservative leader, Errazuriz, would have a large following should he run.

ALLEGES HUGE SMUGGLING OF ALIENS RACKET

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—The unearthing in New York City of "one of the largest rackets ever operating within the United States," by which thousands of aliens had entered the country illegally, was announced today by Secretary of Labor Doak. In the last week ten men involved in the conspiracy have been arrested.

The labor department believes that it has exposed the backbone of the largest vice ring in the country, and investigation into its ramifications is to continue in New York and other cities, Mr. Doak said. Those taken into custody are charged with operating through certain employés of the labor department's immigration and naturalization service to obtain bogus alien reëntry permits which they sold to foreigners.

The arrests thus far followed that of Simon Rothberg, a clerk in the immigration service at the New York barge office. The other men through whom the racketeers are alleged to operate are Edward Burns and Albert F. Borrelli, both of the naturalization service.

Secretary Doak said that evidence had been obtained showing that within the last ten years more than 100,000 aliens had illegally entered the country. One contract has been disclosed, said Mr. Doak, whereby a number of foreigners paid $1,850 each for the counterfeit reëntry permits.

HOLD TWO MEN, HUNT WOMAN IN DEATH OF GIRL

Early yesterday two men drove up before the home of Mrs. Caroline Popek, 1813 West 21st place and carried into the house the body of Mrs. Popek's half sister, Miss Josephine Ververka, 20 years old, 2030 Coulter street. The two men fled immediately. Examination by a coroner's physician disclosed that Miss Ververka apparently had died following an illegal operation.

Upon information furnished by Mrs. Popek, Sergt. William Tourek raided the home of Mrs. Cecelia Stajskal, 725 West North avenue, a midwife. She was missing, but they took her husband, Anton, 59 years old, into custody.

Mrs. Popek and another sister, Mrs. Ella Stanek, with whom Miss Ververka lived, identified Stajskal as one of the men who had abandoned the body. He denied any knowledge of the affair. Leonard Popek, 30 years old, husband of Mrs. Popek, was held for questioning.

"Bomb" Excites Police; Just Bottle of Home Brew

Several policemen rushed up to the sergeant's desk in the South State street station yesterday, demanding: "Where's the bomb?" Desk Sergeant James Nugent pointed to a bursted bottle of home brew, being held as evidence.

DEAN OF DETROIT JUDICIARY ENDS LIFE IN DESPAIR

Bond Firm He Headed Is Under Scrutiny.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 5.—[Special.] Alfred J. Murphy, 63, dean of the Wayne Circuit court judges, shot himself this forenoon at his home on fashionable Seminole avenue. He died two hours later.

Judge Murphy left a statement saying that six months of sleepless nights and anguished days, dating from the time he learned of wrong doings and betrayals on the part of his close associates in the Federal Bond and Mortgage company, had made life a burden too great to bear. He was president of the concern, now in receivership with its deals being investigated by a federal grand jury.

The statement, signed with a firm hand, and apparently written last night was found by David H. Crowley, attorney for Judge Murphy. It said in part:

"Six months of sleepless nights and worried days have sapped my strength and left me useless.

No Future for Him.

"I can see no future for me. To end the bodily function is only to release the spirit to its own sphere.

"Robert Louis Stevenson's words might well be written of me, 'Here lies one who meant well, tried a little, failed much.'"

Petitions for a grand jury investigation of the affairs of the Federal Bond and Mortgage company were filed June 25. Affidavits charged that it was the practice of the company to underwrite Detroit apartment houses, issue first mortgage bonds against the mortgage, discharge the mortgages without retiring the bonds, change the names of the apartment houses and then issue new bonds against the same properties.

It was also alleged that the company formed the Allied Properties corporation and issued $1,250,000 in debenture notes against properties that were already covered by "two so-called first mortgages."

Federal Court Acts.

The Detroit Trust company had been appointed receiver for the company in May and on June 26 Federal Judge Ernest A. O'Brien, on petition of the trust company, issued an order for the examination of the present and former officers and employés of the company.

Judge Murphy was held in affectionate esteem by two generations of Detroiters. His first period on the Circuit bench as a Democrat was from 1906 to 1919. In the latter year he resigned to appear as counsel for Henry Ford in his libel suit against THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Later he ran on the Republican ticket and was re-elected to the Circuit bench.

WHITE HOUSE DENIES IT'S HUNTING AUTHOR OF 'MIRRORS OF 1932'

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—The White House today characterized as "ridiculous" the statement that President Hoover had asked the secret service to find out who wrote "Mirrors of 1932," a book dealing with the President, presidential aspirants in both major political parties, and with leaders in politics and society.

At the same time, James L. West, publicity director for the Republican national committee, confirmed the report that he had refused to turn over to the publishers of the book a mailing list of Republican editors who might be circularized on its contents. To a letter from George P. Putnam, publisher of the book, Mr. West wrote:

"We are unable to oblige you, as the Republican national committee desires to have no part in the circulation of mail, the authors of which have not the courage to attach their names thereto."

In his turn, Mr. Putnam came back, according to letters made public today, by remarking: "If, in your opinion, anonymity in the exposure of sham and stupidity in high place is to be condemned, may I inquire whether the Republican national committee has ever disavowed or repudiated the anonymous and abortive attempt to defeat Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska in 1930—a movement which, as I recall, included circulation in the west of thousands of anonymous, slanderous, and false documents."

NEGRO RENTERS' STRIKE INCITED BY COMMUNISTS

Ministers Open Fight on Red Propaganda.

reluctance of the landlords to evict," said Bailiff Horan. "My bailiffs report that 60 per cent of the evicted Negroes are repeaters. By that I mean that the tenants, when put out of one dwelling, will look around the block for the nearest vacant flat, break the locks and move in.

"Although they are without lights, gas, or water, the squatters remain in their new quarters until evicted again, when they find another vacant flat or are reinstated by the communists. Under these conditions the landlords are willing to waive the rent to keep their properties occupied."

Communists Berate Clergy.

At their nightly meeting in Washington park last night some 500 communists heard the clergy berated by Fred Stewart, Negro chairman of the meeting. Stewart criticised the ministers for barring radical speakers.

"Of course the ministers didn't accomplish anything," he said. "You don't expect a preacher to accomplish anything. They barred the only ones who might have helped them. I was barely able to get in myself. They made one sensible suggestion—the rent moratorium. If Washington can declare a debt moratorium, Chicago ought to be able to declare a rent moratorium."

Another speaker, Justo F. De Lanoso, who described himself as a Spaniard and a graduate of Oxford university and the University of Moscow, advocated a buyers' strike to strengthen the renters' strike.

"Instead of permitting vicious police to decimate our ranks with bullets, let us strike at the economic situation," he said. "Let's refuse to pay all our bills. Let us exercise our suffrage. To hell with charity!"

CROWD AT RIOT INQUEST

Three colored and three white men were on the jury impaneled by Coroner Bundesen to hear the testimony concerning the riot deaths. The inquest opened before a crowd which packed the county morgue and overflowed into the corridor. Four police squads were on hand to maintain order.

M. J. Kolliner, 1315 Madison Park, agent for the dwelling at 5016 South Dearborn street where the trouble began over eviction of a Negro tenant, testified that he saw no revolvers openly displayed by any of the Negroes. Upon his declaration that he was unable to identify any of the participants, either among the police or Negroes, Kolliner was dismissed from the stand.

Lieut. John J. Hardy, having been in the thick of the fighting, plunged into a vivid account of the riot. As he and two patrolmen drove up to the edge of the mob in response to a riot call from two frightened bailiffs, a hail of stones and a crackle of gun fire came from nearby buildings, he said, and the crowd set up the cry, "Kill the cops and burn the building."

Hostility Surprises Police.

"The ugliness of the crowd took us by surprise," said Lieut. Hardy. "In the last few weeks bailiffs serving eviction notices had encountered hostility, but on the arrival of a few policemen the crowds had invariably dispersed quietly."

From the testimony of other policemen it developed that the usual group of sympathetic neighbors had collected when the bailiffs evicted Mrs. Diana Gross, 72 year old widow, and that violence broke out only after an unidentified courier for the Council of Unemployed had recruited a mob from the communist meeting in Washington park.

That racial antagonism played no part in the clash was demonstrated by the testimony of Fred Graham, colored, one of three policemen who accompanied Lieut. Hardy to the scene of disorder. Patrolmen Patrick McFadden and Harry S. Lyon were the others.

Tells of Shooting Rioter.

"As we stepped out of the patrol wagon some one struck McFadden with a brick and grabbed his gun," Patrolman Graham testified. "This man was pointing the weapon at me when I fired, killing him. It was O'Neal, I afterwards learned."

Sergt. John Bush, who had led police reinforcements, declared he was knocked down, kicked and stoned. Patrolman McFadden, who suffered a skull fracture, and Patrolman Martin Ernst, who was slashed by a razor, were unable to testify, still being in Mercy hospital.

Patrolman Lyon, who dodged his way out of the mob and raced to the station for reinforcements, said he returned to find twenty men stamping and kicking Patrolman Ernst. He and Patrolman William Jordan were forging through the mob to help Ernst when the Negro afterwards identified as Abe Grey wrested away Lyon's gun, the policeman said. His fellow policeman, Jordan, reached over his shoulder and shot Grey in the head, Lyon said.

Calls for Negro Witnesses.

With the police version of the battle complete, the coroner called for witnesses from among the 21 Negroes arrested in connection with the riot. Timothy Jones, Marion Watkins and Joseph Gardner, named by the police as leaders of the mob, were brought forward. Jones took the stand.

Attorney David J. Bentall, retained by the council of unemployed to represent the prisoners, stepped forward with the suggestion that the witness could not comprehend the questions asked him. The coroner agreed, and Jones was dismissed from the stand.

Watkins and Gardner seemed equally bewildered by the coroner's statements and were dismissed from the stand when Bentall announced they did not wish to testify. Thereupon the inquest was continued pending the recovery of Policemen McFadden and Ernst.

WORLD HAS SAND IN ITS BEARINGS, SHAW DECLARES

Russia Runs Smoothly, Playwright Says.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 5.—George Bernard Shaw today told the Independent Labor party's summer school at Welwyn, Hertfordshire, that while the capitalist world was working with sand in its bearings soviet Russia's bearings were well oiled with the sweet harmony of cooperation and with the conviction that the workers there would get back what they put into their jobs. Mr. Shaw declared:

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW.

"Here, at last, is a country which is established on socialism, has definitely made socialism the basis of its whole political system, and has definitely thrown over private property and turned it back on capitalism.

Hails Five Year Plan.

"It has succeeded in establishing and conducting industry successfully, has been full of surprises to all parties. The first thing I discovered was that its socialism is Fabian, although I did not tell the soviets that.

"We need the five year plan here very badly; they need it in America. In Russia they say, 'Put your back into it and take short wages,' but what would the British workman say if you told him that? The workers in Russia know that what they put into their work they will get back."

Mr. Shaw declared that Russian social conditions practically did away with privacy.

"You would understand it very well if you were a sailor in the royal navy," he said. "The Russians never seem to me to sleep less than three in a room.

Murder Is Cheap.

"Russia is distinctly a religious country. When we said the Third International was a church, some people gasped, but it is true. They have a system which is hell-fire proof. Capital punishment has been abolished in Russia, and you can commit murder on very favorable terms—the average sentence is four years. For a very bad murder you might get five years, or for an unusually cruel slaying you might have a fatal accident somewhere. Of course there is shooting for political offenses. That is very difficult for us to understand."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA, Aug. 5.—What is claimed to be the world's record sailfish was caught in Pearl island waters yesterday by William B. Gray, a member of George Vanderbilt's Miami yachting party, engaged in taking motion pictures of undersea life in the tropics. The monster was landed after a battle of one hour and ten minutes. It measures 10 feet 8 inches and weighs 180 pounds.

REVEAL RUSSIAN PLOT FOR WORLD TRADE OFFENSIVE

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Police today released 49 employés of Inyamtorg, the Russian trading organization here, about sixty others were held.

Authorities said the investigation into the organization, the headquarters of which were recently raided, was advancing, although the difficulty of decoding seized messages was proving considerable.

Among the documents, police said, was the outline of a worldwide commercial offensive, combined with a vast cultural, political, and social plan. This document, attributed by the police to the soviet government, suggested the creation of Russian social clubs directed by persons able to propagandize through newspapers and lectures.

U. S. DRYS RAID STORE SELLING GRAPE BRICKS

Three Men Are Arrested in Test Case.

New York, Aug. 5.—[Special.—The Fifth avenue store of the Vino Sano Distributors, Inc., where grape bricks have been sold, was raided today by agents of Andrew McCampbell, prohibition administrator.

The raid, made as a test case, followed the recent renewal of requests from Fred A. Victor, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, to Attorney General Mitchel, that the courts be asked to test the legality of the sale of grape concentrates.

The grape bricks, like other wine concentrates, are fermentable when diluted with water, but since they can be used as pure grape juices before fermentation alcohol by volume.

Made as Test Raid.

The raid was the first of its kind to have been made in this district against sellers of grape concentrates on the charge that the sale was in violation of the prohibition law.

Three men arrested in the store, which has been crowded with customers since the new brick type of concentrate received publicity several days ago, were booked on a charge of selling a product which contained more than ½ of 1 per cent alcohol by volume.

The bricks, however, according to Charles W. Shenk, eastern district manager of the company, which has headquarters in California, contain no alcohol whatever, being merely the concentrated essence of California grapes.

Buy Before Arrests.

The agents, acting under a warrant signed by Francis A. O'Neill, United States commissioner, entered the store and after purchasing bricks seized the entire supply, consisting of about 140 cases, each containing twenty-four bricks.

Hundreds of onlookers watched the agents remove the stock from the store. The prisoners included Mr. Shenk, John Skiff, and Charles McDonald.

All day hundreds of customers had been pouring in and out of the store giving orders to men and women clerks and walking out with their brick, which are each the size of a pound print of butter and which are guaranteed, when added to water, to produce beverages of types ranging from Burgundy to champagne.

Earlier in the day Commissioner O'Neill had issued warrants on the statement of prohibition agents that they had received instructions from salesmen of the store on how to make wine with the bricks.

101 RANCH SHOW TOUR HALTED BY HOT WEATHER

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Weeks of playing in a tent under a hot sun that drove the temperature upward and the customers away today brought to an end the summer tour of the 101 Ranch Wild West show.

Although some of the 425 employés and "stars" said they were stranded in the capital and had not been paid for eight weeks, Charles T. Boulware, manager, disagreed, but said some salary payments were delinquent. The show will remain in Washington for a benefit performance tomorrow night sponsored by the American Legion.

Troubles of the show were laid to a succession of hot summer days, the temperature within the tent climbing to as high as 113 degrees, with consequent poor attendance.

J. P. ASSERTS HIS DRINKING PROVES BEER WAS NEAR

A dispute in quantitative chemistry arose yesterday between the United States government and William Roulo, police magistrate of the town of Alsip, near Blue Island, when the latter was arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker. The controversy concerns the potency that beer may possess and still be classified as near and legal.

The justice of the peace and his two daughters, Mildred, 22, and Olive, 18, were charged with possession and sale of intoxicating liquor. Mr. Roulo contended that the beer sold by his daughters at the Schoolhouse inn, 123d street and Cicero avenue, was harmless near beer.

"I have drunk plenty of it and I ought to know. This is a frame up," said Mr. Roulo.

Against this evidence there was the official report of the government chemist, whose analysis of the beer purchased by two prohibition agents shows an alcoholic content of 3.82 per cent. This is exactly 3.32 per cent more than the alcoholic content permitted by the Volstead act, but Mr. Roulo was not swayed from his contention that the beer was near.

The affidavit on which Commissioner Walker issued a search warrant for the place stated that two dry agents bought three glasses of beer from the girls on July 18. The place was raided on Tuesday night, and two and one-half barrels of beer, as yet not analyzed, were seized.

"I bought that place for my girls the first of July," said Mr. Roulo. "I had nothing to do with the operation of it, but I know they were not selling real beer. It was only near beer. Furthermore, it'll be a fine thing if you put anything about this in the paper."

Besides his official duties as a police magistrate, Mr. Roulo is tax collector for the town of Worth, where he lives. He and his daughters were released by Commissioner Walker in bonds of $500 each pending a hearing on Aug. 12.

PORTO RICO WON'T OBEY DRY LAW, HOOVER IS TOLD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—The impossibility of enforcing prohibition in Porto Rico was called to the attention of President Hoover by Felix Cordova Davila, resident commissioner in congress, during a White House interview on island conditions with the chief executive. The Porto Rico representative advised the President that he would make an attempt to give the Porto Rican people an opportunity to vote again on the wet and dry question, so they could decide for themselves what they wanted.

FELIX CORDOVA DAVILA.

The Davila appeal for a reopening of the prohibition question served to recall the futile efforts made by representative groups from the Virgin islands last winter to obtain congressional modification of the dry laws as they affected those islands. The Virgin Islands asserted that prohibition was one of the big causes for their economic woes.

Following his talk to the President, Mr. Davila asserted that a vote on prohibition in Porto Rico would show an overwhelming majority of the people against the dry laws. He asserted that long years of experience had demonstrated the impossibility of enforcing prohibition in a community where liquor can be obtained easily from the neighboring islands of the West Indies. The dry law never has been enforced, according to the resident commissioner.

"We have wet islands in the West Indies close by," Mr. Davila said in illustrating the difficulties of strict dry enforcement. "It is very easy to smuggle in liquor from those countries. It is impossible to prevent smuggling. There is no place, proportionate to its size, where more liquor is sold. The result is that bootleggers thrive while the island is deprived of the millions in revenues which could be obtained in taxes if prohibition was not in effect. Commissioner Davila stressed the revenue advantages which would accrue if prohibition was done away with.

"We have a budget of $11,000,000 in Porto Rico. That is the amount of expenditures for which we must raise taxes on the islands. If prohibition is abolished we would be able to raise $4,000,000 in taxes."

Claims It Is a Hindrance.

"Prohibition in Porto Rico," he said, "is unnecessary and a burden to the people in that it deprives us of needed revenue. I am going to urge congress at its coming session to give Porto Rico another opportunity to vote on prohibition."

Mr. Davila stated that the 18th amendment of the federal constitution was never intended to apply to Porto Rico and that only the Volstead act applies there.

EUROPE'S SUPER SWINDLERS MEET AGAIN, IN CHAINS

French Court Questions Money Wizards.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MENTON, France, Aug. 5.—With all the pomp of a meeting between two chiefs of state, two of the most picturesque swindlers in modern time, Albert Oustric, former café waiter, and Richard Gualino, super-Fascist financier, solemnly confronted each other before justice here today to clear up certain points about their pranks which cost investors $56,000,000 in France alone.

The little yellow border station at Menton, just a few yards from the glimmering Mediterranean, was the scene of the encounter. The stage has been set for weeks and the tiny station was surrounded by gendarmes, republican guards and Swiss chasseurs, who held back an eager crowd of reporters, camera men and news reel operators.

Both Come from Prison.

Gualino was transported under heavy guard from the distant Lipari islands, where he is doing five years "confino" for his misdeeds, and Oustric was brought down from the Paris home for wayward bankers—St. Lazaire prison—where he has been incarcerated since last fall, when his fantastic pyramid of superholding companies crashed with $56,000,000 loss.

Oustric, who is still under middle age, started from nothing as a waiter in a Toulouse café and became the super-Ponzi of France. He bought one of the oldest and strongest banks and controlled one of the biggest French automobile plants, as well as several other industrial concerns, but they were just feeders for his enormous holding companies built out of thin air.

His crash started a financial panic throughout France, led to the overthrow of the Tardieu government, forced Raoul Peret, former minister of justice, out of political life, and brought along with him other leading parliamentarians before the high court for trial.

Use Officials in Frauds.

Gualino, who was arrested and deported last winter, was "loaned" to French justice by the Italian government to help the French parliamentary investigating committee clear up some of the details of the mysterious transaction by which senators and deputies, ministers, and diplomats were used as pawns in the game of financial hocus pocus.

Gualino was one of the chief backers of Premier Mussolini's putsch, and was president of the powerful Banca Commerciale Italiana and noted as owner of a great racing stable and one of the world's finest art collections.

Gualino arrived at Garavan a couple of days ago attired in the pink of fashion, looking as if he had just come from taking the cure at some swanky spa, and has since lived in elegance at one of the ritziest hotels in town.

Oustric Is Poor Now.

Oustric, on the contrary, was a shabby, broken forelorn figure. He was brought down, handcuffed, by second class carriage and lodged in an improvised cell in one of the store rooms of the station.

The actual meeting of the two men in front of the judges today was dramatic, but fizzled from a judicial standpoint, owing to Gualino's refusal to talk. Both men accepted full responsibility for their respective parts in the financial crash, but Gualino, with Fascist dignity, politely explained that his government would not let him come to Paris to appear as a witness in open court, and that he could not say much for fear of incriminating himself.

Former Tong Chief Freed of Murder Plot Charges

Lester Lee, 40 years old, former president of the Hip Sing tong, and two secretaries, Lee Loy, 57 years old, and Alfred Young, 36 years old, were acquitted by Judge Philip Finnegan in the Criminal court yesterday of charges of conspiracy to murder Chin Kong Gen, wealthy Chinese merchant who was shot and killed on June 7, 1930. The three were indicted on testimony given by Lee Chuck, who admitted to the court yesterday that he had perjured himself when he appeared before the grand jury. Following his admission the judge discharged the three Chinese and held Chuck to the grand jury in $5,000 bonds on a charge of perjury.

ROSENBERG CHAUFFEUR IS FREED; POLICEMAN TO BE PUT ON TRIAL

Policeman Joseph J. Hahn, who on Tuesday night arrested Horace Mealing, colored chauffeur for Moe Rosenberg, Democratic committeeman of the 24th ward, found himself in trouble yesterday after a hearing of the case before Municipal Judge Borelli. The policeman had tried to enforce the parking law violated by the politician's chauffeur.

Judge Borelli dismissed the charges against Mealing of violating a traffic law and resisting an officer and issued a warrant against the policeman for assault because he hit Mealing on the head with his revolver. Hahn demanded a jury trial, which was set for Aug. 21.

The altercation started when Mealing stopped Rosenberg's car at a fire plug in front of the Hotel Sherman and refused to move. Hahn arrested the chauffeur, and, when he refused to drive to the station, struck him with his gun. Hahn said Mealing "made a swing" at him. This the chauffeur denied. Hahn admitted that he acted hastily in using his gun, but said he was angered because he thought the chauffeur was using political pull in deliberately refusing to obey the parking law.

Ald. Jacob Arvey [24th] defended Mealing in court. During the hearing both he and Judge Borelli cross-questioned Hahn closely concerning his actions. Mealing told his story in a few words and was then released, although there was no apparent effort to dispute the charges that he had violated a traffic regulation and resisted a policeman. Both Arvey and Rosenberg admitted that he may "technically" have violated the traffic law by stopping at the fire plug.

BEER IN SWEDEN PASSES DRINKING TEST—W. E. HULL

Tries Six Bottles, but Nothing Happens.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 5.—Swedish beer is not intoxicating. You can take the word of Congressman William E. Hull of Peoria, Ill., for that, and he ought to know, for he has just finished conducting a personal drinking test there.

"I drank six bottles of Swedish beer on an empty stomach, while doing my research work," he said today, upon arriving here from Sweden, "and I have an affidavit from a prominent physician that I did not feel any effect."

Congressman Hull has spent several weeks in Norway, Sweden and other European countries, studying the liquor problem, and was as warm in his praises of the plan adopted by Sweden as he was in denunciation of prohibition in the United States.

Would End Bootlegging.

"It is a pity that we have to tolerate conditions in America as they are now," he declared. "A law like the Swedish plan would do away with the bootlegger, who makes beer for $3.50 a barrel and sells it for $50. And the bootlegger will continue to reap that big profit al song as the people allow it. We should give our people pure food, and drink that is not intoxicating.

"After studying the liquor laws in half a dozen countries, I have come to the conclusion that the Bratt liquor control plan in Sweden is perhaps the best plan now in action. This Swedish plan prevents any one from using more than four liters [approximately four and a half quarts] of hard liquor a month, but it gives the citizens all the wines they want. Beer containing 3.2 per cent alcohol by weight is sent directly to a house at $1.07 per case of 25 short pints.

"Stockholm has 20 restaurants for laboring men where cheap meals and liquor can be bought.

Sees No Drunkenness.

"I went through factories and homes galore. I found no drunkenness, and I am convinced that the Bratt liquor control law is the best in the world.

"If it were not for the eighteenth amendment it would be advisable to introduce this system in America, and it could easily be carried out to a success. I believe the people in the United States should ask their congressmen to allow the manufacture of this 3.2 per cent beer."

diet. It has always been said that "whoever controls Prussia controls the reich," and antagonists to the Bruening government are uniting their forces to throw out the diet and thus bring about new elections and possibly overthrow the Prussian government.

The referendum was demanded by the Nationalist Steel Helmet organization. A majority of 13,500,000 Prussian voters must approve the project if it is to be carried. Until recently it was thought to be impossible to raise such a majority against the government, but the Steel Helmet men have found unexpected support from the communists, their mortal enemies, and there is a possibility now that the diet may be forced to dissolve under popular demand.

N. Y. Banks Agree on Policy.

New York, Aug. 5.—[Special.]—Representatives of all the leading New York banks, meeting at the federal reserve bank of New York today, agreed upon a reply to be sent to the reichsbank in response to the proposals for handling outstanding American short term credits in Germany, which amount to about $600,000,000, cabled her last Thursday by Dr. Mans Luther, the president.

Details of the understanding arrived at by the New York banks were not made public, but a statement given out by F. Abbot Goodhue, president of the International Acceptance Bank, Inc., and chairman of the subcommittee of four delegated to study the German proposals, stated that "real progress had been made" and that "the general plan is along lines of President Hoover's suggestions adopted at the recent London conference."

"Will Take Some Time."

He added, however, that "it will probably take some time to iron out these technicalities."

The American reply suggests certain modifications of the German proposals and deals with a number of technical and legal questions raised by bankers here. Together with the replies received by the reichsbank from British and continental bankers, it will provide the German authorities with an understanding of how Germany's foreign short-term creditors would like to see the problem of that country's short-dated debt handled in the present emergency.

Men accustomed to only the Best come to us because we have never reduced Quality. Untiring devotion to Betterments wherever possible is foremost in the Principles of our Business for we realize that the true value of any Merchandise is measured by that degree to which it fulfills the desire of the purchaser.

FIND CITY PAID WCFL POWER BILL FOR 5 YEARS

Officials Act to Collect from Labor Station.

Mayor Cermak's economy operations have administered a financial shock to the Chicago Federation of Labor and its radio station, WCFL, located on the Navy pier.

The mayor's appointees at the pier, it was learned yesterday, have discovered that for five years WCFL without authority used city current for broadcasting. The wires supplying the city's needs at the pier were cut into and the city has been paying the whole bill.

Put Meter on Station.

These facts called attention to reports that the public dances conducted by WCFL on the pier may have been paying the salaries of some of the studio employés although it was specified that the dances were not to be for profit.

The one definite step taken by Mayor Cermak to cure the situation has been to have a meter put in on the broadcasting machinery and to direct that bills covering that cost in the future be collected promptly.

The city administration also is considering ways and means of collecting for the current used during the last five years. It is expected the matter will be taken up for negotiation with representatives of the broadcasting studio, and if this means of settlement does not succeed that suit will be started and Corporation Counsel Bostos will be instructed to begin proceedings to oust WCFL from both its radio and dancing privileges.

Estimate Bill at $15,000.

City employés say it is difficult to estimate how much electricity has been used in five years during which the operation of the station has varied from time to time. But radio engineers say that the monthly bill probably would have averaged $300, so that the city may present a claim of $15,000 or $18,000 when it demands payment.

It was John J. Meyers, now superintendent of the pier, who discovered what had been going on out there. For a short time he was acting as harbormaster and while holding that office reported his discoveries to Commissioner of Public Works Quigley and Mayor Cermak.

WCFL's city contract for its broadcasting station was granted by council order on July 26, 1928. The station was to pay $1 a year for its space in the north tower at the east end of the pier, but the lessee agreed to pay for all electricity it used. So far as Controller Szymczak's office can ascertain there has been no payment for electricity.

Holds Dance Contract.

The contract was renewed for another five year period in March, just before the last administration left office. In addition to this grant the station has a five year exclusive concession for the use of the pier dance hall six nights a week. It charges admission fees of 25 cents for women and 40 cents for men.

Whether there is truth to reports that some of the employés whose activities are in connection with the radio station receive their compensation from the dance receipts has not been determined, but it is thought that the admission charges at least pay about $300 a night for the WCFL dance orchestra which provides music for the radio.

SCHOOL BOARD OFFERS SCRIP IN $10 UNITS

The board of education announced yesterday that it would make scrip available in $10 denominations in the belief that the smaller paper would find a better market. But it became known that scrip in any denomination was becoming harder to dispose of.

Several large corporation, particularly the power and gas companies, have previously permitted the purchase of an article as low as 35 cents and paid the balance of a $35 paper in money. Large numbers of school employés availed themselves of this privilege. Some employés, it was reported, visited an outlying branches of the companies buying 50 cent flashlights, one dollar curling irons and toasters and other small items, cashing a new certificate each time.

The new ruling of the companies is that 70 per cent of the scrip must be spent on a purchase. Bills may still be paid in scrip.

It became known yesterday that Nate DeLue, appointed to the board by the former administration as a "real estate expert," had lost his $3,500 a year job as a result of the economy program.

CITY TO PAY OVERDUE WAGES FROM CHECK FROM PHONE COMPANY

City employes will get their overdue pay checks this afternoon or tomorrow as a result of the payment to the city by the Illinois Bell Telephone company of $4,759,709 in back compensation, which became due with the passage of the new telephone franchise ordinance.

The company will turn its check over to the city this morning. Of the sum paid, $4,454,864 represents compensation due for the period from Jan. 9, 1929, to March 31 of this year, and the remainder, $304,845, interest at 6 per cent.

Approximately $3,000,000 will be needed to meet pay rolls, some of which have been due for a month. The remainder of the money will meet pay rolls until Aug. 15, City Controller Szymczak said.

JUDGE FREES 3 HELD ON CHARGES OF GUN TOTING

Three alleged hoodlums arraigned on charges of carrying concealed weapons were freed by Municipal Judge Francis Borelli yesterday. The judge cited a Supreme court ruling that weapons under the rear seat of an automobile are "inaccessible" to those in front. Sergt. Patrick McShane of the detective bureau, who found the guns, searched the car illegally, Judge Borrelli held.

The defendants were Joseph Carideo, 7146 South May street; Frank Fleming, 1065 South Ashland avenue, and Sam Hirsch, 3927 West Adams street.

A charge of receiving stolen property in the case of Carideo was not pressed by Assistant State's Attorney Russell W. Root. The revolver in his possession had been stolen from a policeman four years ago.

LETS DOWN SHOULDER STRAP TO GET SUN TAN; SHE'S JAILED, FINED

New York, Aug. 5.—[Special.]—For having let down one shoulder strap for the avowed purpose of getting a more expansive sun tan, Sylvia Meyer was hauled post haste off the Coney Island beach today, arraigned before Magistrate Steers in Coney Island court and, lacking a $5 fine, was hustled in a "Black Maria" to jail. There, lined up with an assortment of other "criminals," she was duly fingerprinted and registered as a prisoner for a day.

Despite Miss Meyer's tears and indignation, Magistrate Steers agreed with the arresting patrolman that she had violated a recently tightened municipal ordinance against nudity on the city's beaches, Coney Island not excepted, and gave her the alternative of $5 or one day.

EXTEND TIME ON PLAN TO REOPEN A CLOSED BANK

State Auditor Oscar Nelson yesterday granted a depositors' committee of the Garfield State bank, 4010 West Madison street, an extension to next Monday to present a reorganization plan to permit reopening of the bank without a receivership. Officers and directors of the institution, failing to obtain the $1,200,000 of new capital believed essential for reopening, abandoned their reorganization effort several days ago.

The New York Life Insurance company has filed suit in Superior court to foreclose its mortgage of $1,750,000 on the building of the Sheridan Trust and Savings bank, 4753 Broadway. The bank, now in receivership, owns the Sheridan Safe Deposit company, which holds title to the building. The insurance company sets forth that the bank is in default on interest payments.

BOARD IS GIVEN PLAN TO ASSESS VACANT LANDS

Dr. Simpson Puts All in Three Classes.

Dr. H. D. Simpson, research professor in land economics at Northwestern university, yesterday gave the board of assessors a set of preliminary recommedations for for the assessment of vacant lands in Cook county in the 1931 quadrennial reassessment, now being started by the assessors.

DR. H. D. SIMPSON.

Dr. Simpson recommended that vacant lands be divided into three classifications: Urban lands, to be assessed on their actual value; subdivision lands, to be assessed on a basis of long term investments, taking into account the probable growth of population, the available area of land suitable for taking care of that growth and similar factors, and all other lands, to be assessed wholly on the basis of agricultural land.

Finds "Wide Differences."

A survey by himself and John E. Burton disclosed "wide differences" between the real value and assessed value of some of the land in outlying townships of Cook county, Dr. Simpson said. He will make a formal report to the assessors on the subject at a later date.

A petition for a writ of mandamus directed against the members of the board of review was filed in the Circuit court yesterday by Attorneys John Irving Pierce and Morris D. Benjamin on behalf of Harry S. Swanstrom, 10724 Calumet avenue, member of a taxpayers' association.

Asks Equal Assessment.

The petition charges that the board of assessors failed to assess personal property on the same basis as real estate and asks that the board of review be directed to equalize assessments on the two classes of property.

County Attorney Hayden N. Bell and Roy Massena, attorney for the board of review, said after reading the petition that they were unable to determine what the petitioner wanted, but that they would file a demurrer to it to prevent any delay in completion of the assessment process and the collection of 1930 taxes.

Conroy Answers Jacobs.

John E. Conroy, member and secretary of the board of assessors, issued a statement yesterday in reply to the charges of J. L. Jacobs, county efficiency engineer, and Harry S. Cutmore, former director of appraisals for the board, that the shortage of funds for completion of the 1931 reassessment is due to the assessors' practice, earlier this year, of filling their office with inefficient political pay rollers.

He charged that the transfers of funds, which reduced the fund for hiring technical help for the reassessment by $34,034 before the reassessment actually started, were made at the request of Cutmore and approved by Jacobs. Cutmore had previously stated that the withdrawals were made by the assessors without his indorsement, and were used for hiring pay rollers out of the extra and overtime fund.

Romances Wrecked, Renewed, and Climaxed in Hollywood

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 5.—(AP)—He had things thrown at him in the movies, but it was no fun when his wife struck him with a bronze elephant, Bert Roach, rotund film comedian, testified in Superior court. "She told me she wanted to be free," said Roach. His divorce petition was granted.

Mae Murray entered the dismissal of her divorce action against Prince David M'dvani, which was filed at the courthouse last Saturday. Miss Murray issued a statement saying that the priest who had married them, had effected a reconciliation. She said, "We are now and always have been madly in love with each other. Perhaps that is the root of our trouble. David was jealous of my work and career, saying they took me away from him." In her divorce complaint she accused the prince of the Georgian Caucasus of punching her and knocking her down.

Dashiell Hammett, screen and mystery story writer, was sued for $36,700 by Eliss De Viane, film actress, because of injuries she alleges he inflicted upon her with his fists. During a disagreement last July 14 he struck her many blows on the head and face, she charges.

John Stahl, motion picture director, and Roxanna MacGowan, actress, will marry as soon as he completes a film now in production, he said. Miss MacGowan is the divorced wife of Albert Ray, a director.

Bull Montana, wrestler, boxer, and film character actor, commented when he married Mrs. Mary Matthews Poulson, a Dallas, Tex., divorcée, in 1929, that love has "thrown me for a fall." Montana, a native of Italy, whose real name is Louis, was defendant in a divorce suit. Mrs. Montana charged the actor quarreled with her.

Yola D'Averil, French film actress, was sued for divorce by Edward Ward, her husband of nine months. Ward charges the actress with drinking.

WRIT GRANTED TO RESTRAIN RENO DIVORCE ACTION

Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude yesterday granted an injunction restraining a mother and son from proceeding with court action in Reno, Nev., where the latter is seeking a divorce from his wife. The restraining order was obtained by Mrs. Margaret Borton against her husband, Frank, and his mother, Dr. Anna Reid of Marion, Ill.

In court Mrs. Borton said that her husband was in Reno and had written her a letter on July 9 in which he said he was filing suit on charges of cruelty. Through her attorney, Morris Haft, she contended that she was unable to make the trip to Reno to protect her rights.

In filing a suit for separate maintenance Tuesday, Mrs. Borton said that her mother-in-law had persuaded her husband to sue for divorce on the threat to disinherit him. Under a similar threat in 1926, Mrs. Borton, who lives at 1457 East 67th street, said her husband had gone to Reno, but they had become reconciled when she followed him there.

State Asks Injunction to Close Harlem Inn

An injunction to close "Fan Tan" Louis Consentino's Harlem Inn, 4225-31 South Harlem avenue, as a nuisance, was sought yesterday in a petition filed in the Circuit court by Assistant State's Attorney Edgar B. Elder.

LEGS DIAMOND'S GRIN VANISHES AS TRIAL GOES ON

New York, Aug. 5.—[Special.]—The cheerful grin on the face of Jack (Legs) Diamond, when the second day of his trial in federal court opened today, had vanished by the time the sweltering session had ended. Instead, perspiration rolled down the gangster's face as the government's case against him, on charges of conspiracy and of violating the prohibition law grew stronger with every additional witness.

Angelo Benedetto, the first witness, admitted he had entered an agreement with five men to sell "good beer" in Greene county and he named some of their customers—the Smith house in Catskill, De Santis' speakeasy in Catskill and Jim Wynne's Aratoga inn in Cairo, where Diamond stopped his last assignment of shotgun slugs last April 27. But the witness could not be pinned down to admit that two of the five men were Diamond and Paul Quattrochi, co-defendant with Diamond.

Paul Becker testified that after Benedetto gave up the beer business and Diamond took it over, he continued to drive a truck, although at first he did not know he was working for the gangster.

"Suddenly I found out I was not handling any more soda. It was beer all the time," he testified.

At Becker's first meeting with Diamond in the Aratoga inn the gangster was accompanied by Scaccio, his bodyguard, the witness said.

Henry C. Benner of the Mountain house in Haines Falls, where Diamond brought his paramour, Marion Roberts, and where Diamond is supposed to have held meetings of the Catskill beer traders, testified he met Diamond in July or August, 1930, and several times later. He identified Quattrochi and a rogue's gallery photograph of Scaccio.

Jim Wynne, owner of the inn where the Diamond gang "hung out," bought beer and hard liquor from Diamond, he testified, and he identified the checks he gave in payment.

Scaccio, Diamond's former bodyguard, was, in the meanwhile, sentenced today at Catskill to fifteen years in prison for his part in torturing Grover Parks, a former beer truckman.

$11,000,000 JOB ON ROADS WAITS WAGE PROTESTS

Indefinite State Delay in Bids Indicated.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 5.—[Special.] Indefinite postponement of the road letting scheduled for Aug. 18 and Aug. 25, when bids were to be received on more than $11,000,000 of road work, was dicated here today by Director H. H. Cleaveland because of protests filed against the prevailing wage scales by various labor organizations and labor leaders.

R. E. SODERSTROM.

Director Cleaveland indicated that a formal order postponing these lettings would be issued if it appears that the wage scale objections cannot be settled at least ten days before the dates on which the lettings are scheduled to be held.

"We must give the contractors who expect to bid on these projects at least ten days' notice of any change in the scales established by this department in accordance with the prevailing wage scale law," said Director Cleveland. "It now appears that negotiations will consume at least several weeks, and it is highly probable that when and if an agreement is reached it will come too late in the season to start any of this work this year."

Object to County Figures.

The most recent protests were filed by R. E. Soderstrom, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor, which sponsored the bill, and members of labor organizations, many of them members of the United Mine Workers of America. These protests are against the scales announced for thirty-four of the approximately forty counties in which the work was to be done. No protests have been received for Cook, Lake and DuPage counties, where the prevailing scale announced happens to conform with the union rate.

"It is unfortunate," Director Cleaveland continued, "that this delay is in prospect, especially when every effort has been made by the highway department to launch the biggest construction program in its history so as to provide employment for many thousands of men. Postponement of this work would have a far-reaching effect on the economic situation in our state, and thousands of men who would have received employment, directly and indirectly, through this work would have to seek employment elsewhere. As every one knows, jobs are at a premium now.

Affects Several Industries.

"Various lines of industry would be adversely affected. For example, we would not use more than 60 per cent of the cement, or approximately 3,000,000 barrels of the more than 5,000,000 barrels, we plan to use."

In two protests presented to Director Cleaveland yesterday the scales for the following counties were challenged: Christian, Lee, De Kalb, Mc-Donough, Sangamon, Piatt, Montgomery, Jasper, Alexander, La Salle, Marshall, Pike, Calhoun, Union, Johnson, Pulaski, Jefferson, Jackson, Randolph, Peoria, Carroll, Bureau, Kendall, Mercer, Livingston, McLean, Knox, Fulton, Brown, Tazewell, Logan, Jo Daviss, Madison, and St. Clair.

Those protests were signed by Mr. Soderstrom, W. S. Doegens of the printers' union, and William Walls, Joseph A. Londirgan, Fox Hughes, Walter Nesbit, Pete Zink, Harry Fishwick, and John H. Walker [district president] of the United Mine Workers, and Harry E. Smith, business agent of the Illinois Federation of Labor.

Two separate protests from Peoria county also have been received.

A Second Delay.

The contracts were ready to be let some weeks ago, but because of the new law prescribing that prevailing scale of wages must be paid by the contractors new specifications had to be made. The state road department inserted prevailing scale figures and the new bids are awaited. Now the state labor organization finds that the prescribed scale in most of the counties is not satisfactory and so further delay is in sight.

HOUSE CLEANING, IT SEEMS, REVEALS LOTS OF STRANGE THINGS

Chester, Pa., Aug. 5.—(AP)—House cleaning uncovers lots of strange things, it seems.

Today, for instance, Mrs. Isadore Plasker discovered the elopement of her daughter, Ruth, 17, when she found a marriage certificate under the mattress on Ruth's bed. It was issued at Galena, Md., last Jan. 9 to the girl and William Goldberg, 23.

CLEANER LAYS ACID THROWING TO UNION TERROR

Vandals Raid Plant and Cause $7,000 Damage.

The spraying of acid on clothes valued at $7,000 in the Michigan Cleaners and Dyers establishment at 1339 West 63d street by three armed hoodlums early yesterday was labeled as union terrorism by Louis Hollman, owner of the plant. Hollman announced he would ask investigations by State's Attorney Swanson and the Association of Commerce.

DR. B. M. SQUIRES.

The vandalism marked the first interruption of five months of comparative peace in the industry. Three men entered the plant shortly before 7 o'clock. They compelled Harry Osborne, night manager, and James Mickens, porter, to lie in a rear room. One man stood guard over the employés while the others went from vat to vat and sprayed the acid from a sprinkling cart.

Owner Blames Racketeers.

Hollman declared the destruction to be the work of racketeers who have harassed the plant since 1929. Renewed attacks were made on the plant last February, he said, and his drivers were slugged and thrown from their trucks. In March, when he changed his plant to a nonunion shop, he was forced to appeal to the courts for protection, he asserted. In the last month six mysterious fires, which he attributed to union terrorists, were extinguished without loss.

Hollman traced his troubles to his withdrawal from the Master and Cleaners' and Dyers' association, shortly before its reorganization under Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, as arbiter of the industry. The reorganization was made to end terrorism and establish a uniform price level. The name of the association was changed to the Cleaner's and Dyer's institute.

Hollman said he had been asked frequently to join the new organization but refused because of the 2 per cent fee taken from the profits of members. In his case, he said, the fee would mean a yearly cost of $4,000 to $6,000. He is a member of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Swanson Away from Office.

Inquiry at the state's attorney's office revealed that Mr. Swanson was playing golf. No investigations can be started in his absence under the rules of his office. At the Association of Commerce office, it was learned that Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the association and organizer of the secret six, a group formed to combat crime, is on a vacation until Sept. 1.

C. M. Judd, executive secretary of the association, said he had received no complaint.

Walter G. Walker of the Employers' association referred an inquiry to the organization's counsel, Otto Jaburek. Jaburek said it was too early to act. Dr. Squires said the incident was evidently a union dispute and that it in no way concerned the institute.

A petition for an injunction to restrain the Bookbinders and Paper Cutters' union, Local No. 5, from picketing and interfering with the business of the David J. Malloy company, 2857 North Western avenue, manufacturers of book covers, boxes, and signs, was filed yesterday in the Superior court.

GANGSTER ADMITS HOLDUP; GIVEN TERM IN PRISON

Dan Clementi, 26 year old member of the "42" gang, a band of west side hoodlums, was sentenced to serve from one year to life in Joliet penitentiary yesterday by Judge Joseph B. David in the Criminal court. He pleaded guilty to a robbery during which a bystander was killed.

The robbery occured last Nov. 29 in the restaurant at 813 West Randolph street, owned by John Nudelman. Receiving information that robbers were coming to the place, police under Lieut. Dan Healy lay in wait across the street and surprised Clementi and three others as they were about to stage the holdup. A gun battle ensued during which a customer, Leonard Sanor, 50 years old, 745 North Michigan avenue, was killed. It was not possible, by the use of ballistics, to establish that the bandits shot him.

GAS RATE DATA TO BE FURNISHED ILLINOIS CITIES

Company Agrees as Pipe Line Is Finished.

Attorneys for the Panhandle Pipe Line company, at a hearing before the Illinois commerce commission yesterday, agreed to furnish to representatives of downstate Illinois cities copies of its contracts and other data to be used in determining whether the contemplated natural gas rates are justifiable.

Coincident with this development, the Continental Construction corporation announced that its workmen at Bureau Creek, Ill., three miles north of Princeton, had welded together the last link of its new pipe line which will carry natural gas from Amarillo, Tex., to Chicago. The natural gas will be sold to downstate cities and in Chicago will be mixed with the coke oven gas now supplied the city's consumers by the Peoples Gas, Light and Coke company.

Petition Is Pending.

The commerce commission recently took under advisement the petition of the local company to mix its gas and in September is to hold rate hearings. Yesterday's proceedings before the commission did not concern Chicago.

The hearing was on a petition of the Illinois Natural Gas association which asked that the Panhandle company and its subsidiaries produce all available information to justify a rate schedule previously submitted. The schedule would fix at 40 cents per 1,000 cubic feet the cost of natural gas in quantities less than 100,000 cubic feet a month, and at 18 cents for more than 100,000 cubic feet.

Charles H. Dickman, corporation counsel for Peoria, who with City Attoney Hugh J. Dobbs of Springfield represented the gas association, said that under the proposed rates Illinois cities would obtain no economic advantage from natural gas, while its use would interfere with coal mining and railroad industries of the state.

John T. Chadwell, the Panhandle counsel, promised to furnish copies of contracts and other construction facts to the city officials, but declared that the information on maintenance and operation costs, which also was asked for, was contained in the rate schedule.

The hearing was continued until Sept. 22 at Springfield. Prior to that time the representatives of the cities will determine whether the information given them is sufficient.

Court Will Enjoin Him from Killing His Wife

HELD ON ROBBERY CHARGE.

Robert Brunelli, 26 years old, who came to Chicago from New York recently, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $10,000 yesterday on a robbery charge by Judge John J. Rooney in the Felony court.

ILLINOIS GROWS FINE PEACHES, PLENTY OF 'EM

Crop Is Nearly Ready to Go on Market.

BY PAUL POTTER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—Housewives of the middle west, looking forward to a long winter when the family will be glad to have them reach up into the pantry shelves for home canned peaches, were promised the finest quality crop of peaches — and plenty of them — in the history of southern Illinois fruit growing here here this afternoon.

Third in Production.

Illinois ranks third in peach production and is second to none in quality this year, according to a statement issued by Pierson. Last year the crop was a total failure, but the calamity has been turned into a favorable light in recent weeks with the discovery that insects and diseases were given a setback last year and are almost entirely eliminated from the orchards of the Ozarks of southern Illinois now.

"The last of the Georgia and Arkansas peaches are just coming into Chicago and other markets," declared F. H. Simpson of Flora, "and by the fifteenth, when Illinois peaches start rolling northward, people will be ready for them with fruit jars and will find them as luscious as they ever tasted for breakfasts or desserts."

By way of bolstering their plans for giving the Albertas and Hales and cling peaches a proper send off, the railroads have promised to placard their suburban trains. Billboards and advertising will tell the city folk that Illinois does produce fine peaches; while hotels, restaurants and dining car services have arranged to feature the golden fruit on their menus.

Movement Well Backed.

Among the organizations taking part in the state campaign to help Egyptian growers publicise their products in the next few weeks are the state and Chicago Federation of Labor, the Illinois Agricultural association, American Farm Bureau federation, University of Illinois, state department of agriculture, Illinois Horticultural society, Illinois Central and Burling railroads, Illinois Fruit Exchange, the farm and metropolitan press, and the Buy Illinois Products commission.

A branch of the state agricultural inspection division is to be opened at once at Centralia, according to Arthur P. Holt, superintendent, in order to carry out grading and inspection service on the entire peach crop, to insure housewives of quality and facilitate marketing under federal standard grades. Logan N. Colp will be in charge.

Growers Want Rain.

Although the peach crop is just ripening a good rain would help increase the size of the fruit, according to representatives here today. They estimate the crop will be the largest single factor in bringing in over three million dollars in revenue to this area, where the crop was a total failure last year.

DIES WHILE FISHING.

William Johnson, 65 years old, 6238 South Bishop street, died yesterday of heart disease as he sat fishing in the lake at the foot of 60th street in Jackson park.

FACING EXILE.

JANINA SMOLINSKA.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Janina Smolinska, former première danseuse of the Paris Folies Bergere, sent to the United States as "Miss Poland" in the 1928 international beauty contest, today pleaded that she be permitted to go to Europe voluntarily so she may marry an American citizen and return legally.

Miss Smolinska is accused of overstaying her residence permit and faces deportation, which would bar her forever from returning to the United States. She was accompanied to the immigration bureau by her fiancé, Walter Grabowski.

Immigration Inspector C. B. Dixon said he would submit the statements to Washington for a ruling.

Miss Smolinska came to Hollywood on a six months' permit after the beauty contest in Galveston, Tex. She appeared in numerous foreign and English speaking motion pictures as a dancer. Dixon said she had obtained only two extensions of the permit.

TAKE FIRST STEP TO END RULE OF U. S. IN HAITI

Treaty Departments Are Transferred.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The firstimportant step leading toward the withdrawal of American occupation of Haiti was taken at noon today, when Dr. Dana G. Munro, American minister, and Abel Leger, Haitian foreign minister, signed an agreement transferring the treaty departments of the Haitian government, now operated by Americans, to Haitian control.

The departments affected, a statement by the American minister said, are the department of public works, the principal officers of which are civil engineers of the United States navy; the technical service of agriculture and industrial education, the principal officials of which are American civilians, and the public health service, in which are officers and enlisted men of the medical department of the United States navy.

Sanitary Mission Remains.

The sanitary mission will remain on duty in Port-au-Prince, Cape Haitian, and Petionville, the mission to consist of three American medical officers nominated by the United States government and appointed by the president of Haiti, and not to exceed six navy hospital corps men.

All other Americans in the treaty department are to be withdrawn by Sept. 30 of this year.

The agreement provides for the abrogation of the accord of August 24, 1918, which obligated the government of Haiti to communicate all proposed laws bearing upon objects of the treaty of 1915 to the representative of the United States before presenting them to the legislature, and also the accord of Dec. 3, 1918, requiring the visa of the financial adviser on orders of payment issued by the Haitian secretary of state for finance.

Service payments hereafter are to be governed by arrangements made between the Haitian finance minister and the financial adviser. The agreement provides that the Haitian government will keep its expenditures within the limits of appropriations made with the accord of the financial advisers, and will reach agreements with the financial advisors regarding measures affecting sources of revenue.

Repeal Martial Law.

The land title registry office is transferred from the office of the financial advisor to the ministry of finance.

The government of Haiti agrees to indemnify American civilian officials and employées of the technical service who may be retained under contract. The two governments agree to continue their discussions regarding other problems arising from the treaty.

Col. L. McCarthy Little, commanding the first brigade of U. S. marines, issued a proclamation today repealing the state martial law which has been in effect since the early days of American occupation.

CITY RECOVERS $100,000 TIED UP IN CLOSED BANK

The city has recovered $100,000 which was on deposit in the Austin National bank when it closed some months ago, it was announced yesterday by City Treasurer Kearns. The recovery was made from bonding companies, every bank being required to post a bond as security for city funds placed on deposit with it.

The money recovered belongs to pension funds, $75,000 to that of municipal employés and $25,000 to the police fund.

The city law department is now working to collect $440,000 from bonding companies for deposits of the city corporate fund which were in five other closed banks. Those banks and the amount of deposits, are: Washington Park National, $200,000; West Englewood Trust and Savings, $15,000; West Town State, $75,000; Northwestern Trust and Savings, $50,000, and South Side Savings Bank and Trust company, $100,000. The amounts will be recovered in full, Kearns predicted.

This is a Double Woven Breaker Strip

These are PLIES

The National Better Business BUREAU . . SAYS:

Ply

A ply is one of a number of layers of rubberized cotton fabric, either cord or square woven, extending from bead to bead, and forming the body of the tire.

Breaker

A breaker is a layer or layers of rubberized fabric or cords, extending around the tire directly over the body plies and under the tread. It is approximately the width of the tread, and serves to promote adhesion between the tread and the carcass; and to help absorb and distribute road shocks.

Breakers Are Not Plies

Breaker strips should not be enumerated as plies, because they are different in character, and perform different functions.

Breakers usually have a lower cord count to the inch, and consequently are not as strong as plies. Breakers do not extend to the bead of the tire, as the plies do.

Breaker strips do not, therefore, contribute materially to the bursting resistance of a tire, which is the main function of the plies.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE RED INVASION.

That American society should be subjected in the midst of its efforts to meet its problems upon its own terms and with its own resources to an invasion of foreign mischief making is an intolerable infliction deserving more efficient measures than have yet been adopted. Politicians of high rank are in confidential correspondence with a foreign instrumentality deliberately organized and bent upon inflaming ignorance and misleading discontent and misfortune not only in our own American household but throughout the world. Here in Chicago it is at work with no prospect of any results except the fomenting of futile but tragic violence. It is so in other countries. The purposes of the Russian bolshevik government, operating through the international activities of the communist internationale, are perfectly known by its pronouncements and its action. It is financially supporting as well as organizing and directing groups throughout the United States engaged in educating youth to violence and to ideas subversive of American principles and to our social peace. Yet not only do men in high public place openly favor giving the immense prestige of American official recognition to this régime, but Russia is full of American citizens engaged for high pay in performing services which communism cannot get from its own system.

To bolster up a régime which conspires and is making every practicable effort to destroy the American democracy is an amazing folly. To permit our country to be overrun by secret emissaries engaged in an effort to destroy it is fatuous beyond belief. And yet this is the situation. It is time to correct it. Foreign agitators should be run down and expelled. Their American allies should be punished under our laws. It is a duty of national defense as clear as the duty of defense from any other invasion. The communist régime, centered at Moscow, has declared war against democratic America, and its invasion should be met and defeated. The American government was established by the American people for "the common defense." It should fulfill that duty.

ELECTRICAL VOTING.

The French chamber of deputies will do its voting hereafter by means of an electrical device. On every member's desk will be a yea and a no button. When the time comes to vote, the member will press the desired button and his doing so will deposit a small coin on the corresponding side of a pair of scales on the speaker's platform. The tip of the balance will indicate whether the yeas or the noes prevailed. No one knows how many weary hours are devoted in all our legislatures to the business of calling the roll. To be sure, time spent in calling the roll is not spent in passing other laws, which is probably so much net gain; but against this must be reckoned the fact that the cumbersome methods of doing business now in vogue at Springfield, Washington and the other capitals encourage legislators in the belief that they are in a world of their own.

Of course the use of coins to represent votes could not be permitted in a nation of expert kidders. The suggestion would be too pointed. Also, this country contains too many good amateur electricians to allow any such simple device to be used as the French have devised. What we need is something which will print the roll call automatically and make it available for instant examination and correction by members whose votes may have been improperly recorded. Obviously, too, some means must be devised for preventing voting by an absent member.

No doubt a fairly competent electrical engineer could devise a foolproof and cheatproof electrical voting system in half a day. It is no accident that such devices have not been adopted by our legislatures. Politics does not want to save time or anything else, except face. Politics as we know it t' "es on waste, evasion and irresponsibility. Its methods are cumbersome not from necessity but from preference.

DISARMING EUROPE.

Mr. Newton Baker, opening the eleventh annual conference on politics at Williamstown, said that the hope of the coming conference on disarmament will "lie not in the statesmen of the world but in the peoples of the world, and the strength of the peoples of the world at that conference depends not upon the knowledge or good will of a few elect and thoughtful spirits but on the extent to which popular knowledge is thorough and deep, and so fortifies the representatives of the people with the support of an informed and resolute public opinion."

This may explain why international conferences on armament are disappointing to Americans. Our own representatives, at least in recent years, have seemed to be more guided by "a few elect and thoughtful spirits" than the representatives of European nations, and doubtless their failure to get results would be explained by Mr. Baker as the inevitable consequence of the lack of that thorough and deep popular knowledge which would fortify European delegations in the effort to disarm. Thorough and deep knowledge upon the problems of armament and disarmament we must assume is lacking among European peoples, or there would not be such unwillingness of their representatives to accept the recommendations of the few elect and thoughtful spirits which American diplomacy represents.

The difficulty, we suspect, lies in the stubborn belief of European peoples and their representatives that their knowledge of the problems involved in armament is thorough and deep. If our few elect and thoughtful spirits could only persuade the Europeans that this is an error and that it is our few elect and thoughtful spirits who have the deep and thorough knowledge of the problems of armament this would promptly bring about a general disarmament. But European nations insist upon thinking that some thousands of years of experience with one another in Europe's crowded household has given them a deep and thorough knowledge of their own conditions and relations; in short, that they know more about their own affairs than our few elect and thoughtful spirits. This, no doubt, is a deplorable fallacy, but until it can be disposed of our efforts to induce Europe to beat the sword into the plowshare are not likely to shine so far as good deeds ought in a naughty world.

FRANKLIN ROOSEVELT'S DISQUALIFICATION.

The gunmen who shot five children playing in a New York street did no good to Gov. Franklin Roosevelt's presidential ambitions. New York City and state have become conspicuous for failure in the administration of criminal law. This is neither incidental nor accidental. It is of cause and effect. Franklin Roosevelt is governor of the state and the political causes of New York criminality are in the party organization under him, the organization by which he would be presented as a candidate to a Democratic convention. This would be his sponsorship. Inability to discipline, correct, and govern the system of which he is the head in New York state does not constitute qualification for the presidency of the United States.

It is no longer a secret of gangland that its crimes are not isolated from social control or independent of political action. That does not mean, of course, that the gunmen who took no account of children in the line of fire had the connivance of political authority, but it does mean that politics has permitted or fostered the development of conditions into which the crime fits as a piece of scrollsaw work.

There is rough justice in the fact that condemnation is not delicately discriminating when responsibility is sought. Gov. Roosevelt, Al Smith, and their associates in the higher political control of the state and the city may be as horrified by the crimes as any reputable citizens could be, but they are not ordinary citizens of the state. They are responsible for government and political action. The scandals in New York, in the police, the judiciary, and the departments of government are the products of political activity, and when they become so grave as to be public menaces the accountability reaches high regardless of the personal character and achievements of individuals.

The men at the top may plead ignorance of conditions or inability to correct them. The situation remains the same. They have sought and have obtained authoritative position in their party and in government. The gangs of a community are not desperadoes outside the confines and influences of society with every man's hand raised against them. If they were, they would be hunted down in short order. They are within the community organizations, associated with persons of authority who have common interests with them. Modern crime in American cities is not anarchistic. It is a source of profit to politics in which it in turn finds protection and profit.

Government in New York does not have the confidence or the respect of the people of the country. Gov. Roosevelt is the responsible head of the government and if he is presented as a candidate for President there is offered with him the record of his administration. It is a disqualification.

Editorial of the Day

REVISED OPINION.

[The Decatur Herald.]

It was California with a second from the other two Pacific coast states, that demanded and obtained the clause in our present immigration law excluding all Japanese. Japan protested at the time, making it known that the action would be regarded as an insult to the national pride of a powerful and proud nation, but there were many westerners who looked upon Japanese immigrants as troublesome competitors. The politicians heeded the demands of the native sons.

Now a curious thing is happening. The United States Chamber of Commerce is being petitioned to use its influence to obtain a repeal of the Japanese exclusion clause by the next congress. And the petitioners are the chambers of commerce of California.

There is no mystery about this radical change of position, for anybody who has visited California in recent years. California has sorely missed the Japanese, who went back home by the thousands when the obnoxious law was passed. The truck gardens that had been brought to such amazing productiveness by the Japanese farmers were not taken over by native sons and carried on as before. Native sons found that they did not care to work as the Japanese had, and when they tried they found that they lacked some of the skill of the original gardeners. Many plots of land were abandoned, real estate values suffered, the markets no longer made as fine a display of fruits and vegetables.

Not only was there inconvenience at home, but in Tokio and Yokohama, Osaka and Kobe, the great commercial cities facing California across the Pacific, the salesmen from California exporting houses began to find much more coolness toward American products. At length it became apparent to every well informed business man that insulting a foreign nation was exceedingly poor business. The present petition is a natural consequence.

Putting Japan upon an equality with other nations will make no great practical difference. Upon the quota basis only 185 Japanese can come in during a year. The important thing is that the Japanese people shall not feel that we intend to single them out for a special indignity.

PREVENTION OF AIR POLLUTION.

SEVERAL years before the world war the British began investigation of atmospheric pollution. They organized coöperation in investigation between the smoke abatement scientists and administrators in a score of cities. These men adopted uniform methods of measuring atmospheric pollution and kept track of conditions at set hours in all parts of the coöperating district. When their yearly reports were published it was possible to know just the amount of air pollution in the several cities and, in fact, in several parts of each of the cities.

The effect of humidity and temperature of the atmosphere and of air currents was studied. The reports of the amount of pollution due to different kinds of industries, due to household fires, and dirty streets and roofs, were made available. Studies were made of the increased cost of lighting as a result of smoke; of laundry; of cleaning buildings, carpets, and curtains, and of the amount of damage done building materials by reason of the harm of smoke.

A by-product was the invention of new instruments for collecting the impurities of the air, for measuring the gaseous ingredients, and for determining the harm they are capable of doing. Other instruments perfected are those which measure the amount of daylight and the effect of smoke and other atmospheric impurities on the quality of light.

By the side of this line of investigation of the quality of light and air there is an investigation of the effects of noise on human beings. This work is being done by another group of men—some abroad and some in this country. However, in this investigation every man is going it alone, and there is little tendency towards coöperation. The men who are investigating noise have also worked out some new instruments and methods.

These are among the newer kinds of work that health departments are planning to enter on. They feel that their old jobs are within sight of completion. Typhoid fever is declining so steadily that within a decade they will need to give it but a trivial part of their planning. Just now diphtheria is declining even more rapidly than typhoid is, but not at the rate typhoid dropped during the last thirty years.

Smallpox no longer frightens people. Scarlet fever is of minor importance. Even consumption is approaching the level where it will become an enemy of secondary grade. Water is rarely polluted, milk is generally safe, and foods do not spread much bacterial disease. Health departments, having been freed of much of their responsibilities in connection with this list, are getting in a position to take up responsibility for air purity, light quality, and noise control.

FATTENING FOODS.

Mrs. J. V. writes:

1. I have a girl who is a little over 11. She is about 15 pounds overweight and I am very careful with her diet. She likes cantaloupe, honeydew, watermelon, and strawberries with sour cream. Are these foods fattening?
2. Are they easily digested?

REPLY.

1. Melons and strawberries are not fattening. Cream and sugar are.
2. Few people have any trouble digesting melons and strawberries. The seeds of berries are said to harm those with the present day fad, colitis. Some become sensitized and get nettlerash when they eat them. Basically, all the foods mentioned are wholesome.

PHLEBITIS AND CURE.

Mrs. M. A. writes:

1. What is phlebitis?
2. What causes it?
3. Is there a cure or remedy?

REPLY:

1. Inflammation of a vein.
2. Infection is the most frequent cause. It follows labor, pregnancy, and other contributing causes.
3. As a rule it can be expected to pass if rest and moderately good care are given.

OWNER CAN DISPOSSESS.

Chicago, July 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A certain lady told me I could have her husband's old car, which was left in a garage since last February. They secured the car last year in California. Last April the husband disappeared and is still missing. Lately I went to the garage and paid over sixty dollars in storage charges, and about seventy dollars in repair charges, and took it out. I also secured a state license for it under my name. 1. Is it unlawful to keep this car? 2. What happens if the car still has an unpaid balance? 3. In these circumstances, is it a crime to keep the car, until her husband or some one else claims it by law? I am willing to relinquish the car if it is claimed. H. I.

1. No, in the sense that there is no penalty. Yes, in the sense that if the owner turns up he can dispossess you.
2. Depends on whether it is unsecured or is secured by a validly recorded chattel mortgage or by a conditional sale contract.
3. No.

"SNAKE LEAVES."

Chicago, July 20.—[Friend of the People.]—Can anything be done to cut down weeds at the southeast and northeast corners of George street and Crawford avenue? These weeds grow in bushlike formations, very high and very thick. Both empty lots cover quite an area, and it is quite dangerous to walk by there at night. I have heard that these may be what is known as "snake leaves" and grow up almost overnight. Another similar spot is the corner of Wellington and Hausen court. L. J.

Report is made that weeds have been cut in the parkway space and along edge of sidewalks in the neighborhood of the locations designated by the writer.

PASSPORTS.

Chicago, July 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Can a married man, being a citizen of the United States, secure a passport to leave this country for a trip to Europe as a tourist without the wife's signature? J. S.

We see no reason for objection on the bare facts stated, but we suggest that you take the matter up with the Passport office in the Transportation building.

IN AN EFFORT TO alleviate our suffering as "pinch hitter" for R. H. L., Co-Worker Owen of the sports desk has offered a suggestion. He prefaced it with the query, "How do you judge and pick the poetry while conducting the Wake-Line?" Since we profess no fine judgment of verse we replied frankly, "Oh, I just take what appeals to me and let it got at that." He still looked expectant, so we assumed a return query was expected. So we added, "Why, what would you do?" Thereupon came the enlightening, "Well, when I read poetry and find I don't understand what it's all about I think it must be good." That basis of estimation never had occurred to us before.

Well, we'll not answer his question direct, but it seems superfluous to ask it of any one who has played golf for nearly 25 years and still shoots 110 at the top of their form, and from 115 up on off days.

That profanity has no place in our column, however, is perhaps just another of our old-fashioned ideas. There are times when a "swear word" adds something or has a place in incident or anecdote, but those occasions are rare. Profanity is distasteful to many readers. Aside from any question of ethics, why offend? There may be no point in our aversion to "swear words," but at least one reader has noted it.

SONGS FROM AN OLD OPERA.

Comes back with them old time, old places,
Old styles, delights, and once familiar faces,
Unfolding vistas down the reach of years
Flooding with memorics, happiness, and tears.

And like a bell, reverberate and roll
A music tremulous, poignant, rare,
Awakening things that long are dormant there.

These reminiscences too late that slumbered,
Design and fragments ere the image cease.

In antique trappings, opera queens and kings,
Call them all back, an encore we shall hear,

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 6, 1915.

LONDON.—Warsaw has been captured by the Germans, and a well informed correspondent writes that in diplomatic circles it is a matter of common conjecture that the capture of the city will be followed by a proclamation of a new kingdom of Poland under a Hohenzollern or Hapsburg suzerainty, with Archduke Carl Stephan of Austria as king. An Amsterdam correspondent describes how the fall of Warsaw was received in Berlin. He says that the kaiserin received the news by telephone from the kaiser and ordered Gen. von Kissel, commander of the troops in Berlin, to send cyclists throughout the capital announcing the evacuation of the Polish capital. "The scenes of enthusiasm which occurred were indescribable," the correspondent says. "Citizens and policemen kissed one another in the streets and the crowds sang the national anthem."

Although Warsaw has fallen to the Germans, the main Russian forces which Field Marshal von Hindenburg hoped to surround apparently are beyond the Vistula and retiring on their second and stronger line of defense.

PETROGRAD. — The Russian staff issued a statement as follows: "In view of conditions and the general situation our troops west of Warsaw have received orders to fall back on the right bank of the Vistula. According to reports this order was carried out and the troops which were covering Warsaw retired without being attacked toward the new front assigned to them. They blew up behind them all the bridges over the Vistula."

LONDON.—It is learned on excellent authority that the cabinet has decided to inaugurate a system of conscription to raise additional armies for Great Britain and that the practice will be put into effect about the end of October.

AUGUST 6, 1901.

CHICAGO.—Attorney Alfred S. Austrian and Assistant City Prosecutor Murray came to blows in the Hyde Park police court while trying the case of a man arrested on a charge of delivering beer in that territory. A statement to the jury by Murray brought "You're a liar" from Austrian and the fisticuffs followed. Inspector Hunt separated the combatants.

CRONBERG.—Dowager Empress Frederick died this afternoon. All of her children except Prince Henry, who is at Cadiz, were present at her bedside when she passed away, conscious to the last. Among relatives at the castle were the empress' oldest daughter and her sister, Princess Christian, her son, Emperor William, Empress Augusta Victoria, and the Crown Prince Ferdinand William. Her brother, King Edward of England, is expected to start for Cronberg today. The direct cause of death is certified to have been dropsy, following cancer.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — Exploding gasoline destroyed a block of buildings on Locust street, killed a score of persons, injured 50 others and damaged 100 houses. Fire followed the explosion and the exact number of deaths will not be known for several days.

AUGUST 6, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — President Garfield passed another quiet and comfortable day and made further progress toward recovery. The discharge from the wound is very satisfactory and there is a strong probability that the wound around the bullet is healing. The patient slept well without the usual injection of morphia.

PARIS. — The speech of Levi P. Morton in presenting his credentials as United States minister to France was of a far more cordial and interesting character than such speeches usually are. He called attention to the debt of gratitude which the United States owes to France for services rendered 100 years ago and referred in flattering terms to the political and material progress of France under the republic. President Grevy in reply declared that the selection of Mr. Morton as minister would contribute toward further cementing friendly relations between the two countries. He expressed hope for the speedy recovery of President Garfield.

A PLEA AGAINST A SMALL PARK.

Chicago, Aug. 3. — Sheer despair prompts me to address you in an effort to accomplish something which, to all appearances, seems impossible at this writing. My husband is critically ill. Our home, which we own, is situated directly across the street from Northwest Park No. 12. My husband's physician and I have made every conceivable effort to have a "Zone of Quiet" established in the block on Wrightwood avenue between Laramie and Lockwood avenues. This park is as terrible a public nuisance as can be found anywhere in the city.

Several years ago, before the neighborhood was as well and thickly built up and populated as it is today, a petition was taken around and signed by the then property owners for permission to open this park. The petition distinctly stated that the park was to be used half for a children's playground and half as a sunken garden, the playground to house children up to twelve years of age. For the last two years, that part which was to have been used as a garden has been turned over to the hoodlums of not the neighborhood immediately adjoining, but for those that drive down in cars from blocks and even miles away. Girls' and boys' teams are allowed to play competitive baseball, and this truly attracts crowds of hundreds of bellowing, yelling men and women. The resultant noise is awful, to say the least. Young men ranging in age from sixteen to twenty years congregate to play ball, and this goes on from nine o'clock in the morning until it is too dark to play. After that the boys gather in groups of annoying merrymakers. Gun toting is not uncommon, and the language used is obscene and vulgar. These groups are particularly menacing to women passing them.

The entire park does not cover a square block, and yet is used by hundreds. Horse shoe playing for money is not uncommon, and it is known to the keepers of the park that there is drinking and gang fighting. The best illustration of the power ruling the park is the inability of the keepers to keep order. They are utterly disregarded.

Appeals have been made to the park board, of which Mr. Joseph F. Gubbins is president, to the city police, who seem unable to cope with the hoodlums, to the ward alderman, to the health department, and to Mr. Bundesen personally, to abolish this baseball diamond, and all ball playing. Mr. Bundesen recommended that a "Zone of Quiet" be established, that this is the only remedy, but an application for it brought the information that the city cannot interfere with public parks. Selling my property now is out of the question, but there must be some law against intentional nuisances. A. W.

A TERMINAL PLAN.

New York, July 27.—When I was in Chicago early in July I read in your news columns, with much interest, of the proposed new union stations, projected to embrace several groups of railroads. The statement was made that the plan, when carried out, would enable the city to provide certain much needed extra streets and highways.

One of the present troubles with the railways (now mostly sick unto death) is a sort of hardening of the arteries. About all they have left of their former greatness is their capital structure, based largely upon their real property and franchises. These values are huge, but are not producing income. It would seem, therefore, the thing to do would be to endeavor to earn some income on their rights of way and terminal facilities with the least additional outlay, investing millions in union stations has never been profitable to railroads, for usually these stations produce little or no income, add to operating cost, and require interest payments on invested capital.

Would it not be well to consider instead the building of elevated high speed highways over the railroad trackage entering Chicago? Build excellent garage and storage facilities over the present terminal yards and terminals. Establish proper toll charges for the use of these conveniences.

The public has always shown a willingness to pay for uninterrupted highway service, and do it gladly. (The vehicular tunnel entering New York is a good illustration of this. The public is now using this tunnel at a rate which will pay for it within ten years.) Try for a plan to get the great American citizen into town the easiest and quickest way in his own car, John Smith won't travel in railroad coaches any more, so let the railroads give him a highway on which he can keep up with Jones, and he will gladly pay for it.

J. J. JACKSON.

FROM OKLAHOMA.

Henryetta, Okla., July 25.—I very much appreciate the views you express concerning our efforts here to handle a very trying situation. You have evinced more discernment and understanding than any commentator thus far noted. And I heartily agree with you that democracy is on trial. We Americans must demonstrate our ability to meet and handle whatever may come up. Our energetic mayor is a Tennessee Democrat and I am a Missouri Republican, but we agree on the fundamentals of citizenship, and work together like blood brothers.

I assure you that our work projects will go forward. The new road to Lake Henryetta is the most ambitious of our projects. We are driving a roadway over an elevation of 250 feet, securing a very pleasing view of the lake, lying in a wooded valley where we dammed up a creek. This road will wind through woodland for two and a half miles, and will be a very pleasant drive.

NEW GROUP OPENS FIRE ON PLAN OF TRANSIT MERGER

Surface Line Bondholders Seek Recruits.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

A new attack was made yesterday upon the financial plan to consolidate the surface and elevated lines into one local transportation system for Chicago. It comes from holders of participation certificates of the west and north side surface lines, as has most of the criticism heretofore presented against the consolidation plan.

Law Firm Is Retained.

Their complaint is that the security holders of the elevated roads are getting too much and the surface line securities, and particularly their own, are getting too little in the reorganization plan.

An analysis of the consolidation plan has been written for the committee by C. H. Wilmerding and the committee has retained the law firm of Butler, Foster, Pope & Ballard. This firm started a taxpayer's suit before Judge William J. Lindsay on March 27 last with Elizabeth M. Bass and Augustus Olson as complainants. This suit was an attempt to keep the city from spending any money on subway planning or construction.

The 30 page booklet and letter issued yesterday by the holders of the participation certificates did not indicate what further legal attack is contemplated, although the booklet contained a plea to other security holders to join the committee.

Charge Plan Is Unfair.

"Even if the legal basis of the proposed plan of consolidation is adjudged sound," reads the booklet, "the plan should be rejected because of its unfairness and financial defects.

"The Chicago Surface Lines properties are a national standard of excellence among engineers. To date all of the interest on its first mortgages together with 15 per cent of the principal of one first mortgage issue and 10 per cent of the other two have been paid from earnings. It is calculated on the basis of past earnings that the entire first mortgages may be retired from nine to fourteen years and junior bonds in a few years more."

Contrast "L" Line Earnings.

In contrast with this picture, the analysis says of the Elevated: "Past earnings of the Chicago Rapid Transit company, adjusted for depreciation, according to the new ordinance, have averaged less than annual rentals and interest requirements on its mortgage bonds.

"It reports no cash fund for renewals and depreciation, small general cash and a deficiency of $2,665,-177 in current assets as compared with current and accrued liabilities.

"In addition the company has a liability of $4,826,350 for accrued interest on adjustment debenture bonds omitted from its balance sheet which, if taken into the balance sheet, would wipe out the surplus of $3,674,211, appearing therein and create a deficit.

Would Divert Earnings Claim.

"Its property is undermaintained, as is admitted by officials of the company and its equipment is notoriously old and rundown. Its reports show progressively less favorable results."

"The plan would effect wholesale diversion of earnings from the surface lines to the elevated security holders.

"The plan would dilute every surface line security issue and wipe out several of them, for the benefit of the elevated security holders.

"Voting control would be in the hands of the elevated security holders, in spite of the relative smallness and the unfavorable operating record of the elevated."

In addition the objectors complain on the valuation at which the properties are to be merged. The surface lines have been valued at $164,586,113 and the elevated at $95,500,000. The objectors assert that the surface line valuation is on the basis of prewar prices, while the elevated, it is claimed by them, is valued on post-war prices.

IDENTIFY BANDIT SLAIN AFTER HE KILLED OFFICER

Lafayette, Ind., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—While posses of police and citizens were searching the city for the bandit who last night shot and killed Harry R. Farrell, local policeman, in a gun battle in an alley after the bandit had robbed a filling station, the body of the outlaw lay undetected 200 feet from the scene of the fatal encounter.

Early today searchers came upon the bandit's body lying between two houses where he had crawled, mortally wounded, after killing Farrell and receiving four bullets from the policeman's gun. The bandit was identified today as Louis E. Jeffries, 36, formerly of Hardin County, Ky., but more recently from the region of Joliet, Ill.

Farrell and the bandit shot it out in a small areaway behind a building, the men being but four feet apart.

LAKE BREEZES SAVE CITY; COOL WEATHER ON WAY

Breezes from the lake blew over Chicago between noon and 1 p. m. yesterday, causing the temperature to stay below 90 degrees during the afternoon. It stood at 89 degrees from noon until 3 p. m., then began a slow decline.

The weather will be cooler this evening or Friday, Weather Forecaster C. A. Donnel predicted. The forecast is for cloudiness, possibly with showers or thunderstorms. These conditions will prevail over most of the central states, a general relief from the heat being predicted for Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas, and Ohio.

The Main Retail Store will be open until 1 o'clock on Saturdays during August. The Evanston Store will be open Saturdays until 6 p. m.; the Oak Park Store until 9 p. m.

FLOWER OF THORNS

By Marie Conway Oemler

SYNOPSIS.

Sally Rutherford, the last of a proud old southern family, following the ruin and suicide of her grandfather, determines to keep the heavily mortgaged Oakleigh plantation for her grandmother. She opens a hot dog stand on the Dixie highway. The estate of the Winsteads, of carpetbagging stock, adjoins Oakleigh. Henry Winstead holds the Oakleigh mortgage. His only son, Sam, is a great help to Sally, although she doesn't know his real identity until the stand is successfully started. Sally falls in love with Lowndes Jennings. Sam forces Lowndes to admit in front of Sally that he is engaged to the wealthy Gertrude Reinert. Sam asks Sally to marry him, although he knows she doesn't love him. Sally becomes Sam's wife in name only. Sam gives Oakleigh back to Sally as a wedding present. The night of the wedding Sally's grandmother dies. Sally collapses and is brought to Winsteads while she is still unconscious. When she recovers Sam tells her he is going abroad and when he returns she can sue him for divorce.

INSTALLMENT XXVIII.

THE KISS.

The Dixons had come to the station in their little car. There were ten minutes to wait, and the three men walked together on the platform. Mrs. Dixon joined Sally. They had seen each other frequently, for Sally had "been nice" to the Virginia girl and the Dixons were frequent visitors at Winsteads. Joe knew that Sam had been tremendously in love with Sally Rutherford, and he took it for granted that she was in love with Sam—how could she help being? Still, the kindly fellow was troubled about his friend, as his wife knew. She herself was sorry that Sam was going, and she noticed that if Sam's wife felt any grief at his departure she was able to conceal it. Her sorrow was not evident.

The train rolled in. There was the usual bustle of departure. Other people had driven up, and there were several other passengers. Sam had shaken hands with Helen Dixon, had wrung Joe's hand heartily, had parted from his father. Now he turned to Sally. The eyes of all on the platform were upon the Winsteads.

"You'll have to kiss me goodbye," he whispered in her ear. Dazedly, the pale girl raised her face to his, her heart thumping.

Hat in hand, he bent his tall, fair head. For the first time—everybody was looking on, expecting him to do just that—Sam Winstead kissed his wife on the lips.

But he couldn't keep his blue eyes from kindling. They went over her lingeringly, caressingly, like bright blue fire. And his kiss fell on her lips like the fire of his heart, a kiss of passion, and love and desire and despair and—renunciation. Then he was gone.

She stood like one turned to stone. No one had ever so kissed her—not even Lowndes—in all her life. No man could ever so kiss a woman he didn't greatly and purely love. He had married her, saving home, Grandmamma, pride. He had given her Oakleigh for a wedding present. She didn't love him, and he knew it. Now he was leaving her, to clear the path to her freedom. In parting he had kissed her . . . for the dear Public's eye, he said. But that kiss was a message to her heart. He loved her. She knew it. Sam Winstead loved her.

It was as if a great door had opened, letting in a flood of pure light which dazed and dazzled her. This man loved her as she had believed that

Lowndes loved her. As Lowndes wasn't capable of loving. Beside this pure and unselfish passion which gave so much and demanded so little, which sacrificed itself for her happiness, Lowndes seemed to shrink and shrink to ever smaller proportions, and she herself dwindled in her own estimation. He had given her so much, and now he was giving her freedom. All along she had underestimated and misunderstood.

At their urgent invitation she went home with the Dixons. But somehow the sight of their young natural happiness hurt her unbearably today. She was very silent, and she went home early, pleading a headache. There were dark circles under her eyes, and Helen Dixon mercifully let her go—she must be suffering, poor little soul!

Winsteads lay beautiful and calm, prosperous, spick-and-span even, but she thought she had never seen a place look so lonesome. It was as if the essence of life had left it. No singing voice, no blithe whistle, no quick, resilient footsteps. One of his dogs raised its head and regarded her wistfully—where was the master? Sam was the soul of the place, and his absence was painfully apparent already. Over the great gardens hung, she thought, an almost palpable hush. She went slowly upstairs, her steps dragging. Everything was going to come all right for her, he had promised. He had gone—to open the gate to freedom—for her. She should be happy—and she wasn't, she wasn't, she wasn't!

People came to see her, and had tea on the shaded veranda, or in the living room, in which a small fire began to make its appearance. At night she dined with Henry Winstead, pale and lovely in her diaphanous black frock with Grandmamma's pearls around her slender throat. The meal was eaten in silence—she didn't know how to talk to Henry Winstead, and he was too painfully shy of her to try to make conversation. After greeting each other politely and making the usual inquiries as to one another's health, and a few standard remarks about the weather, they relapsed into silence, both acutely conscious of the chair that should have been occupied. Sometimes she went out to dine at the homes of old family friends, old ladies and gentlemen that had known her grandparents, or young folks that she herself had grown up with. They commiserated with her on Sam's unfortunate absence, but were glad that Henry Winstead had her with him. A most beautiful place, Winsteads! They praised Sam unstintedly. Splendid fellow! How she must miss him!

So the winter passed. Sam was in Palestine now, watching the work done by the new Jewish farmers. Later, he would be in England. She knew, because once a week as had been agreed, Joe Dixon wrote him giving all details of the work, and once every two weeks Sam wrote—a letter to his father—a letter to Joe. He did not write to Sally. She had not asked him.

One afternoon a large car drove up to Winsteads, and a thickset, kindly man and a rather handsome, very much dressed lady alighted. Mr. and Mrs. Reinert. He'd been long intending to give Winsteads the once-over, he told Sally, who had received them. So she was Sam's wife, eh? He congratulated Sam. "And you, too, Mrs. Sam," he added bluntly. "They don't come any better than Sam Winstead, let me tell you!"

They wished to be shown over the dairy, and Sally accompanied them, calling on Joe Dixon at his office. The dairy buildings were some distance from the house and grounds, the Winstead estate being a very large one. It was part of Joe Dixon's duties to show visitors about, and he did so now, evidently pleased to answer Mr. Reinert's keen and intelligent questions. Mrs. Reinert wasn't so much interested, she admitted. She proposed that she and Mrs. Sam should sit in the car and wait.

This, then, was the woman whose daughter Lowndes had married! Highly colored. Fairly good features. Hair most artfully "touched." Elaborate dress in the height of the mode. Sally wondered if her daughter was like her? The man was . . . well, a better specimen. Unaffected, good-humored, kindly. The Winsteads liked him, Sam had said. Sam liked the girl, too. Possibly because she resembled her father.

Mrs. Reinert chatted—or rather chattered—steadily. Winsteads was such a beautiful place! Mr. Reinert was a friend of Henry Winstead's. All of them—herself, her husband, her daughter Gertrude—liked and admired Sam immensely. She and Sam had been married a little over a year, hadn't they? Just before her daughter Gertrude married Mr. Jennings. She knew Mr. Jennings? She had met him? Such a charming young man—so well connected—and so perfectly devoted to Gerty! It was positively thrilling to see him watching Gerty! And as for her, she doted on him. A love match. What did anything matter as long as young married people loved each other? That's what she was always saying to Mr. Reinert.

And this silly and pretentious woman was Lowndes' mother-in-law!

Mr. Reinert came back from his inspection of the dairy, and climbed in beside the chauffer after shaking hands warmly with Joe Dixon.

"Rather a nice person, your superintendent," said Mr. Reinert affably.

"Manager. Joe was Sam's roommate at Tech, and he was best man at our marriage. Very well connected, and his wife comes from a fine family. They are Virginians," said Sally, with a hint of mockery.

"I knew he was a superior person the minute I saw him! Such perfectly charming manners and such a delightful voice!" She added: "I adore the South! It is so romantic!"

Something between a snort and a grunt came from the front seat. Sally decided she liked Mr. Reinert, and when he met her eye she smiled. She showed them over the rose gardens that were Sam's special pride and hobby, and gave them tea in the living room. Everything Mrs. Reinert saw was "romantic" and "so enchantingly Southern" until Sally felt sick; but her liking for the husband grew, he was so direct, so unaffected, so honest.

He had known Henry Winstead for years—indeed, his father had known Caleb. A hard man, but true to his word and faithful to his friends, was Caleb. Henry was even a better financier—you might call Henry a wizard, he told Sally. Always a quiet, silent sort of chap, Henry—even more so since his wife's death. He had been mad over his wife, poor fellow! Sam was very like his mother. Very like.

"They're all one-woman men, the Winsteads are," said Mr. Reinert. He glanced at Sally speculatively: "You've got one of 'em, and from what I hear, the best of 'em all." He added deliberately: "When a boy gets himself a lovely girl that he's in love with, and a girl marries a handsome fellow that's a credit to his name and his wife—why, I say God bless 'em both."

"Thank you, Mr. Reinert," said the lovely girl that Sam had gotten.

A FRIEND IN NEED

Asks for Reducing Records.

"I am fifty pounds overweight, and my doctor says that I must reduce if I am ever to feel right again. I am wondering if any one has a set of reducing records which are no longer wanted. I cannot afford to buy them but will be glad to pay the postage on any sent to me. C. M."

Correct Vocabulary Is Best Protection for the Young Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Again and again comes this letter or its like: "My boy comes home with the most awful words and expressions. What shall I do? We live in a neighborhood I would never choose, but we are really poor and it can't be helped."

There are thousands of women who wonder how to meet this situation. It seems to me we might handle this as we handle our children's health. Physically, we do everything we can to give them so much positive health that they resist disease. We build up their resistance so that every infection that they are exposed to doesn't make inroads on their health.

We can do the same thing as far as this nomenclature of ignorance and the streets is concerned. These words and expressions that they bring in usually apply to the parts of the body and its various functions.

Supply the children with a whole correct language when they are very young, so that they form the habit of using it, so that they think of their body in those words and they will have a resistance to the common or ribald names when they do hear them. Some of these expressions, to be sure, are found in the Bible—some in old English literature—some still in remote English farm country. But since most of them have come to have an indecent connotation we do not use them.

There is a certain wholesome frank dignity that the body takes on if a child and a growing boy and girl know that each part has a name, and it becomes completely natural for them to use it.

Many fathers and mothers do not themselves know the correct names for the parts and functions of the body.

Geo. F. Harding and Party in Berlin; Will Fly to Russia, Too

[Copyright: 1931: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, Aug. 5.—George F. Harding, of Chicago, former county treasurer, arrived at the Templehof, Berlin, airdrome today in his own monoplane.

"Early tomorrow," he said, "we start on a new trip, taking breakfast at Hanover, luncheon in Amsterdam, and then we will go on to Stockholm and Leningrad."

Berlin's airdrome impressed Mr. Harding as "much better than the Chicago field."

"Why does not the U. S. government build airdromes now? It is time we should be giving out contracts for work," he remarked. "When times are good everything is high, including labor; then we give out lots of contracts. I will be returning home convinced that this is the time to build what we need and keep our money circulating."

Widow of Circus Official Weds Chain Store Owner

Denver, Colo., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Mrs. Katherine Floto, widow of the late Otto Floto, was married today to O. F. Skaggs, Denver business man, at her home. Immediately after the ceremony the bridal couple left for a ranch at Nunn, Colo. O. P. Skaggs is head of a grocery system operating throughout the west. The former Mrs. Floto before her marriage was Miss Katherine Kruger of Kansas City. She was a star performer in the equestrienne ring of the Sells-Floto circus at the time she married Mr. Floto.

Bright Sayings of the Children

While working about in the house one day I chanced to overhear an amusing conversation between my niece and rival nephew. They were heatedly discussing the merits of their various relatives, and Jack was proudly lauding the position of his aviator cousin.

Not to be outdone, Ruth, who was most fond of her two aunts, graduate nurses, hastily replied: "Well, anyway, Jack, you needn't think you are so smart. I have two aunts who are sterilized nurses." M. F.

My nephew, Walter Jr., was in that period when children find it difficult to get absolutely clean. Vacation came. His mother sent him up to wash before dinner. He looked chagrined.

"But, mother," he said, "I thought that this was vacation!" C. D.

Silver Beads Enhance Cotton Evening Frock

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.] — The evening frock made of organdy, or some other sheer cotton material seems to be rooted into Paris styles for keeps. It is nourished by the ruthless simplicity that is a style religion in mondaine circles.

Cotton evening frocks are beginning to pop up even in formal society, and they are being enhanced with embroidery to give them the elegant tone necessary for such particular occasions. St. Gall embroidery is used by Lucien Lelong for some of his cotton evening dresses. Lenief supplies a really thrilling novelty in his organdy frocks that are embroidered in the tiniest of beads.

A Lenief beaded organdy evening dress is sketched today. It is made of white organdy, and from a sheer, high necked yoke of plain organdy right down to the hem, the dress is made of alternating bands of tucked organdy and serpentine bands of the same material covered by a design of tiniest silver beads. The effect is utterly beautiful, and entirely new.

Lenief cuts this frock with a simplicity that is perfect, the bodice being plain, with a slight blouse under the sash, and the skirt being slightly flared by inverted box plaits set in at intervals around it from waistline to hem.

AN ENGLISHMAN

DISCUSSES AMERICAN WOMEN

"To be candid, she is the most fascinating woman in the world—the American. Surprisingly she combines the allurements of women of every nationality. Only one thing is missing—the incomparable complexion my own countrywomen have.

"Englishwomen have used Pears' Soap for 142 years. American women are so clever they will probably start using Pears' and we will no longer have a monopoly on the most beautiful skin in the world." Desert Lure; 'Book of Tish'; 'Adam and Eve'

Clare Sheridan, Mrs. Rinehart and Mark Twain.

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

CLARE SHERIDAN, whose biography, "The Naked Truth," was widely read and much commented upon several years ago, has written a new book, a novel called "The Substitute Bride" [Longmans-Green]. The author's love of adventure took her to Algiers and there she is living at the edge of the desert in the country and among the people she describes in her book.

CLARE SHERIDAN.

"The Substitute Bride" is a book saturated with revealing the customs and the daily life of the Arabs. Arab women in every walk of life are pictured and their existence in the closed confines of the harem furnishes a major portion of the subject matter. The French colony is also described. In the love of the desert felt by two of the European characters in the story is reflected Clare Sheridan's own feeling for it.

She has found it one of the few places in the world where she can get away from civilization, although the manifestations of civilization are becoming increasingly evident even here. "The best of Europe never reaches the Arabs," says Mrs. Sheridan. "It seems as though European civilization, jealous of Africa's great beauty, seeks to deface it." Filling stations, gramophones, tourists, and villas, each one with a garage whether it has a bush or a tree anywhere in sight or not, are doing a good deal to deface the landscape of Biskra.

The book's glimpses of real Arab life, much the same today as it was centuries ago, is most interesting. The plot itself is rather sensational and gaudy, and the episode of the French girl trapped in the desert with El Ouid, Arab chieftain, is strongly reminiscent of "The Sheik." It is moving-picture rather than artistic in tone.

Verging on the bizarre, also, is the scene in which Anne-Marie changes places with the frightened bride in the household of these desert people with an Englishman, playing the rôle of the good Samaritan, takes the bride to safety. One can fairly hear the steady grinding of the camera and see the searing glare of the Klieg's as the extras, garbed as Arab women, fall in line for the mob scene. What a way this would be on the screen!

Those who liked "The Garden of Allah" of Robert Hichens and "The Sheik" will be thrilled over "The Substitute Bride."

And here's good news for another group of literary fans: The large and eagerly audience so enormously entertained by the doings of Mary Roberts Rinehart's Tish, Lizzie, and Aggie. Now you can get all of the adventures of these three ladies in one book. It's a big fat one of 345 pages, called the "Book of Tish" [Farrar & Rinehart], and would make an ideal gift for an invalid in need of a grin, a millionaire broker ditto, your grandmother, or your cousins and your sons, or even—yourself.

And for the delectation of the other brows come a most artistic dozen of five of Schnitzler's works, with a long and interesting introduction giving an account of his life and of the writing of each story. This program is by Otto P. Schinnerer of Columbia university.

The book is called "Viennese Novelettes" [Simon & Shuster] and contains: "Fraulein Elsa," which won for the author his great body of American readers; "None but the Brave," which dissects with subtle irony the concept of prewar Viennese "honor"; "Beatrice," the story of a woman tormented by her Indian summer love and by her intense feeling for her son, called one of Schnitzler's most impressive achievements; "Rhapsody," the adventures of Dr. Fridolin; and "Daybreak," the tale of a young army officer who seeks to rescue a casual acquaintance from the disgrace resulting from failure to pay his gambling debts.

Both "Eve's Diary" and "Extracts from Adam's Diary," by Mark Twain, have been published separately and also included in the collected works of Mark Twain. In going over some old correspondence of the writer's, recently, the publishers discovered a letter in which occurred these lines: "Let's bind Adam and Eve in one cover. They score points against each other—so, if not bound together, some of the points would not be perceived." So, in accordance with this wish, expressed so long ago, Harper & Brothers have now published "The Private Life of Adam and Eve" in a new format with all the original illustrations of both volumes.

There are probably many readers who have not had the pleasure of reading either of these sketches, and consequently this will seem to many to be an entirely new Mark Twain item.

CHARLES H. SABIN JR. SECRETLY MARRIES WASHINGTON WOMAN

Boston, Mass., Aug. 5. —[Special.]—Mrs. Dorothy Layman Ransdell of Washington, D. C., was married to Charles H. Sabin Jr., son of the chairman of the board of the Guaranty Trust company of New York, on July 27 at the summer home of the bride's parents, Bayberry Ledge, Eastern Point, Gloucester, it was announced here today.

The bride is the former Miss Dorothy Layman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Layman of Washington, D. C., and Gloucester. Her former marriage to Dr. Robert C. Ransdell, also of Washington, was ended by divorce last October.

Mr. Sabin married Miss Ruth Ogden on June 2, 1927. Several months ago they were divorced in Reno.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The marquis of Reading, former viceroy of India, and for twenty years an eminent figure in British politics, and Miss Stella Charpaud, known as "the most remarkable woman in London," will be married tomorrow.

The announcement of the engagement was made today when they called at the Prince's row registry office to arrange for the civil ceremony.

Lord Reading is seventy years old and Miss Charnaud, who has served as his secretary for several years, is 27.

"I am still going to be the perfect private secretary," she said today as she left the registry office.

Her perfection in that rôle has been commented on for years in the important business and political circles into which her work has taken her. An American business man recently offered her $25,000 a year if she would join his organization.

In addition she has a reputation as a beauty, a musician, and a linguist.

Miss Charnaud was a member of the vice regal staff when Lord Reading was in India from 1921 to 1926 and returned with him to England in a similar capacity when he was succeeded by Lord Irwin. She became his chief assistant in all political matters and played an active rôle in his work in behalf of India at the first round table conference.

Lord Readng, son of a London merchant, s widely known in the United States through his various official visits there. In 1915 he was president of the Anglo-French loan mission to the United States, and subsequently he served as special envoy and as high commissioner and special ambassador.

The rise of Lord Reading to high place has been dramatic. His first job was as a cabin boy, and he got it by running away to sea at the age of fourteen, when he was Rufus Daniel Isaacs. Then there was an unsuccessful venture on the stock exchange, after which he studied law and was admitted to the bar.

As a Liberal he represented Reading in the house of commons from 1904 to 1913, and among the important government posts he has held are solicitor general and attorney general.

He went to India as viceroy in 1921 and Miss Charnaud was a member of his staff. When he returned in 1926 she remained with him as chief assistant in all political matters and was of great aid to him during the first round table conference in London.

Children's Civic Theater Opens Navy Pier Season

Not all the folks enjoying the recreational advantages of the lake shore were on the beach yesterday. Fully 2,000 were on the Navy pier watching a matinée production of the Children's Civic theater.

U. S. AGENTS SEIZE NATIVE BARBERRY ON NORTH SHORE ESTATES

North shore and western suburb residents who have neglected their botany in planting barberry bushes are finding that where they have made the mistake of planting the common barberry [Berberis vulgaris] government scouts are taking up the bushes with trowels and spades in order to further the campaign to remove the shrub that harbors rust spores which attack wheat.

Yesterday morning scores of the common barberry, which differs from the harmless and low growing Japanese barberry, were dug from the depot plantings at Ravinia. Earlier in the week between 300 and 400 were discovered on the lake bluffs of the Edith Rockefeller McCormick estate. Where there was no other useful vegetation nearby the scouts are applying salt to kill the shrubs, but where the plants are small they are dug out with a trowel or otherwise removed with spades.

G. E. Matheny, in charge of the Lake Forest office from which a crew of seven is scouting residential and rural areas, reports that since the office was opened this year more than 2,000 barberry bushes have been eradicated and their location put on maps so that work in the future will be simplified. Similar crews are at work in the other suburban fields.

He finds that most gardeners are aware of the difference between the common and the Japenese barberries. The latter, which are not being molested as they do not harbor the rust producing spores, are low growing, have single thorns, small and smooth edged leaves and produce red berries singly or in twos. The hunted vulgaris type has spiny edged leaves, grows coarser, has three pronged spines or thorns and produces its berries in clusters.

Some work in the north shore district was done in 1927 but reports indicate that the residential sections have far more of the common barberry bushes than rural areas of the state. Government tests indicate the spores are borne in a wind many miles. Clusters of rust spores are not so numerous on the bushes this year, according to Mr. Matheny, but the eradication program is being continued similar to other years.

Women's Peace League En Route to Hoover by Special Caravan

A caravan traveling for the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom will reach Chicago next Wednesday, on its way from Los Angeles to Washington with a petition to be presented to the 1932 world disarmament conference.

Miss Louise Wier of Starkville, Miss., an advance scout for the caravan, who arrived here yesterday, said the Chicago branch, headed by Miss Alice Boynton, will present the caravan with 10,000 signatures of Chicagoans asking world disarmament.

These names will join 100,000 others which will be presented to President Hoover early in October by Miss Jane Addams, international president, and a delegation of members from all over the United States. Later the names will be taken to Geneva to be presented to the world disarmament conference, with similar petitions from forty other nations.

In its overland trip the seven members of the caravan, headed by Mabel Vernon, Wilmington, Del., Miss Wier said, have been greeted by governors and mayors. The party will stop in towns along the north shore on Tuesday and spend Wednesday and Thursday in Chicago.

The petition asks for total and universal disarmament and requests the delegates to the 1932 conference to examine all proposals that have been made and others to be made, and take the necessary steps to bring about disarmament.

Rabbi Favors 3 Billion U. S. Fund for Idle

Urges Y. M. C. A. to Ask Public Work Plan.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Plea was made today for unemployment relief through an immediate government program of $3,000,000,000 in public works. The idea was discussed at the world conference of the Young Men's Christian association here today by Rabbi Edward L. Israel of Baltimore, chairman of the social justice commission of the central conference of American rabbis.

"If we had joblessness and starvation because of a dearth of material, we could look upon it as an act of God and throw up our hands in despair," the rabbi said.

"But when women and children starve because there is too much food and children go barefoot because their fathers have made too many shoes, it is a sure indication that there is something fundamentally wrong."

A proposal to admit women and girls into the Y. M. C. A. organization was made by Walter N. Wood, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in Philadelphia. He said that city has applied that idea for the last eighteen years.

"Present day emphasis," he said, "is on the common interests of the sexes. One of the chief services an association can render is to lead men and women, boys and girls, to work and play together for mutual respect and helpfulness."

U. of C. Scholarships Too Few to Supply Freshmen's Demands

Due to an unprecedented number of applications the University of Chicago will be unable to provide scholarships this autumn for 132 high school graduates who ordinarily would qualify for free tuition to the university, according to a statement yesterday by William C. Cramer, secretary of admission. Although the university recently increased its number of freshman awards, no provision can be found for 80 candidates who were in the upper 5 per cent of their high school senior classes in scholarship, 31 who were in the upper 10 per cent, and 21 who were in the upper 15 per cent.

The total number of applicants for regular admission to the university's freshman class was 1,197 on Aug. 1, according to Mr. Cramer's report. This number is 196 more than of the same date last year, and is the largest number for that date in the history of the university. Of those who have been accepted, 567 are men and 369 are women. Fifty-five per cent of the total are from Chicago.

[Copyright: 1931. By the New York Times.]

BAYREUTH, Germany, Aug. 5.—In a rehearsal yesterday for a Siegfried Wagner memorial concert, Arturo Toscanini suddenly stopped, broke his baton into pieces and left the Podium greatly irritated with the performance of the orchestra.

He refused to proceed with the rehearsal and said he would not conduct his part of the concert scheduled last night. It was, accordingly, scratched off the program. Toscanini also declined to conduct the "Tannhaeuser" performance tonight and yielded only when Mrs. Wagner and Wilhelm Furtwaengler, director of the festival, brought their influence to bear on him.

Then a new difficulty arose. The orchestra, which had been under a tremendous strain throughout the week, was deeply offended, but a reconciliation was finally affected. The reason for the incident is believed to be that the accoustics of the large hall were impaired because it was empty during the rehearsal.

Circus, Here Saturday, Will Greet About 1,000 Poor Children

The Big Top is coming to town Saturday. That means business is picking up for lots of youngsters who find the summer growing dull. When the forty-three elephants, the 700 horses and over 1,000 menagerie animals arrive early Saturday at the Illinois Central sidings in the Water street yards there will be a youthful audience waiting.

Sixteen hundred persons are to take part in the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey circus, which will give two performances daily for nine days in Grant park, beginning Saturday afternoon. It will take four trains to bring the Big Top to Chicago.

Among those who will see the circus will be 1,000 children from Episcopal institutions and summer schools, Mrs. Charles Frankenthal, director of the charities for the circus, announced yesterday.

X-Ray Pushes Electrons About Inside Atoms

Western Experts to Tell Work in Detail.

Pasadena, Cal., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Completion of a prism spectograph proving the effect of an X-ray on the electrons within an atom is to be announced to the scientific world next week in a paper by the inventors, Jesse William Monroe Du Mond and Harry McAllister Kirkpatrick of the California Institute of Technology.

The device establishes, according to the two scientists, that there is electronic motion within the atom, the X-ray acting on the electrons in the manner of a billiard ball rolled violently into the midst of other billiard balls.

The theory was conceived by Du Mond and Kirkpatrick four years ago, and they have worked steadily since in contriving a 50 crystal prism spectograph, every prism being fixed on a single line in the spectrum.

They said they assumed at the start that X-ray waves are scattered by electrons, and that as the scattering angle is increased a broader line would be cast by the X-ray spectrum. Their second hypothesis was that a narrower angle would result in a narrower line.

The instrument proves both theories, they declare. It is so delicately adjusted that the spectrum cast by the 50 prisms can be so superimposed that all the spectrum lines fall exactly on the same place on a photographic plate.

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Aug. 5. —The great Dublin horse show is proceeding in glorious weather. The city is full of visitors. The horse exhibits continue to hold their own, both in numbers and quality, despite the almost universality of auto transport. Hunting horses still are in demand, but prices are somewhat lower than last year.

The social side, as usual, proves to be a great attraction and the latest and most startling dress innovations are to be seen in the paddocks. The diplomatic corps is strongly represented and a brilliant gathering attended the reception last night at the American legation which was given by Mrs. Frederick A. Sterling, wife of the minister. There were several hundred present, including Miss E. Cummings, Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert and Edward Sterling of New York.

Styles' Gayety to Bring Brighter Days, It's Hoped

Interstate Merchants See Better Business.

Optimism and prosperity were the keynotes yesterday at the Interstate Merchants council meeting in the Palmer house. Amos Parrish, a fashion arbiter and merchandising expert, declared that riotous colors in women's clothing and "anti-depression" styles will make gloom an impossibility this fall.

"Elation will be the word for the new styles," Mr. Parrish said. "No woman can be gloomy with the thrilling colors and charming designs of the new fashions. Why, if she so much as bows her head to shed one tear her little hat will fall right in her lap. The styles will make people cheerful and that means a resumption of normal prosperity."

Mr. Parrish told the merchants, who represent all corners of the continent, that the next six months are to be months of thrilling fight for wide awake merchants. Scientific buying and scientific selling will change the recent losses to profits, and cause a general return of prosperous spending, buying, and employment, he said.

"Our advice," he said, "is to take the shine off the seat of your pants and put it in your eyes. Sell your handkerchiefs and make a profit, but quit using them to wipe tears out of your eyes."

Ten points of good merchandising were stressed by Mr. Parrish. They embodied a small stock, rapid turnover, scientific selling and buying, and the provision of the best merchandise than can be obtained at the prices customers will pay.

Advertising increase both in space and quality was urged upon the merchants. Drama in advertising is one of the surest methods of encouraging normal buying, according to Mr. Parrish. He predicted at great length just what fall styles will be.

"Cheerfulness will be the keynote," he said, "and that is what the world needs. Gay colors, perky hat with plenty of zip, trimmed shoes and two color dresses will be the thing. Shawl collars will be favored for coats with black the prevailing color.

"Wider shoulders, smaller waists, normal waistlines, sensible skirts with less flare than last year, giving the appearance of height, will be seen. The skirt length will not go lower. Light weight woolen dresses and rougher woolen coats will be demanded. Women are going to dress in a more ladylike manner. The petticoat is going to return to popularity."

Tight Skirts in Vogue.

PARIS, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Split skirts returned today when dressmakers exhibiting fall styles displayed gowns so tight the skirts had to be slashed at the hem in order to permit their wearers to walk.

Satin taffeta evening gowns, with skirts tight below the kneeline and the fullness drawn to the back in drapes and modified trains, were designed with concealed slits behind the draperies.

Even full skirts were often slit six inches up from the hem, as many as eight slashes being used in the skirt of one model.

Evening wraps varied from waist length to hem length, and from models richly furred to those without pelts. Violet, ruby red, emerald, sapphire, and mother-of-pearl tints were favorite evening coat shades.

Prices described as lower than those of pre-war days were announced last night at a brilliant fall fashion opening displaying practical modes for daytime wear and ruffled, swishing trains of the eighties for evening.

Jacques Worth, claiming the house of Worth had not stinted in the quality or quantity of materials, workmanship, or embroidered details, said he had met the demand of economic conditions with a price cut of 25 per cent under last season.

Woman Urges Making Treaties in Way People Can Grasp

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 5.—(AP)—A supplemental pact to the Briand-Kellogg peace treaty providing for an immediate consultation among signatory powers in event of a war crisis was advocated at today's discussion of the institute of politics.

William E. Rappard of Geneva said the Briand-Kellogg treaty, also known as the pact of Paris, was regarded by the average European as an incomplete document. Until a clear definition of just what the pact renounces is provided, he asserted, the peace treaty will not realize a full measure of accomplishment.

This discussion was lightened when Miss Ruth Cowdray of Madras, India, wanted to know why Will Rogers or some one else with a homely vocabulary were not called in to "translate" the diplomatic phraseology for common folk.

Rappard said there was "doubt as to the real meaning which the American state department attached to renunciation of war."

Italy would be in accord with a consultative pact if one were promulgated, in the opinion of Dr. Luigi Villari, Italian writer and international relations expert. The Kellogg pact is weak, he said, because it suggests no line of action for its own enforcement. Both he and Rappard stressed European approval of the United States' collaboration abroad.

The company for which Mr. Snider worked in a small Illinois town went broke. After a weary search in Chicago, he finally found a job in a foundry. The wages were so small that he could scarcely provide food and shelter for his wife and six children.

The depression came. The foundry closed. Because the Snider family was obliged to cut down on nourishing food the children became undernourished and ill. The youngest, Benny, 11 months old, has defective vision, and has already undergone several operations. He must have another.

"It is a heartbreaking case," commented the social worker from the United Charities. "This family is fond of this child, and are concerned with one thing, that the baby must regain his vision. Future operations will largely depend upon his physical resistance. This family must have ice to keep the baby's milk sweet."

Just one item in a social worker's day, the Snider family. Another responsibility on her shoulders, already overburdened with the cares of Chicago's needy unemployed. The visit of the ice man to the Snider back door will not solve the family problems, but it will do much toward easing them by keeping food fresh and avoiding more sickness.

A small gift goes a long way when it comes to buying ice. Through the six weeks of hot weather yet to come THE TRIBUNE free ice fund will need all the friends it can muster. Can you help?

FARM AND GARDEN

HOW TO PICK A MELON.

It takes more than a barefoot boy "cooning" melons in the moonlight to make the best selections from the garden melon patch. How to do it right is described by J. W. Lloyd, chief in olericulture at the college of agriculture of the University of Illinois.

Those who do not know how to tell when a muskmelon is ripe are missing one of the biggest satisfactions in a season's gardening, says Mr. Lloyd. To be at its best, the melon must be plucked neither too green nor too ripe.

"As a melon nears maturity, there usually is a gradual change in the color of the skin plainly visible through the netting. In most varieties the change is from green to gray and then slightly yellow. About the time the gray stage is reached, a crack begins to appear about the stem of the melon. This soon deepens so that the melon can be separated from the stem by moderate pressure of the thumb. When this stage is reached, it is time to pick the melon. The melon is now ready for immediate use but should be kept in a moderately cool place for 24 to 48 hours to soften and develop richness of flavor. To get melons at the right stage of maturity, gardeners must go over the patch every day."

Weigh Ice on Scales, Grein Order to Dealers

Smooth and Lovely Arms Complement Sleeveless Frocks

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

You just can't insert a lady in one of those lustrous white satin evening frocks, nor, for that matter, in a sleeveless sports dress and not have attention called to her hands and arms.

In a frock of delicate net texture, let's say, or any of the innovation sweet-girl-graduate materials now being molded for sophisticated wear, it is expected that the color and condition of the skin exposed will be under critical scrutiny. In fact, the dress reversion to femininity just naturally calls for hands and arms looking the part of former poetic description.

The first and most important consideration anent the exposed arm pertains to its girth or extreme lack of girth. That is, the overweighted upper arm or the extremely skinny underpadded one. Of the two menaces, however, the latter is the more easily forgiven. Personally, I don't think piano legs, inflated diaphragms, huge waistbands, or sprawling hips are quite as distortingly ugly as huge, beefy arms with flesh wabbling with every move they make. And, believe me, those arms that are on the beefy make have to be caught young or it's a difficult job getting their weight off later. Massage treatments I advise strongly for those who can afford them. And vigorous arm swinging movements for those who have to do their own flesh unrolling.

But it's about the skin condition that I want to speak today. If the skin on the arm is red, from wind or sunburn, a bleaching lotion were better put to work if you have the sleeveless dinner gown in mind. There are good bleaching lotions on the market. And some have quick results.

If the arms are large pored, as some are, you can use a good astringent thereon. And the business of powdering for that dress appearance should not stop at the chin or throat line. The arms should be toned down. If the color is violently red, one of the green or mauve powders might prove the most effective toner. Anyway, think of the arms as a skin surface undergoing critical scrutiny akin to that which faces undergo right now.

Movie Gossip from Hollywood

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—Francis X. Bushman, who was a matinée idol before Red Grange was born, and for twenty years afterward, as well, is now cast to play a rôle in the famous Wheaton athlete's support, in "Galloping Ghost."

Football stories like Grange's, musicals and mystery thrillers fill the studios' production list this summer, the gangster story rage being definitely on the fade out. Those sophisticated "Let's pretend you're my husband" yarns, in which Norma Shearer, Connie Bennett, and Ruth Chatterton wore so much lingerie during the last year, are considered almost as dead at this moment as silent movies.

Universal is starting a series of two feel mystery yarns, in which Lina Basquette will be featured. They're grouped as "The Shadow Detective Series." Several of the series are adapted from murder cases of the last ten years. The first one is "The Vollasimo Case," but the fact it sounds like "Colosimo Case" is only coincidence, according to Universal. James Murray, who is getting a third or fourth start in films, after his previous starts were interrupted; Jason Robards, who was well known in the silent days, and Stanley Fields are in the cast with Miss Basquette.

John Considine's romance with Joan Bennett being all off, the once formally announced and subsequently publicly broken engagement between Considine and Carmen Pantages, was called to their attention again, because Miss Pantages and Considine spent the last month or two considerably in each other's company. "It remains to be seen what the future will tell," Miss Pantages said. "We remain the very best of friends, and I am sure we always will be."

Lupe Velez brought six fur coats back from New York recently. She already had six. What a girl for a mothball salesman to know!

Even Johnny Evers, the Cubs' old second baseman, who stands out in this writer's recollection as the most consistent crab he ever watched, might get a laugh out of the new picture M-G-M is making. It's called "The New Wallingford," the only thing the studio asked in casting actors for it, was: "Is he a good actor? Can he really make people laugh?" The answer to the query was the casting of this sextet for the six chief rôles: Bill Haines, Jimmy [Cyrano] Durante, Ernest Torrence, J. C. Nugent, Guy Kibbee, and Robert McWade.

Popularity Depends on Much More Than the Kissing Angle

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I let fellows take me home and kiss me and they never take me out again. I let them take me home and don't kiss them and I never hear from them again. So, what's the use of meeting people if they don't want to see you again? I've tried every way of pleasing them. I give up now—and leave it to you to suggest something. WHAT NEXT."

Well, if you'll take my suggestion, W. N., I'll give it. Don't try pleasing so hard. Please—but don't overwork the game. It makes you appear too anxious to curry favor. What you want to make the boys do is to earn your favor. Naturally enough, you must do something to earn their favor—but don't think you're going to be voted a popular girl by doing everything you're asked to do.

And anyway, where do you get the idea that a girl's popularity revolves solely around the problem of whether to kiss or not? There are countless other angles to the business of making yourself liked. That you are kissed, that you are asked for kisses doesn't mean a single thing.

That you are permitted to go on inside the house without the request doesn't swing your popularity either. That's where so many of you maids make your big mistake. You put too much emphasis on the osculatory theme. You gamble too hard on it. You think if you kiss that's a short cut to dates. That if you don't kiss, that's another way to earn popularity.

You overlook your personal charm or lack of it as a controlling feature; your manner with the boys—whether it irritates or soothes; your ability to dance well or your lack of this vitally important accomplishment; your sympathetic interest in the boys' affairs; your interest in their sports; your own development along that line. Your line of chatter—whether it is gay or dull. Your well placed bit of flattery.

There are countless things that overshadow that osculatory theme that runs so rampant in your arguments on popularity and unpopularity.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Showing Off the Bargains.

For the last two years I have been trading with a certain grocer. However, recently I decided to try another grocer who advertised lower prices.

I did so and was nearly home when I remembered that I had forgotten to purchase one article. It had begun to rain, and not wishing to walk all the way back, I stopped in at my regular grocer's store.

He eyed the large grocery bag in my arms suspiciously, and I hastily explained that it contained empty ginger ale bottles which I was returning to the drug store. I tried to get a firmer grip on the heavy bag, when suddenly there was a ripping sound towards the bottom of it, and various cans and bunches of vegetables showered down onto the floor.

And did I blush as the grocer got another bag and gathered up my bargains!

Food Talk.

We are situated in the heart of the market for fresh vegetables. Yet the selection offered in most of the public dining rooms, and in many homes, is pitiful. Not only do we have few to choose from, but those which are served are so unappealing in appearance and poor in flavor that we hesitate about ordering vegetables a second time.

Vegetables are most palatable when cooked until just tender, and then served immediately. Although this is difficult to do in a large eating unit, the extra time spent in the preparation of a variety of cooked vegetables, instead of just one, will be amply repaid in the finer quality of the product.

In the home, the vegetables should be cleaned and kept in readiness until the time when the completion of their cooking process will coincide with the serving of the meal.

There are several different types of vegetables, and the cooking process that will produce the finest of each differs somewhat according to the composition of the vegetable. The green vegetables are the most delicate, and they must be carefully cooked to preserve the color. Experimental cookery has established the fact that cooking the green vegetables in a large amount of salted, boiling water, in an open vessel until just tender will give the best color and flavor [one teaspoonful of salt to each quart of water is sufficient].

Spinach is an exception, as the water that remains on the leaves plus the large amount of natural water is sufficient to cook the spinach. Chicago water is alkaline enough to preserve the beautiful green color in green vegetables, but where the water is neutral or slightly acid the addition of one-sixteenth of a teaspoon of soda to each quart of water used in the cooking is sufficient to retain the color.

Red and yellow vegetables, such as beets and carrots, are much more stable in their color contents. They may be cooked in a small amount of water, in a covered vessel, until tender and the liquid can be boiled down to keep the greatest amount of the nutrients. Pressure cooking or steaming are equally good for these vegetables as the vegetables cook in the smallest amount of water, thereby saving the most flavor and nutrients.

Our white vegetable, in whose number we find onions, are difficult to cook because of the development of an objectionable odor and flavor. Prolonged cooking also produces a soiled white color. These vegetables are best cooked in the same manner as the green ones, that is boiling in a large volume of salted water in an uncovered vessel until just tender. This method will produce onions with a mild, sweet flavor and a pure white color that will tempt the appetite of anyone.

BY THALIA.

THE renaissance of ping pong first noticed about a year or so ago is quite well established now, and the game enjoys great popularity as a polite and fashionable summer diversion. Last summer you could count practically on one hand the number of people in Lake Forest who owned ping pong tables, but now almost every one has them.

Although old and young play the game, and proficiency at the sport is not imperative to enjoying it, it's probable and, of course, desirable to develop a high degree of skill at batting the little celluloid spheres back and forth.

Mrs. Edward L. Hasler's garden, wherein her ping pong table is set up in good weather, is the battleground for numerous spirited matches, and Mrs. Arthur Aldises' is out of doors in the garden. The Floyd Evanses have a set of a ping pong gallery, a great deal used in their lovely house. Mr. Evans rates, I'm given to understand by competent authority on the ping pong situation, as one of the best players, and both Mr. and Mrs. Owen Jones are very adept at it. However Lien is one of the better players, and others who are considered formidable opponents are Alexander Revell Jr., Bob Hixon, Mrs. Jim Forgan, Mrs. Sam Rinaker, Mrs. Charles V. Isaacs Jr., and Mrs. George L. Dickson.

Mrs. John Lewis Cochran and Mrs. Cyrus Hill and their respective youngsters were a bit discomfited to find Chicago so hot when they arrived yesterday after the grand weather they've been enjoying out west. They've been at the L Bar T ranch in the Jackson Hole region, dude ranching it since the latter part of June and liking it immensely, Mrs Hill and her children are off immediately to Mackinac island for the rest of the summer, and the young Cochrans are going on Friday to visit their grandparents, the Murray Peabody Brushes, in Maryland. Their cousin, "Pebo" Brush, son of the Murray P. Brushes Jr., is there also. The Albert Day Farwells of Lake Forest, who have been at the same ranch, returned a few days ago.

Miss Geraldine Swift, the Gustavus F. Swifts' daughter, is at Bar Harbor, Me., for a visit with Miss Janet Ayer, daughter of the Walter Ayers. She plans to visit Ruth Crossett at Hyannisport on Capt Cod later, and will be gone several weeks in all.

News of Other Chicagoans and Their Vacations.

In and out of town—Mrs. Albert De Wolfe Erskine who has been doing so well since she went into business selling insurance that she was rather loath to take time off, finally has departed for a vacation at the Erskine island at Desbarats, Canada. . . The Fairbanks Carpenters' telephone does not answer, so they must have set off as they planned for Maine to visit Mrs. Carpenter's parents, the George J. Farnsworths, at their summer place, Green Gables, at Castine. . . The Wirt Mortons of 1325 Astor street were to sail yesterday on the Empress of Britain from Quebec to visit London and Paris, to be away until early in September. . . The J. Andrews Kings and the King children are expected back in Lake Forest today from a visit with Mr. King's mother, Mrs. Rockwell King, at her summer place at Bear Island, Me.

Other Travels Largely in Various European Nations.

Also—Mr. and Mrs. Brayton Witherell of Winnetka and their daughter, Miss Ann, who are traveling in Europe, left Vienna the latter part of last month to motor to Prague, then Berlin, and some other places before sailing for home . . . Mrs. Robert A. Gardner has departed for Maine for her summer visit with her mother, Mrs. Chauncey Keep, at Camden . . . Mrs. Gardner's brother-in-law and sister, the James C. Hutchinses and their two daughters arrived in Paris from Venice about the 12d of July. They planned to go to Camden before returning to Chicago. . . . A house party including Josephine Dennehy, Connie Hasler, Hortense Henry, Gordon Kelley, and Dustin Grannis is going up to Desbarats on Saturday to be guests of Mrs. James O. Heyworth.

Mrs. Milton Florsheim is to open her residence at 725 Waverly place, Highland Park, next Tuesday from 11 o'clock in the morning until 4 in the afternoon for a summer exhibit of the Industrial Workshops of Chicago. Advanced fall models of lingerie, pajamas, maids' outfits, and gifts will be shown. The women's board of the Workshops sponsors the exhibit and Mrs. Bernard Mayer and Mrs. A. G. Ballenberg will assist. The board includes Mrs. I. H. Mayer, Mrs. C. B. Stumes, Mrs. Julius Rosenwald, and Mrs. S. I. Karger.

Lecture on "Peter Ibbetson" Grows More Popular.

There are so many people expected to attend Carleton Smith's lecture on "Peter Ibbetson," which was to have been held this morning at the Walter Dill Scott residence, that they have decided to have it instead at the Evanston Woman's club across the street.

There is evidently a lot of partying going on at Bar Harbor this week prior to Miss Barbara Kent's marriage on Saturday to William Laurens Van Alen. The groom, those of the bridesmaids who weren't already at Bar Harbor, and some of the ushers arrived the first of the week. Miss Kent's parents, the Atwater Kents, gave a dinner on Saturday evening at their shore estate, Sonogo, and Miss Bertha Palmer and Miss Eleanor McCormick, who are to be bridesmaids, were hostesses at a dinner at the Potter Palmers' Hare Forest on Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gerson of Aurora announce the engagement of their daughter, Lois, to Ralph Stacker of St. Paul, Minn. The wedding is to take place in the fall, after which Mr. Stacker and his bride are to reside in St. Paul.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover returned to the White House this afternoon from the Rapidan camp.

Vice President Curtis and Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Gann were guests at dinner tonight aboard the Maribel, houseboat of Mrs. William Huntington of Florida, who came here to visit Mrs. David B. Wills. The Vice President and his brother-in-law and sister will leave by motor early Saturday for Gloucester, Mass., to visit Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose.

Assistant Attorney General and Mrs. John Lord O'Brian of Buffalo announced the engagement of their daughter, Janet, to Dr. Winfield Louis Butch of New Haven, Conn. Miss O'Brian was a debutante of last season. Dr. Butch is a son of the late Dr. John Louis Butch of Rochester, Minn.

The committee arranging the President's cup regatta to be held on the Potomac in September gave a reception this afternoon at the navy yard. Mrs. Edmund F. Jewell, wife of the chairman of the committee, received the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Livingston Bailey announce the engagement of the latter's daughter, India Bell Corea, to Marvin E. Fowler of Mexico, Mo. The wedding will take place here Sept. 3. Miss Corea is the daughter of a former minister from Nicaragua, Dr. Luis F. Corea.

FINDS JEFFERSON, MADISON SIGNATURES IN DOLLAR BARGAIN

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—(AP)—N. N. Wallack, book collector, today picked a 100-to-1 shot. Attracted by a periodical from Calcutta, India, he paid $1 for 30 old magazines, to refuse, a few minutes later, an offer of $100 from the auctioneer who sold him the bundle.

The reason was that a parchment of April 11, 1803, bearing the signature of Thomas Jefferson, President, and James Madison, secretary of state, had fallen from one of the yellowing periodicals.

The document was a land grant to 1,000 Ohio acres, made to Capt. Larkin Smith in recognition of his meritorious service in the revolutionary war.

Stevens Hotel Decides Not to Hire Dancing Men

Gigolos will not dance on the ballroom floors of the Stevens hotel. This was the pronouncement last night of Miss Llewellyn Jones, social director there, who announced recently that she was considering hiring dancing partners for lonely woman guests at the hotel.

Hundreds of applications were received on news of her announcement. Along came as many protests, the sum and substance dealing with disapproval of the word gigolo. Moreover, the clientele does not want gigolos.

"Americans are not in sympathy with the idea of 'dancing men,'" said Miss Jones, "although they may be impeccable schoolboys just trying to get along without any predatory inclinations whatever. In the future we shall eliminate dancing from the things to be done by our male escorts. Evidently the word itself has been the chief cause of reaction against the type."

Moroccan Sultan in Paris; Received by President

Be sure you get the tire so far ahead in quality and value that it is outstandingly the first-choice tire of the world.

That tire is the Goodyear Tire. For 16 years it has been true that "More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!"

The vote, representing every section and uninfluenced in any way, shows a preference for Goodyear Tires nearly 2¼ times that for the second tire, and five times the average preference for all other makes.

Just keep firmly in mind that Goodyears enjoy leadership because they give the user something extra, and that the user gets that something extra today at no premium in price.

When the high-pressure dealer seeks to sell you a second-choice tire against your better judgment, protect yourself by asking him this simple question:

ROSENBLOOM'S GENTLE SLAPS BEAT SLATTERY

Fans Start Home in 7th Round.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 5.—Maxie Rosenbloom, the light heavyweight champion, and Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo, danced and whirled through the movements of a fifteen round waltz at the Brooklyn ball yard this evening in one of those prize fights that evoke editorials entitled "Can Nothing Be Done About This?"

Rosenbloom won the decision, retaining the title, and Slattery lost, but the patrons took the punishment and there was great disorder as the fleeing customers jammed up in the exits in their flight.

Fortunately there were few people present, not more than 10,000 at a loose estimate, but those who did sit it will be a long time recovering from the horror of it all.

The bout was promoted by James J. Johnston, who has succeeded the 69 millionaires of the Garden corporation as the leading prizefight promoter in the east. Notwithstanding Mr. Johnston's most diligent efforts to gossip the matter about town, the fight remained almost a secret.

It's Terrible Spectacle.

The bout quickly developed into the worst prizefight seen in this region since the afternoon when Johnny Wilson and Bryan Downey fell asleep in each others arms at Jersey City several years ago. Both athletes tonight leaped out to vindicate the judgment of those customers who stayed away and saved their money.

Rosenbloom's attack was a back hand left slap on the nose and a right hand across on Slattery's left flank. The Irish youth, boxing with his mouth agape, couldn't make up his mind to lead and when Rosenbloom stepped and closed in for each ensuing clinch he yanked the champion to him with his left and waved his right in a wide, peaceful gesture. A few times he thumped Maxie on the ear, but generally, he seemed to drift off into pleasant dreams of rickeys and Tom Collinses and let the right hand drop to his side. Emerging from some of the clinches, Slattery chinned Rosenbloom with his left forearm and, in an apparent desire to annoy but not hurt an old colleague, pushed his gently on the nose as they parted.

Between rounds, Rosenbloom sat in his corner, breathing quietly and discussing some private matter, obviously unconnected with the fight, with his seconds. They may have been talking about some girl, or girls.

Some Flee; Others Hoot.

The customers began to flee from the ringside sections as early as the fourth round, but the people upstairs, who irritated at themselves for spending their money in this way than at the fighters, who certainly had given them fair warning, began to make derisive noises. Unaffected by this, the boys swung from one figure of the dance to another, a big, rangy Irish gladiator who was supposed to have a right hand punch using his right hand mainly to fan mosquitoes off his opponent and the other fellow idly slapping his face with the left.

They grew more affectionate as acquaintance ripened in the latter rounds and old Kid McPartland, bearded and gray and much disgusted, seemed more and more the rôle of dangerous rather than referee.

Leonard to Return to Ring.

Benny Leonard and Jack Kearns compromised one section of the measure congregation. Benny, it appears, is returning to his trade this month after a retirement of five years, having trained off 25 pounds of prosperous stone in eight weeks of work at Gus Wilson's famous daffy dell camp on the yonder shore of the Hudson.

1904 American Derby Is Epoch in State Turf Lore

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.

The last American Derby at the old Washington Park race track was run on June 18, 1904. It was won by Highball, an eastern colt from the stable of W. M. Scheftel, Wall street financier, and ridden by Grover Cleveland Fuller, Chicago born jockey. The route was the true Derby distance of one and one-half miles, reeled off in 2:33, equaling the record established in 1903 by The Picket. Highball was 4 to 1 in the sporadic betting. Attendance was estimated at 40,000.

CARTER H. HARRISON.

This Derby of 1904, rather than any of those which had preceded it since 1884, is chosen for discussion because it was epochal in Chicago racing history. On the Tuesday following the Derby, Washington Park closed its gates, never again to open to the thoroughbreds. Other local tracks outside the city limits took over Washington Park's choice dates following a hastily summoned conference. After the 1904 season, however, they, too, closed, and the second largest city in the Union had no racing worthy the name until the present renaissance became firmly established and recognized with the passage of the Lager bill, effective July 1, 1927.

They Had Jails for Bettors Then.

Washington Park, fashionable in its attendance and club membership, sponsored by leading citizens, proved, if proof were needed, that racing without speculation would not draw spectators. It was clamping the "lid" on wagering that caused Washington Park, and later the other tracks, to close.

In the years preceding racing in the Chicago district had been "tolerated," interrupted by occasional reform waves which sometimes resulted in raids and closing of the tracks. There was no law permitting pari-mutuel wagers. In fact, there was a court decision holding betting on a horse race to be common gambling. On the third conviction for this offense, a penitentiary sentence was involved. So upon official enforcement of that law, or rather lack of enforcement, depended the fate of local tracks.

There Was a Trick in Betting.

Gradually the custom of "tolerance" had grown. Three or four times a year, perhaps five or six, John Law's minions would descend on the race tracks, arrest 30 or 40 or 50 bookmakers, and hale them to court. There attorneys for the race tracks would enter a plea of nolo contendere, with a stipulation granted by the state's attorney's office that such plea should not count as a conviction. Result: Fines of $100 and costs [half of fines going to the state's attorney's office under the then existent law], said fines paid by the track operating, and all went on as before.

Washington Park, whose fashionable club membership was sensitive to charges of law breaking, had escaped these raids because the system of wagering differed from that of other Chicago tracks. Instead of slates with the odds posted on blackboards and bettors receiving tickets denoting on what horse they had wagered and the odds they received, Washington Park bookies held forth around stools. Odds were displayed upon programs by a chap sitting on a stool. For his money the bettor received a numbered ticket from another member of the bookmaker's crew upon which there was no notation. The bookmaker's "sheet" was the only record of the wager.

The Boys Couldn't Get Along.

Gossip of the time attributed Washington Park's mishap to a political feud between Mayor Carter Harrison and John R. Walsh, publisher of the Chicago Chronicle and head of the Chicago National bank. Washington Park was really two organizations. One was the club with its aristocratic personnel. The other was a stock-holding company. In this, John R. Walsh was said to be heavily interested.

Washington Park and other local tracks were big moneymakers. A large part of their revenue was derived from the "dollar books," in all instances owned and conducted by the different racing associations. Whereas, bets of $2 and upward were taken by the regular bookmakers who paid a fee for the privilege of making a book, those who wished to place only a "case note" patronized the "dollar books." In these books, the odds were "shaved" to lower figures, so, of

This Hoss Sure Gives 'Em a Run for Their Dough

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Midscope, a race horse, which did not know when to quit, fell after passing the winning post in the 2:30 race at Brighton this afternoon, threw its jockey, Tommy Weston, jumped up, and kept on running through the streets of the town.

All traffic stopped dead and pedestrians fled as the horse raced towards the Royal Sussex county hospital. J. W. Clarke, a retired inspector of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, was leaving the hospital after receiving treatment for high blood pressure. As the scattering spectators ran for shelter, Clarke threw his arms around the horse's neck, brought it to its knees, and quieted it. Midscope was taken to the police station and later released.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Not many of the good handicappers at Hawthorne will greet Jockey Frank Chiavetta with a very cordial smile this morning.

The old man of the jockey ranks, who was a great hero at Hawthorne on opening day, mussed up two heavily backed horses yesterday so badly that he kicked the handicappers' figures almost into Lake Michigan.

Of course, it might not have been the veteran jockey's fault, for horses that refuse to run to form make star jockeys look very bad at times. And it is possible Colonial Belle, the shortest priced favorite of the day, wasn't in a running mood when Chiavetta brought her home third in the Evergreen purse, the feature race.

Fiddler Runs Out of Money.

It is also possible that Fiddler, backed so stoutly that he crowded French Lass for the post of honor as favorite, didn't feel like running when Chiavetta brought him home fourth and out of the money in the third race, which was over the new Hawthorne 6½ furlong course.

But the figures had kidded the handicappers into thinking that both these horses were unbeatable. The handicappers didn't like to beef at the proud horses. They had to blame somebody for the way the handicap figures and the horses had fooled them. So they blamed Chiavetta for all their misfortune.

Now, it may be that neither the handicap figures, the horses, nor Jockey Chiavetta had anything to do with the defeats of Colonial Belle and Fiddler. Possibly one might place the

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The courageous White Sox this afternoon will launch another of those six games in four days series. But the going should be a bit softer than the recent similar set in which they split with the New York Yankees. This series will be with the St. Louis Browns, who aren't so hot themselves, though they are in fifth place by virtue of a splurge the last time the eastern clubs came west, winning 15 out of 21.

The Browns, however, in the season to date have lost seven games, while winning five from the Sox. Three of the five were won by the Browns in the first half of a six game series over the Fourth, but the Sox came back and evened the series.

Thomas or Caraway will pitch today and the one who doesn't will go in the other single game tomorrow. Frasier and Faber, the other able-bodied pitchers on the Comiskey staff, will be ready for appearances in some of the four games to be played Saturday and Sunday.

Thomas hasn't been very good in his last two starts, but there is nothing wrong with his physical equipment and he knows how to pitch to the Browns. Caraway, after getting a little rest, should be able to put on a pretty good performance.

The long series with the Browns has many mathematical possibilities, although some of them scarcely can be called probabilities. The St. Louisans now are leading the Sox 5½ games. If the Sox were to sweep the series they probably would jump over the Red Sox and would be in fifth place by a margin of a half game over the Brownies. There is little betting that the Sox will sweep the series, however.

After the Browns finish up here, the eastern clubs will come in for their final visit of the season—Washington, Boston, Philadelphia, and New York in the order named.

117 TAKE TURN AT BAT; FINAL SCORE IS 18-17

Ottawa, Ill., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—One hundred and seventeen batters faced three pitchers here today as the Washington team rallied to win a 10 inning game from Lincoln, 18 to 17, in the city league. The Washington club scored twice in the ninth to tie the score and then shoved over another run in the tenth to win.

SWEEP 4 GAME SERIES; REGAIN SECOND PLACE

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Vin Barton, the young coast leaguer, who in two previous days had carried on as a self-elected tormentor of the lowly Reds, restrained himself until the ninth inning yesterday. Then, with the bases filled, he drove a hit into deep center to move a mate home from third with a run which not only gave the Cubs four in a row over the Rhinelanders, but nudged them back into second place. The score was 3 to 2.

Of great importance in yesterday's game was Lon Warneke, another of the Hornsby debutants who may be heard from in the future. The slat-like lad threw so skillfully that, with the help of a few sparkling defensive plays, the Reds were confined to eight hits. On top of this, Warneke made good use of his bat, particularly in the sixth when he doubled to send in a run and break a 1 to 1 tie. But he lost that slim lead in the very next inning, thus making it necessary for the Cubs to do something in the ninth or labor overtime.

Stage Set Perfectly for Vin.

Three men had a part in the winning rally up to the point of Barton's appearance. After Warneke had fanned, Blair singled into center. English bounced a hit to right, Blair taking third and English continuing to second on the throw to third. The Reds wasted no time ridding themselves of Cuyler. They walked him. When Barton came up both the infield and outfield drew in. On the second pitch Barton whacked the ball over Douthit's head and Blair scored. If Douthit had been playing a normal position he might have caught the ball. But Blair would have scored in any event.

Three Red pitchers appeared during the afternoon, but one of the three was there only because of an oversight. Ray Kolp, who started, was removed for a successful pinch hitter in the seventh. When the home half opened Umpire Stark was served with notice that Carroll would finish the job for the Reds. Carroll at the time was resting on the bench and Manager Howley had meant to send up word that Johnson would be the new workman. They haggled about the matter for a moment, but Stark insisted the rules be observed so Carroll hurriedly warmed up, retired one batter and then was succeeded by Johnson, who was still there when the end came.

Reds Finally Get Lead.

The Reds produced a couple of hits in the second, thereby earning a run and giving them a lead for the first time in seven games. Hemsley started the inning with a single between Blair and Grimm. Cuccinello filled to Taylor and Jurges threw neatly to first after picking up Cullop's grounder. Durocher then delivered one of his semi-annual hits, a single over short, and Hendrick scored. Durocher's futile attempt to steal second ended the inning.

The sum and substance of the Cubs' attack against Kolp up to the end of the third was a triple off the left field wall by Cuyler in the first inning. Two were out at the time and nothing productive followed.

Cubs Tie the Score.

Two were out in the fourth before the Cubs got to the business of scoring the tying run. Grimm tripled past Heathcote, his old buddy in right field. Hemsley bunted unexpectedly and beat it out for a single, Grimm scoring. Jurges dropped a Texas league single in short right field and Hemsley figured he could score, but he was nipped on Cuccinello's throw to Styles.

Both teams made scoring gestures in the fifth. Cullop and Styles singled for the Reds, with a force out between

One Cub threat fails. Rollie Hemsley, Chicago catcher, out at second base in the second inning, as Second Baseman Cuccinello takes Durocher's throw on Warneke's grounder and steps on the bag for a force-out. Hemsley had reached first on a base on balls.

AL HALE TAKES CRUISE HONORS AT BUTTERFIELD

Al Hale of the Medinah Country club found pleasant sailing at Butterfield's annual Cruise day yesterday, negotiating the 27 hole voyage in 110, six over par, for the low gross prize. A field of 208 participated.

N. J. Morris of Glen Oak pushed Hale for the honors, finishing with 110. Oddly enough, it was the tricky water hole at the eighth which gave both leaders their worst trouble. Each took a 6 on the par 5 hole.

After taking 40 on the par 35 first nine, Hale hit his stride and equaled par 35 on the second nine for an 18 hole total of 75. He birdied the first two holes coming in in 3's, took a par 4 on the third and was one over par on the fourth. He finished the route in par figures.

Bob Sweitzer, county clerk, posted 159—38—121. Ed Whalen, chairman of the county board, and A. J. Horan, chief bailiff, were other officials who competed in the Cruise. The scores:

PUBLIC LINKS CHAMP FAILS TO QUALIFY

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Bob Wingate, Jacksonville, Fla., lost his national public links golf championship today by failing to qualify. Wingate's 36 hole total was 158, one shot over the limit.

Ira L. Couch Scores 146 to Win Knollwood Golf Meet

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Ira L. Couch went over from Glen View yesterday to the annual Knollwood invitational tournament, and before he finished he had played two rounds of nearly perfect golf to win the 36 hole low gross prize with 146, one of the best scores turned in at a Chicago invitational meet this season. The field of more than 100 included some of the ablest of the district's younger golfers.

IRA COUCH.

Couch, who was runnerup for the western amateur championship last year, shot 72, one under par, in the morning round, and returned with 74 in the afternoon. On his first nine he three putted the initial green, but followed par until the seventh, where he found a trap and went two over. He went three over on the eighth, but was on the ninth green in two for a birdie. He birdied the eleventh, and achieved a string of three more on the fourteenth, fifteenth, and sixteenth, with long putts.

Good Putting Helps.

In the afternoon he was two over on the second, hooking into the bushes and three putting, but redeemed with a birdie on the next hole. He was over again at the eighth, slicing his second shot. He was home in two for a birdie on the 11th, and good putting brought him under par again on the 13th and 14th. His cards:

Couch, morning:
Out.....544 345 534—38
In.....543 433 434—38—72
Couch, afternoon:

Paul Rietz, a visitor from Powers Lake, captured 36 hole low net honors with a card of 155—44—141. Second prize in this event went to Frank Nellis of Bob o' Link, who came in with 177—34—143.

The winning low gross foursome was composed of George Rasmussen Jr. of Knollwood, 164; Art Harrison of Exmoor, 153; Dick Martin of Briergate, 154, and Jack Lenfesty of Exmoor, 154. Their total for the day was 625. First low net went to Burton Mudge Jr. of Knollwood, Couch, J. C. Evans of Knollwood and Dexter Cummings of Onwentsia, who turned in an aggregate of 604. They were followed by W. J. Rinn and R. S. Blome of the home club, Julius Rauenheim of Quaker Ridge, N. Y., and Rietz, who shot a total of 612.

John Ames of Glen View took the prize for morning gross with 37—38—75, while Jack Westland was best in the afternoon with 39—37—76. Net honors for the day were shared by Albert Seckel of Riverside in the morning with 75—5—70, and E. C. Campbell of Knollwood in the afternoon with 79—8—71. The latter won after a draw with Rush C. Butler Jr. of Indian Hill, who also had net 71.

Gormley Wins Blind Bogey.

W. J. Gormley of Columbian was awarded the morning blind bogey prize with a card of 92—10—82 after a draw with three others. Wilbur C. Smith took the afternoon bogey with 96—22—74, following a tossup with W. L. O'Neill of Bob o'Link.

CARDS LOSE TO PIRATES, 5 TO 4; WIN 2D, 16 TO 2

Bottomley Gets 6 Hits in 6 Times at Bat.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 5.—[Special.] After being nosed out, 5 to 4, in the first inning first game by the Pittsburgh Pirates, the Cardinals came back to swamp their hosts in the second contest today, 16 to 2.

Wild Bill Hallahan limited the Pirates to seven hits in the second game, while the Cardinals were collecting 22. The split cut a half game from St. Louis' lead over the Cubs in the National league pennant race.

Jim Bottomley, Cardinal first baseman, established a major league batting record for the season in the second game by collecting a double and five singles in six times up.

YANKS, RED SOX SPLIT; BABE AND LOU HIT HOMERS

Boston, Mass., Aug. 5.—(AP)—The Yankees and Red Sox divided a double header before 21,000 fans today, Boston winning the first, 5 to 1, behind Danny MacFayden's masterful hurling, and New York capturing the second, 4 to 1, as Dusty Rhodes set the Sox down with five scattered hits.

Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, following a week's truce, returned to their home run war in the second game. Ruth hit his twenty-ninth of the year in the third inning with a mate on base, and Gehrig got his thirty-first in the eighth. Earl Webb's fifty-first double in the ninth inning led to the Sox's only run off Rhodes. Scores:

Canoeist on Lower Fox River Should Include Roller Skates

BY BOB BECKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ottawa, Ill., Aug. 5.—After battling the bowlders and sandstone ledges in the Fox river between the little town of Dayton and the Illinois river at Ottawa, THE TRIBUNE canoe, which started at Fox Lake, Ill., to check up on the Fox river, finally got out of the rocky wilderness today and emerged upon the big river.

From the junction of the two streams it was a dandy paddle down to the historic and popular Starved Rock state park, which annually is the magnet for thousands of tourists. Plenty of water in the Illinois made smooth and fast going for our battered canoe, which took to the big river like a camel that had been crossing a desert and hadn't seen real honest to goodness water for many a day.

The Fox gave us one final and touching good-by in the stretch between the big dam at Dayton and the city of Ottawa. It was touching in more ways than one. With the stream almost as dry as a rockstrewn country lane, our canoe left blue paint calling cards on scores of bowlders and sandstone ledges which stick their heads above the pitiful trickle of water that is permitted to get away from the Dayton dam.

Where Rock Walls Rise.

Approaching Wedron, creamy yellow rock walls, which are carved fantastically into many caves and grottos, rise 40 and 50 feet above the river. Sturdy cedars and pines stand on the ramparts like sentries because a new type of flora appears with this formation. We saw the first of these impressive sandstone ledges last evening when long purple shadows were being thrown across the pools which the river forms at the base of the rock walls.

But the canoeist who keeps going past Wedron will soon lose his enthusiasm for this river, which seems to excel in its Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde act. Arriving at Dayton, where the 14th hydro electric dam on the trip holds the water for a 30-foot head, one faces a long portage to a dry river bed.

After taking one look at what appears to be a stone quarry instead of the Fox river below the dam, Nicholas Parry, superintendent of the power plant, agreed to turn on one gate to give us water enough to make Ottawa. He stated that the Fox is so low right now that the power plant can operate only 12 hours per day. Then 12 hours must go by to fill up the river again.

Puzzle: Where's the Water?

Promptly at 9:30 he turned on the gate. Allowing 15 minutes for the precious water to get a start ahead of us, we started downstream. Even with this extra flow our canoe rolled over and played dead about a mile below Dayton. At this point there wasn't water enough to float it so it was a case of dragging it over ledges and big bowlders for nearly three miles with only an occasional pool deep enough to float it without leaving blue paint marks on the moss covered bowlders.

Considering the number of dams and unusually low water level, the canoeist who wants to see something of the Fox this season had better confine his paddle work to the McHenry section or put in at Yorkville and quit at Wedron. In covering the Yorkville to Wedron territory, our recommendation would be to equip the canoe with roller skates, because except for occasional deep water stretches such as that in the Fox river dells country, the canoeist must walk while his craft rolls over the shallow sand bars. However, if the water traveler can forget the slow pace and keep his mind on the scenery, the trip will more than repay him because the lower Fox is a beautiful stream which deserves to be rehabilitated with plenty of sparkling water.

Mique has paired Clyde Chastain and Al Stillman of St. Louis in one of the eight rounders. Chastain, who has boxed Harry Ebbetts, Jackie Fields, and Young Corbett, beat Jerry Crano Monday at Cicero. Stillman holds a knockout over Ted Ross and a win over King Levinsky.

Frankie Battaglia will face Frank Morse, Cuban champion, in an eight rounder. Battaglia holds two knockouts over Ray Trambile.

Johnny Burns, California middleweight, who now makes his home in Chicago, meets Gary Leach. Leach stopped Edgar Norman in Migue's last boxing show on the south side. They will box eight rounds.

THE golfing world is buzzing with talk of Spalding's new Cash-in Putter. Tournament players, everywhere, are talking about it and performing prodigiously with it.

Tommy Armour, Willie Macfarlane, Wiffy Cox, Bobby Cruickshank and other members of Spalding's field advisory staff—a group of leading golfers retained to carry Spalding's policy of testing in actual play as well as in the laboratory—have tried it and are enthusiastic about it. Wiffy Cox won the North and South Open with it. When Bobby Cruickshank heard about it, he wired us to send him one the fastest way.

The Cash-in is the most beautifully balanced putter you've ever held in your hands. Its shaft is shorter, thinner and lighter. This puts greater swinging weight into the head, where it materially helps control. And the head has a dull finish to eliminate any reflection of the sun.

See this new club—Spalding's latest contribution to golf. Despite its greatness, despite the reputation it has already won among the game's foremost players, Spalding sells it at no price premium. $6.50.

the hits. Kolp fanned and Douthit, after running the count to three and two, lined to left, but Dan Taylor flagged it. Then Warneke opened the home half with a single and Blair sacrificed. Stripp pegged out English. Cuyler survived on Durocher's error, the first made by the ex-Yankee in 74 games during which he handled 251 chances successfully. Barton's fly to right concluded the incident.

Warneke Takes a Hand.

Dan Taylor started the action which put the Cubs one run to the good in the sixth. He led off with a looping single to short center. Grimm bunted and Stripp threw so high to first that Cuccinello, who covered on the play, jumped off the bag and Grimm was safe. Prospects of accomplishing anything dimmed when both Hemsley and Jurges flied out. But Warneke moved into the breach with a line double past third. D. Taylor scoring and Grimm stopping at third. Blair's fly to right finished the rally.

Warneke issued his first pass of the game in the seventh and the Reds made use of it to tie the score. It went to Cullop, who moved down to second on Durocher's sacrifice. He remained there while Jurges tossed out Styles. The Reds' handy man, Red Lucas, then was asked to deliver in place of Kolp. He did by singling to left. Cullop raced for home and slipped across safely ahead of D. Taylor's return throw.

Cubs Rest Today.

There were a few moments in the eighth when it looked as if Warneke was about to fold up. That he didn't can be attributed to Cuyler's skill. Heathcote walked, Stripp was thrown out by Blair and Hendrick was purposely passed. Cuccinello hit a fly to deep center. Cuyler took one look, turned and ran toward the fence, grabbing the ball as it came down over his right shoulder. The catch was so inspiring to Warneke that he fanned Cullop. He also was troubled a bit in the ninth when Durocher led off with a scratch single. But the next three fellows were easy outs.

The Cubs will rest this afternoon, their first off day in more than a month. They proceed to St. Louis tonight to start a tour which will take them to every city in the circuit, excepting Cincinnati.

Benny will ask for trouble first with Young Jack Thompson, welterweight champion; but if Thompson is bashful Jimmy McLarnin will do as well, if not better. He will also try to pick up the middleweight title recently vacated by Mickey Walker, and he expects to do his first work in Chicago.

Leonard, taking in plenty of territory, says he would like to fight Tony Canzoneri for his old lightweight title. Nate Lewis will promote Leonard's first bout at the Chicago Stadium. The last week in August has been selected as the time.

New York, Aug. 5.—[Special.]—Dr. Irving Jacobs' veteran campaigner Sun Mission was added to the small field for the Melrose stakes, the closing day feature at Empire City today, and captured the purse for his owner, adding $2,500 to his winnings. He won in a stirring finish from the Wheatley stable's Impish to gain the verdict by a nose after the two had fought it out for a sixteenth of a mile in the stretch. Al Neiman, which had raced yesterday and was another added starter, took third in a field of five.

Sun Mission was installed a strong favorite and, opening at 7 to 5, was backed down to 7 to 10 at post time, with Impish the second choice for the mile and a sixteenth test.

Harvey Makes Good Ride.

Sun Mission was well handled by Jockey Harvey. At the break Gay Pal went to the front, closely pressed by Al Neiman and the two alternated in making the pace through the back stretch to the far turn, where Harvey began to move up with Sun Mission. Rounding the turn, Sun Mission caught the leaders and began to draw away as he turned into the stretch and appeared to have the race in hand.

Impish Works Up.

But Impish, which had trailed the field through the first half mile, was gradually working his way up and at the turn he slipped through on the rail. Before the eighth pole was reached he was at the heels of Sun Mission. Harvey had to rouse his mount and apply the whip lavishly through the final sixteenth, where Sun Mission just lasted to take the victory. Al Neiman was ten lengths back of Impish, having tired badly after showing excellent speed in the early part of the race.

Detroit Amateur, 18, Beats Armour in Title Playoff

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Tommy Armour today failed to win the 1931 Michigan open championship. In an eighteen hole playoff the British open champion lost to Charles Kocsis, 18 year old Detroit amateur. Kocsis turned in a 72, 1 over par, while Armour required 74 strokes for the cascade course, which he did twice in 69 yesterday. The playoff was necessitated by a tie at 288 for seventy-two holes, exact par.

Lucky Tony's Luck Changing.

Both Colonial Belle and Fiddler are owned by Tony Pelleteri, who, because of a series of sensational victories by his horses during the spring and summer, came to be known as the luckiest man of the year on the turf. Every horse Tony owned became a winner. Everything he touched, as the saying goes, turned into gold.

Now it may be that Lady Luck, a fickle old girl even when she is on her best behavior, has tired of her flirtation with Lucky Tony. We hope not, and we hope that Chiavetta or the horses or something else was to blame for the double defeat. Tony is a nice sort of a guy from down in New Orleans. The story is told that way back when his stable was not so prosperous Tony sacrificed his spaghetti and ravioli many times in order that his horses might enjoy a good helping of oats and hay.

The defeat of Colonial Belle was a shock to the crowd. This daughter of Sweep On-Frenez Garde had performed at Arlington Park so brilliantly many people came to believe she was the best 2 year old filly in the west and possibly the fleetest in the country. Colonial Belle fans were unhappy when they learned she was not eligible to Arlington's Post and Paddock stakes. For they expected her to win the year's 2 year old championship in that event.

Frederick Jumps Into Lead.

So when Frederick led her home in the Evergreen yesterday with Jockey Chiavetta getting Colonial Belle away a trifle tardy, then running into a pocket and losing ground on the back stretch, it was natural for the boys who make 'em win by figures to do some squawking.

However, Frederick, which is a highly bred colt in the stable of Johnny Schorr, had beaten the barrier by a couple of lengths and was winging it along in front, going in great stride. It would have taken a great 2 year old to catch him. Sun's Son tried it, but didn't meet with a bit of success, although he hung on long enuogh to beat Colonial Belle out of second money.

In the mutuels Frederick paid $9.52 to win, $4.54 to place, and $2.38 to show. Sun's Son paid $4.12 to place and $2.68 to show. All Colonial Belle paid to show was $2.30.

Broad Meadows Wins.

The first Edward R. Bradley victory came in the third race, in which Fiddler failed to get any part of the purse. Broad Meadows was the winner after charging down the stretch with a game challenge in which he beat Double Heart by a length. Lady Capulet was another length back in third place. Fiddler was never better than fourth.

A disqualification came in the sixth race when Winnie Jo finished in front. She had pushed and crowded her way forward and fouled numerous rivals as she did it. She was grouped in the field betting. When she was disqualified it moved Grey Gull into first place, caused Tarnish to get second money, and Thunwin to finish third. It was the first disqualification of the Hawthorne season.

Sprinters in La Salle at Hawthorne Peril Record

Hawthorne's electric timing clock will have to tick off split seconds in its best fashion this afternoon when seven of the fleetest sprinters in the country come together in the La Salle purse, at six furlongs. No More, Epithet, Siskin, Ladder, and Sweet Scent are among those named in the $1,500 event.

A few wagers were made yesterday, after the entries were announced, that the Hawthorne track record of 1:10 3-5, held by Old Gibbons for many seasons, will be shattered. Epithet carries 114 pounds. Over at Arlington, not

Riddled Body Found Tied to a Tree.

Haynesville, Ala., Aug. 5.—(AP)—A 16 year old Negro boy, accused of an attempt to rape an 11 year old white girl, was lynched by a mob of citizens in the Sandy Ridge community, near here today. The Negro was shot thirty-two times, according to Sheriff W. E. Meadows of Lowndes county.

Sheriff Meadows said the Negro accosted the girl this morning as she was walking from her home to a grocery store about half a mile away. She fought him off and ran home.

When the sheriff arrived some time later he said he found the Negro's body with thirty-two bullet holes in it, tied to the trunk of a tree with a rope and a dog chain. No arrests have been made.

Hunt Girls' Slayer.

Birmingham, Ala., Aug 5.—(AP)—Rewards totaling $1,700 tonight spurred officers and armed civilians in their systematic man hunt for the colored man who last night fatally shot one prominent society girl and wounded two others.

The city of Birmingham offered $1,000 for apprehension of the slayer. The Birmingham Rotary club offered $500 and Gov. B. M. Miller at Montgomery posted $200.

Five colored men, including one taken from a freight train today at Anniston, Ala., were held as suspects. The latter, who gave his name as Rufus Austin of New Orleans, was about 35 years old and was said to bear the description of the man who abducted the three girls and robbed them.

Faces Quiz on Pistol.

Police said they intended to question him about a pistol he was carrying and from which one shot had been fired.

Miss Augusta Williams, 22, daughter of Clark Williams, Birmingham attorney, was shot and killed by the colored man and her sister, Miss Nell Williams, 18, and a companion, Miss Jennie Wood, 23, were wounded. Miss Wood is in serious condition with a bullet in her spine.

Miss Nell Williams, at a hospital here with a bullet in her arm, said the colored man boarded their car and forced them to drive to a secluded spot, where he robbed them and insulted them repeatedly.

She attempted to wrest the man's pistol from him and he began shooting, she said.

He became chief surgeon of Provident hospital in 1893 when that institution was founded to give an equal opportunity for medical training to members of his race. He was later chief surgeon of the Freedmen's hospital in Washington, D. C., and an associate on the staff of St. Luke's hospital.

MISS LAVARON OF METAL ART FAME IS DEAD AT 65

Miss Leonide C. Lavaron, prominent in Chicago art circles a generation ago, died yesterday at Michael Reese hospital after an extended illness. She was 65 years old, and lived at 1355 North Dearborn parkway.

Although once considered fairly wealthy, she was in impoverished circumstances at the time of her death. Because of her condition, friends organized by Mrs. J. B. Zielinski, former president of the Polish Arts club, will bury her.

Gems in Hotel Vault.

The entire estate of Miss Lavaron consists of a collection of jewelry, handwrought by herself, which she entrusted for safekeeping to John Early, chief house detective of the Palmer House, three years ago. The jewels, probably valued at less than $3,000, were placed in the hotel vaults then, and were taken out from time to time to be displayed to prospective customers. Miss Lavaron resided at the hotel for six months prior to moving.

Miss Lavaron was born in New York City, and came to Chicago in her childhood. She studied art, and at the beginning of her career devoted her talent to water colors. Later, she entered the mechanical art field, and was considered unusually proficient. She recovered a lost Egyptian art, the perfecting of a process which imparted an irridescent surface to copper objects. By another process she colored metals in the same tints as their imbedded gems.

Prized Tiara Retained.

One of her most prized bits of jewelry, which still remains in the collection, is a tiara which she wore when presented to Queen Victoria. At the height of her career, Miss Lavaron maintaind a studio in the Fine Arts building where she specialized as a metal worker and monotypist.

"Miss Lavaron was an extremely proud woman," said Mrs. Zielinski last night. "The jewelry she manufactured eventually went out of style, and her fortunes consequently declined. Her friends will give her a proper burial."

He had been connected with the Summy establishment in continuous service from then until a few weeks ago, when failing health caused his removal to the hospital.

Wirth S. Dunham, who was killed on July 17 in an automobile accident near Mount Prospect, left an estate valued at $205,000 in trust for his widow, Mrs. Mary Ward Dunham. This was disclosed by his will, filed before Judge Harry C. Daniels yesterday in the Kane county Probate court at Geneva.

Mrs. Dunham and Ayres Boal of Chicago were named executors and trustees. At Mrs. Dunham's death, the estate will go to two daughters, Miss Jane Dunham of Wayne and Mrs. John L. Dole of Winnetka.

The principal item of the estate is the family home, a farm of approximately 1,000 acres south of Elgin. The homestead is a château modeled after a castle in Normandy, which Mr. Dunham's father visited during one of his trips to France to purchase the Percheron horses and other draft stock which were raised on the farm.

IRA COBE WILL IS ATTACKED BY NIECE, NEPHEW

Belfast, Me., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—A bitter court fight over the division of the fortune of Ira M. Cobe, retired Chicago traction magnate, who died here at his summer estate, July 9, was opened today by a nephew and a niece who were disinherited in the will, and by a brother who was given a $100,000 trust fund.

Notice of a contest was given today by attorneys for Harry Cobe, Chelsea, Mass., and Mrs. Madelon Cobe Kosch of New York City, children of the traction magnate's dead brother, Andrew Cobe. They were cut off without a penny in the will filed July 20 in Waldo county Probate court.

George E. Cobe, a brother, of Brookline also filed a notice of contest. The Cobe estate is valued at $1,330,000.

CAPITAL KILLING LAID TO POLICE LIQUOR RACKET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—The plan to make Washington the nation's model city, received another jolt today when the investigation of last night's killing of a District of Columbia policeman produced evidence implicating members of the police force in a racket to force inmates of the soldiers' home to buy their liquor from a favored bootleg ring.

Patrolman Charles D. Poole was killed, according to police reports, by Bert Davis, a world war veteran, an inmate of the home. The shooting took place as Poole and three other inmates of the home sat in the nearby woods drinking. According to stories told the police, Davis joined the group, suddenly pulled a revolver, and fired at Poole, who was killed instantly.

The killing brought to light charges made six weeks ago by a veteran at the home, who said that a policeman had beaten several inmates who had refused to deal with a bootlegger recommended by him.

Davis, a patient in the home's psychopathic department, was found in hiding near the scene of the shooting and was charged with murder. His explanation of the killing was that he "had shot at a chicken and missed."

Several shacks occupied by bootleggers have existed in the woods near the home for some time, it is alleged.

Officials at the soldiers' home scouted the story that inmates had been abused or beaten by policemen for refusing to patronize a particular bootlegger. They admitted, however, that patients sometimes bought liquor.

DEATH OF ARMY MAN HIDDEN BY GRASS FOR DAYS

Cromwell, Conn., Aug. 5.—(AP)—The body of Benjamin H. Adams, 62, retired major of the United States army, and social figure in New York, was found in the tall grass on the edge of the Connecticut river here today. He had been missing since July 21.

A posse of state police and Boy Scouts, together with two airplanes, searched the immediate vicinity, a wooded section, but failed to find any trace of the man.

KILLS SELF IN LOOP HOTEL.

Failure to find work is believed to have caused the suicide yesterday of W. B. Fralich, 45 years old, 5936 South Carpenter street, in a room in the Morrison hotel. His body was discovered by a maid. He was shot in his head.

DIES AS RULING NEARS IN LONG LAND DISPUTE

His death occurred on the eve of the rendering of a court decision on his right to 600 acres of land near Grass lake. The decision will be given today or tomorrow by Hervey C. Coulson, special master in chancery, at Waukegan. In 1926 Hatch sued Lake county for possession of the land. The state stepped into the fight through Attorney General Carlstrom and sued Hatch on the gound that the land, largely swamp bottom, was state property. Hatch contended that his father, Lewis Hatch, purchased the tract in 1837 from the government, and that since that time both his father and himself had paid taxes on it.

Surviving Mr. Hatch are three daughters, Laura Hatch of Channel lake; Mrs. Edith Allen of Green Valley, Ill., and Mrs. Alice McDougall of Wilmot, Wis. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon. Burial will be in McHenry county.

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH HIM?

WEIGHT LOST, HEALTH BROKEN

... he had to quit his job!

Now feels A-1—has gained 22½ lbs. in 5 weeks

A PHYSICAL wreck—rundown, seriously underweight. Too sick to hold his position! And that was just the beginning. Ten years of ill health followed. Ten years of paying out money for medicines that did no good!

And then in five weeks—but let Mr. Payne himself, tell you about his amazing recovery: "When I returned from the World War in 1919 my health was very poor. I started doctoring, but finally had to quit work.

"I have lingered along the past 10 years weary and miserable. Then I noticed your ad so I read it carefully and bought 5 packages. I got weighed at the same time. I scaled 135 lbs. just 5 weeks ago tomorrow. I scaled today 157½ lbs. My appetite is wonderful. Pains and aches all gone, better color. Feel A-1. I recommend Ironized Yeast highly." Wm. Payne, 12700 Lincoln Avenue, Highland Park, Mich.

• • •

Can you afford to stop working? Then watch out! Don't let Mr. Payne's experience happen to you. Better begin right now to quiet those jumpy nerves, overcome that tired-out, weary feeling, clear poor complexion—get your weight up to par. Thousands have easily—with Ironized Yeast!

DOG INSISTS ON GOING TO JAIL WITH MASTERS

Benito and Saturnino Hernandez of 1021 Newberry avenue, brothers, were arrested yesterday by Policeman Albert Vorisek for the alleged theft of 15 pounds of brass. The brothers have a mongrel dog named Brownie, who followed them to the South State street station and waited at the sergeant's desk as they were booked for disorderly conduct.

When Benito and Saturnino rode up in the elevator to the eleventh floor lockup, Brownie rode with them. And when they were taken into a cell, the dog tried to follow, but the door clanged ahead of him. Brownie barked, then cuddled himself in front of the cell. That was at noon. Last night he was still in the same position, only moving now and then to accept a bit to eat from the lockup keeper.

Brownie will accompany his masters in court this morning.

CHICAGO STOCK LEADERS SUFFER SHARP REVERSES

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Just what happened to the ambitious plans of the group of traders who are operating in the shares of U. S. Radio and North American Light and Power was something of a mystery yesterday when trading on the Chicago exchange ended.

The stock of the radio company was selling 5 points below its previous closing price at the close, having retreated ignominiously under a heavy volume of sales. The utility issue was more fortunate, losing only 3 points, but it was the sharpest reverse it had suffered in weeks.

Hear of Bear Opposition.

It was a question whether the people who had been bulling the radio stock had decided to withdraw their support or that the opposition had become too rough. One guess—and it was no more than that—had it that the eastern operators who are reputed to be interested in the stock were being tripped up by some equally potent bears.

The gossips in the trading community have been mentioning a goal of 50 for U. S. Radio and 100 for North American, while associating the names of some "big time" operators with the stocks.

The whispering campaign about these two issues reached a high point when the names of Arthur Cutten and a big New York bear who has recently sprouted horns were linked with the issues. As usual, no denial or confirmation of the stories were forthcoming.

In common with the rest of the market, both of the stocks opened up lower yesterday morning, but the selling reached its zenith late in the day, sending these favorites skidding. The weakness of these particular issues was no exception to the general trend. Selling dominated the whole market.

Fit Into Bear Pattern.

A scare was caused by the weakness in A. T. & T. on the big board which had given rise to reports of adverse dividend action. These reports were scotched later by authoritative persons, but they fitted into the bear pattern while they lasted.

Trading was carried on at a fairly active rate throughout the session. About 70,000 shares changed hands at receding prices. As a group, the Insull shares showed good resistence to the selling with Middle West clinging around its previous closing price and Insull Utility losing about a point to 26¾.

Will Show Loss for Year.

E. L. Bruce company, hardwood flooring manufacturers, will show a loss of approximately $950,000 for the fiscal year ended June 30, according to President R. G. Bruce. The loss is after inventory adjustment, liberal writeoffs, and full charges for depreciation and depletion, he added. No operating loss was sustained, he said.

Bruce common has been dozing among the inactive shares recently. It was lifted from year's low around 14 to 24 a few weeks back by some aggressive sponsorship, but lately it has been extremely dull. On one transaction of 50 shares, yesterday the stock was bid up a fraction to 24.

GRAIN MARKETS DIG DEEPER IN PRICE CELLAR

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The grain markets yesterday continued to dig themselves deeper into the cellar, with all deliveries of wheat and oats and the deferred futures of corn selling at new low levels, wheat and oats 1⅛@1⅝c from the finish of Thursday.

September wheat sold down to 48⅛c, a new all time record low for that future, while December corn at 41¼c equaled the low figure established in September, 1906. September oats in touching 21¼c equaled the low of September, 1900.

No. 2 yellow hard winter wheat in the sample market sold at 45c, equaling the low point of October, 1852.

Early weakness in the wheat market was due largely to pressure from hedgers and commission houses on the sharp decline in prices at Liverpool, where the continent was reported as selling futures, and there was pressure of Russian and Danubian cash wheat at lower figures. The finish in the English market was 1⅝@1¾c lower, with October at 55¼c, or within ⅛c of the average price of native wheat for the year 1591.

Good Buying on Break.

There was aggressive buying of September wheat around 48¾c by strong commission houses, but it failed to have much effect on the market, which closed within a fraction of the bottom, with net losses of ⅞@1¼c, September being 48¾c, December 52¾@53⅛c, and May 57⅛@57¼c. Spreaders bought May and sold September at 1⅛ difference, compared with 9c at the finish on Tuesday.

Uneasiness over the foreign financial situation is having considerable influence on the wheat market and was a factor in causing a decline of around 2c in Winnipeg from the finish of the previous day, but the latter market rallied from the inside figure on buying by New York and Chicago interests and by mills and closed 1¼c lower. Late reports claimed that the Canadian government would announce a minimum price of 30c per bu, assuming any loss that would be sustained by the new interprovincial trading corporation.

Crop News Ignored.

Deterioration continues in the spring wheat crop in the Canadian northwest, the Searle Grain company, Winnipeg, report making the condition 54, against 55 a week ago, and private reports from that market claimed the trade were inclined to look for a crop of 175,000,000 to 200,000,000 bu, or materially lower than any figures made by Chicago statisticians and nearly 200,000,000 bu less than harvested in 1930. Unofficial estimates made at Washington on the world's carryover as of July 1 this year suggested a total of 670,000,000 bu, or 100,000,000 bu in excess of 1930.

September corn was weak early and dropped to 49¾, or within ⅝c of the lowest figure of the season, due to selling induced by the forecast for showers and cooler over the entire agricultural region and on a relatively slow shipping demand. Pit traders were regarded as having been the leading sellers, but toward the last there was aggressive buying credited to a leading local operator who was a large holder of July contracts recently, and the buying was followed by general short covering, which caused a rally of 1⅝c from the bottom. The close was ⅞@1⅛c lower, with September showing the most strength, finishing at 51⅛@51⅜c, while December was 42c and May 46⅝c.

Bring Recession in Oats.

Hedging pressure and scattered liquidation was responsible for the sharp decline in oats, and while some commission houses regard oats as an investment purchase, with the grain selling around ⅝c per lb support was only fair. Cash interests bought September and sold December, with the finish ⅛@1⅜c lower, the September closing at 21⅜c, December 23⅝c, and May 26⅛c.

Houses with northwestern connections were on both sides of the rye market. Final trades were ¼@½c lower, with September 34c and December 37⅝c.

Says Installment Debt Is No Drag on Trade Revival

BY SCRUTATOR.

Is the outstanding installment debt a terrible burden bearing down on the bowed shoulders of the people and preventing a prompt return to business prosperity?

The National Association of Finance companies says that it is decidedly not and presents some interesting figures to substantiate its contention.

The ratio of installment sales to total sales, says the association in a recent bulletin, has been substantially the same during the depression as it was during the preceding boom times. Figures from the automobile industry indicate that this ratio has been very nearly constant for at least seven years. A similar condition is shown for department stores, furniture, jewelry, men's and women's clothing and electrical appliances in data recently collected by the department of commerce.

Reaches Uniformity, Claim.

This would indicate that installment selling in this country had several years ago reached a condition of uniformity, that persons receiving incomes were each year using a certain percentage of their incomes to buy goods on installments, and that each year they were committing themselves to new installment purchases at the same rate.

The installment debt has been estimated to be about 5 per cent of the annual income of the people who owe it. Therefore, it would seem that not the 5 per cent they owed on installments but the changing uses to which the other 95 per cent of their income was put has been responsible for the fluctuation in the level of business activity.

Under our present system of doing business credit is available to the producer and the distributor in large amounts, but the consumer's credit facilities are meager. Many industrialists declare that financing the consumer would eliminate this unbalanced condition and facilitate the flow of commerce.

If this point is well taken and it can be demonstrated that installment selling has kept uniform and not added length to the pendulum, then such a means of extending credit to the consumer should be regarded as a help rather than a hindrance to business prosperity.

The charge has been made that installment selling must at least accept part of the blame for the boom and subsequent collapse of 1929 through having made possible the great increase in automobile sales in that year.

That installment selling has made possible a great increase in automobile sales in all the years since 1920 above the number that could have been disposed of without that device is not questioned. It was not, however, especially utilized to increase sales in 1929. The average percentage of new passenger cars sold on installments for the six years, 1925 to 1930 inclusive, was 62.3. For 1929 it was 62.6, and for 1930, 62.3.

Less Than 25 Per Cent of Total.

Consumer credit outstanding at the close of 1930 was estimated by a number of authorities at approximately ten and a half billions. But the installment debt was only around two and a half billions, or less than 25 per cent of the total. Open accounts totaled about $4,500,000,000, small loans $1,500,000,000, and life insurance loans $2,200,000,000.

Attempting to find in increased consumption of goods the reason for the business collapse of 1929 appears to be a backward method of approach. The answer is likely to lie not in the money the public spent for consumable goods but in the funds that it spent through speculative stock purchases to finance companies the creation or expansion of which was economically unjustified by the very fact that this money, which normally went to buy goods, was being thus transferred to finance the increased production of goods. Instead of buying haircuts the public was spending its money for stock in bigger and better barber shops.

RIFTS DEVELOP AMONG MEMBERS OF FARM BODIES

Serious rifts between northwest grain coöperatives on one side and the federal farm board and the Farmers' National Grain corporation on the other were apparent yesterday as representatives of the Northwest Grain association, on their arrival in Chicago from a conference in Washington, indicated that, although no open breaks had taken place, the proposed policy of the farm board and the grain corporation was not satisfactory.

The protest is aimed at the farm board's plan to build a national grain sales agency. A. L. Berg, president of the Northwest Grain association, declined to comment yesterday except to confirm reports of a serious protest and to deny there was any open break with the government agency.

C. E. Huff, president of the Farmers' National Grain corporation, and George S. Milnor, manager, had no statements to make. W. T. Kuhrt, general manager for the northwest association, predicted virtually all coöperative member associations would withdraw from the grain corporation if the plan for the national sales agency for grain was not changed. Withdrawal of coöperatives members, according to Kuhrt, would result in the return of the grain business to the old line of private trade.

Receiver Is Asked for St. Louis Packing Firm

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Alleging the proposed sale of the $4,500,000 St. Louis Independent Packing company to Swift & Co. would be prejudicial to common stock holders of the Independent company, Dr. Joseph Knichel today filed suit in Circuit court asking appointment of one or more receivers for the St. Louis concern. Dr. Knichel owns both common and preferred stock of the Independent company.

Dr. Knichel, who charged L. E. Denning, president-treasurer, and his son, Louis S. Denning, general manager of Independent Packing, with mismanagement, alleged that "unless the court intervenes, the plaintiff and other common stock holders will be practically wiped out."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 5.—Sales of F. W. Woolworth company in July rose to $21,079,169, an increase of $340,814 over July last year, and the third monthly advance this year.

The trade considers this is noteworthy because the larger sales were made despite the fact that July only had three Saturday shopping days compared with four in July, 1930, the Fourth of July holiday this year falling on Saturday.

The total for the seven months, however, was not as large as a year ago, being $151,355,359 in comparison with $152,051,842, a decrease of $696,483.

Cosach Nitrate Combine Subject of Attack in Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile, Aug. 5.—(AP)—In the midst of unsuccessful efforts to get synthetic producers of nitrate to enter into a world market agreement, the Cosach Natural Nitrate Combine of Chile is facing a battle at home. Opponents of government participation in Cosach, who were silent for a time, now are gathering their forces for a concerted assault on the combine in congress. The Cosach interests are vigorously defending the cooperative combination, arguing that a united front in the natural nitrate industry is the only thing which saved Chile in the present market crisis. Americans control the industry, and the British have a large share also.

Packard Reports $90,120 Loss for First Six Months

Packard Motor Car company yesterday reported for the six months ended June 30 net loss of $90,120 after all charges, including depreciation contrasted with net profit of $5,528,837, or 36 cents a share, in the first half of 1930. For the first quarter there was a net profit of $113,004. For the second quarter there was a net loss of $203,125 after all charges, including depreciation and a large part of the expense incidental to tooling up for the new models recently introduced.

COTTON STATES LAUNCH ATTACK ON FARM BOARD

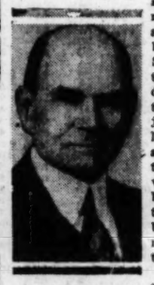
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—From a new direction—the south—came more attacks against the farm board today. Southern senators, cotton dealers, and cotton growers joined in a deluge of protest against any intended deal whereby the board's stabilization cotton would be sold to Germany on long term credits.



WM. J. HARRIS. [Harris & Ewing Photo.]

Foremost among the protests were Senators Harris and George of Georgia, Smith and Byrnes of South Carolina, Sheppard of Texas, and McKellar of Tennessee, and Representative Lankford of Virginia. They presented the protests of the cotton exchanges and producers from their states and districts. Other protests came direct.

Would Ruin Market, Claim.

One and all expressed emphatic opposition to the sale to Germany of any or all of the 1,300,000 bales now held by the cotton stabilization corporation. To do so, they declared, would ruin the prospects for selling this year's crop, since it would mean that the private trade would be deprived of that large portion of its potential export market furnished by Germany.

Orders for cotton from German importers, it was said, had already been canceled on the strength of the reports that Ambassador Frederick M. Sackett in Berlin was negotiating with German officials for the sale of the board's surplus stocks.

No Word from Germany.

So far no word of acceptance of the American offer has been received in Washington. At the farm board it was announced that there was nothing to add to Chairman James C. Stone's statement of four days ago, that the board was ready to sell to Germany, if it would aid Germany and assist in increasing the consumption of American farm commodities.

Exports of raw cotton from the United States to Germany in the calendar year 1930 totaled 1,637,213 bales and had a value of $123,016,602, and in the first quarter of 1931 totaled 321,279 bales with a value of $18,724,336.

Trade with Russia Gains in Face of General Decline

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—(AP)—While American trade, with virtually all other regions of the world, was declining during June, exports to Russia doubled those of the preceding month.

The commerce department's analysis of foreign trade for June showed that Russia bought $12,618,656, as compared with $5,361,879 in May and $8,805,642 in June, 1930.

There was little change in American purchases from Russia. Imports from that country during June were $1,403,560. In May they were $1,403,897 and in June, 1930, $2,778,238.

The grand total of America's exports in June was $187,189,909, as compared to $294,700,753 for the same month of last year. Imports were $173,534,234 for June this year and $250,342,760 a year ago.

By grand divisions there was a decreased in both exports and imports under the figures for the preceding month for every section of the world except imports from Asia. The total imports from that continent in June were $51,567,887, against $48,477,378 for May.

Canada Best Customer.

Canada continued the best customer of the United States and imports from the dominion continued far ahead of those of any other country. Canada during June bought $35,029,796 of American goods compared with $59,621,795 in June, 1930, and the United States bought from Canada $22,853,654 compared with $26,522,094.

Exports to the United Kingdom were $30,914,639 compared with $47,900,977 and imports were $11,000,427 against $15,521,858.

Germany took $10,818,619 of goods compared with $16,456,448, while this country purchased from Germany $8,936,671 compared with $12,823,137.

Exports to France were $8,688,175 compared with $11,157,171, and imports were $5,516,340 compared with $7,484,229.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 5.—Directors of the General Motors corporation declared the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share on the common stock at their meeting this afternoon. Inasmuch as the company rendered a satisfactory earnings report for the June quarter, the board's action occasioned no surprise in informed Wall street circles.

It had been pretty well understood in stock trading circles, in fact, that the rate which has been in effect for two years would be maintained. However, the stock of the corporation declined about a point and closed at the lowest price of the day, the board meeting not taking place until after the close of the market.

The report for the June quarter showed the equivalent of $1.22 a share net for the period. The March quarter showed the equivalent of 61 cents a share, bringing the net for the half year to $1.83 a share, which was well in excess of the $1.50 required to cover dividend payments for the first half year.

The Paragon Refining company declared a liquidating dividend of $1 on the common stock, payable on presentation of certificates on or after Aug. 10. This is the third dividend to be paid on the common and increases the dividends paid to $13 a share.

July sales of the Walgreen company amounted to $4,861,897 as compared with $4,328,890 in the July, 1930, the drug chain reported yesterday. This was an increase over a year ago of $533,007 or 12.3 per cent.

Sales for the first seven months of 1930 totaled $32,083,558 as compared with $30,268,075 in the corresponding months last year, a gain of $1,815,483 or 6 per cent. The company's retail outlets in operations at the end of July were 453 as compared with 430 at the end of July, 1930.

Allan Noyes Elected to Chicago Curb Board

Allan S. Noyes of David A. Noyes & Co. has been elected to the board of governors of the Chicago Curb exchange to fill a vacancy following the resignation of C. V. Essroger. Mr. Noyes also assumes the chairmanship of the exchange listing committee. T. F. Murchison of Paul H. Davis & Co. has been appointed to fill a vacancy on the listing committee.

STEEL SALARIES ARE REDUCED BY 10 TO 15 PER CENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York City, Aug. 5.—Salaries of officers and other employés of the United States Steel corporation working on a salary basis will be cut from 10 to 15 per cent, effective Aug. 15, it was learned today.

Recommendation that an adjustment of all salaries paid by the corporation be made was adopted by the board of directors at their last dividend meeting on July 28, when they voted a cut in the dividend rate from $7 to $4 a year. The recommendation was that reductions be in "varying percentages, depending upon the character of the service rendered." The directors left the details to be worked out by the management.

The reduction will be on the following basis: Salaries ranging from $1,800 to $5,000 annually will be reduced 10 per cent. Salaries ranging above $5,000 and up to $10,000 will be cut 12½ per cent, while salaries above $10,000 will be reduced 15 per cent. Wage earners are not affected by the reduction.

United Light & Power company and subsidiaries reported for the twelve months ended June 30 net profit of $8,958,860 after expenses, depreciation, federal taxes, etc., equal after preferred dividends to $1.54 a share on 3,470,485 shares of class A and B common combined. This compares with $11,381,768, or $2.40 a share, on 3,311,583 combined common shares, in the preceding twelve months. Gross totaled $91,473,060, against $96,672,008.

New York, Aug. 5.—(AP)—At the offices of Brown Brothers-Harriman & Co. it was said a notice had been received today that the $50,000,000 Argentine loan would be paid Oct. 1, the maturity date. The loan was for one year, and Brown Brothers-Harriman said no request for an extension had been received. The Argentine gold peso was quoted in New York today at 65⅝ cents, a drop of 1⅛ cents from yesterday's close.

WORKERS TO PAY LESS FOR STOCK IN HARVESTER CO.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 5.—Because of the decline in the market price of its shares the International Harvester company has permitted its employés who subscribed last year at $75 each to cancel those subscriptions and has given them the privilege of purchasing the stock at $50 a share. The stock closed today on the stock exchange at 38⅝. Before the employés can subscribe for the share at the lower price they must cancel their 1930 allotment.

Under the new plan employés will have until June 30, 1935, to pay for the shares. On that date they will have the option of taking the stock or getting back in cash all the installments paid, together with five per cent interest thereon exclusive of any special allowances credited by the company.

In order to assist the employés in acquiring the stock the plan provides for four annual allowances to be credited on the purchase price, one of which is $2.50 on each share, which is five per cent of the subscription price.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 5.—There was little nourishment in the day's news for the share market. Wheat was off over a cent a bushel, cotton was down $1 a bale, the bond market was off, and uncertainty among the foreign exchanges reflected the present uncertainties of the economic position abroad.

Midweek reviews of industry were not particularly encouraging, either over present conditions or the immediate outlook. The motor trade, they agreed, is at its seasonal nadir and steel mill operations are back at the 30 per cent low level of a fortnight ago. Railroad traffic as shown by the weekly carloadings statement is running still nearly 20 per cent below that of a year ago, when it was not heavy. A rather dispiriting picture withal as Wall street sees it.

With so many drawbacks, the market might have done a great deal worse than it did. The fact that it did not break was due in a large measure to the continued absence of any speculative interest of account and to the support which certain key issues (the list undoubtedly are receiving just now. Buying of this character certainly proved a mainstay to United States Steel.

Support American Can.

Brokers also reported support buying in behalf of American Can, although this favored key issue finished the day with a net loss of more than 2 points. As a group the rails also fared a trifle better than they have on other recent days of the current decline and this, too, in spite of the carloadings report. In spite of the drubbing they have come in for here of late, most of the carriers are still a few points above the worst prices of last June. Of the leading issues, only two, Great Northern and Illinois Central, were under the June lows at their poorest prices today. Comparative prices on some of the best known members of the group sized up as follows:

American Telephone Weakens.

One of the weakest issues of the so-called pivotal group was American Telephone and Telegraph, which sold off some 4¾ points on fears of a dividend cut. Toward the close the trading fraternity heard on apparently reliable authority that the rate would

TO HOLDERS OF SECURITIES OF

CHICAGO SURFACE LINE COMPANIES

(CHICAGO RAILWAYS COMPANY, CHICAGO CITY RAILWAY COMPANY, CALUMET AND SOUTH CHICAGO RAILWAY COMPANY) AND OF CHICAGO CITY AND CONNECTING RAILWAYS COLLATERAL TRUST.

The undersigned Committee represents holders of several classes of securities of Chicago surface line companies who dissent from the Reorganization Plan under which Chicago Local Transportation Company proposes to acquire the properties of those companies. This Committee believes the Plan is financially unsound and is unfair to all surface line security holders. The legislative acts upon which the Plan is based are of such doubtful validity that even after the Plan had been declared operative it was found necessary to test them in court.

This Committee will represent such other holders of surface line securities as join with it. Analysis of the Plan will be sent by the Secretary on request.

Electric Weather

The old saying that we "grumble about the weather but don't do anything about it," is going out of style. Electricity is overcoming the discomforts of climate.

Electric refrigerators are being sold at the rate of about 1,000,000 a year. Practically all theatres and larger hotels are being equipped with electric air conditioning machines. Electricity is "doing something about the weather." There are few things electricity hasn't improved.

represent an interest in 44 public utilities which are benefitting from the many new outlets for electricity. These companies operate in more than 200 of our largest cities and are making life more comfortable whether in Maine or California.

Light weight hogs scored another advance on short receipts yesterday and with the quality of light weights poorest of the year, premiums were paid willingly by city butchers and order buyers for the meager supply of choice grades averaging 225 lbs and less. Numerous loads of sorted 170@220 lb. averages reached $8.00@8.10, the highest prices since last Friday, while the general average moved up 10c at $6.65.

Light and medium weights and light packing sows shared in the 10@25c advance, but extremely heavy butchers and "packers" exceeding 400 lbs in weight came to a weak close and late sales of these were barely steady. There has been an accumulation of lard lately and heavy cuts of pork are hard to dispose of. Stocks of lard in storage at some of the leading points show an increase of about 15 per cent compared with a month ago. Pig weights are more plentiful lately. A large number have been forced out of the drought stricken areas of the Dakotas during the last few days. One of the western markets had 2,500 such pigs early this week that went to feeders in the cornbelt at $6.75@7.25. They averaged 30 lbs to 110 lbs.

December Offers at $6.50.

Hogs averaging 210@260 lbs were offered for next December delivery at $6.50, while offers in the light class were held at $6.75 and heavy were offered at $6.90. Light weights for the first half of the present month are bid $7.85, but $8.50 is the lowest offer. September light are offered at $8.75. Mediums for September are offered at $7.65 and October mediums are offered at $7.40.

Top steers were in fairly good demand and held steady yesterday, while others ruled weak to lower, selling mostly 25c under Monday's level. About 250 yearling steers averaging 872@961 lbs topped the list at $9.35, only 5c under the highest price paid for cattle in recent weeks. Hundreds of light cattle sold upwards to $9.00, while well finished 1,387 lb steers reached $8.85. However, outlet for medium and weighty beeves is narrower, reflecting the slow movement of big carcasses on the wholesale market lately.

The trade looks for a gradual spreading out of the price range. The range of prices is unusually narrow for this time of year. In fact, the present range is narrowest for July since 1926. The inside price for common beef steers and the extreme top are only $2.90 apart. A year ago the spread was $6.00 and two years ago the spread was $5.75.

Lambs Weaken Again.

Weakness persisted in the lamb market again yesterday and many sales were considered 15@25c under the general selling the previous day. Quality was the poorest of the season and only a "handful" of strong weight natives reached $7.50@7.75 the top quotations, while most of the best "sorts" went at $7.00@7.25. Buck lambs rejected from load lots and sold at $6.00@6.25 mostly, while hundreds of cull natives had to go at $4.00 and a few slightly below.

Aged sheep and yearlings were steady. Feeding lambs weakened again, with demand unusually narrow. Best feeders are quoted at $5.25@5.50, although a load of common Texas lambs went to feeder buyers at $3.85. Demand for feeders has been at low ebb during the last few weeks. Shipments from Chicago during July totaled only 4,630, the smallest on record for that month. Insufficient funds in the corn belt area is the principal cause for the narrow demand for feeders, although the fact that farmers are still busy in the fields is holding many orders back.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil closed weak today at a decline of 6@25 points and the list was at new lows for the season. A lower cotton market and weakness of grains, together with liquidation of September and March, accounted for the break. There were rumors of sales of extra loose tallow at 3¼c a pound, net 3c lower. Sales were 28 contracts, equivalent to 4,200 brls. Bleachable spot closed 6.00c; September, 6.00c; December, 5.45c; January, 5.50c; March, 5.60c. JOHN M. SMYTH COMPANY BUYS UPTOWN BLOCK

Takes Title to Sheridan Road Frontage.

BY AL CHASE.

One of uptown's most conspicuous vacant parcels of real estate, the block of frontage on the east side of Sheridan road, extending from Loyola avenue to Albion avenue, was transferred yesterday by the Foreman State Trust and Savings bank, as trustee for Plotke & Grosby, to the John M. Smyth company, one of Chicago's oldest furniture concerns, established sixty-four years ago. The actual purchase was negotiated a year ago in September, 1930, but the title was not transferred until yesterday.

When the property was acquired it was rumored that the new owners were to build on it. This could not be confirmed at the time. Yesterday John M. Smyth, president of the John M. Smyth company, admitted that last fall a building was contemplated with a large corporation as tenant. He added that his concern did not then plan using any space. Later the project was abandoned.

To Be Used for Expansion.

Now, according to Mr. Smyth, the property is to be held as an investment with the possibility that some day it may be used for expansion of the activities of the firm. He adds, however, that no sketches have even been made for improving the property and none are contemplated at present.

The property fronts 305 feet on Sheridan road and has a frontage of 150 feet on both Albion and Loyola avenues. The property was at one time owned by a Roman Catholic order and for a time was occupied by the Convent of the Holy Child. It is a couple of blocks north of the Granada theater and is close to the "L." The John M. Smyth company has one of the largest and oldest furniture stores in the middle west at 701 West Madison street.

Merle Potter, owner of the Billie Boy Nut Kitchens, a chain of shops in Oak Park, Elgin, Evanston, and in the Austin district, has leased a store at 2230 East 71st street from Peter Tutules, representing Mikel Katsaros, owner, for a term of years beginning Sept. 1 at a reported annual rental averaging over $3,600. Frank C. Wells & Co. and Carey De Butts of Oak Park were brokers.

City Gets Title to Playground.

Part of the famous old Dunham tract in the heart of Kenwood was transferred yesterday by the Harris Trust and Savings bank, trustee for Albert W. Harris, to the city of Chicago, for use as a playground. It will be known as the Kenwood Community playground, and will be 472x 597½.

The tract has been platted as a subdivision and Kenwood avenue is to be cut through, dividing the property into two blocks. The smaller of the two 600x150, will be retained by Mr. Harris. It contains ten lots with an average frontage of 60 feet and with a depth of 150 feet.

The larger, as stated, will be converted into a playground by the city. The entire tract is bounded by 49th street on the north, Dorchester avenue on the east, 50th street on the south, and Kimbark avenue on the west.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 5.—A sudden drop in sterling exchange in London today to a price at which New York, Paris, Amsterdam, Brussels and Geneva could all profitably have drawn gold from England mystified bankers here.

Coming at a time when the bank of England has just completed measures to safeguard the exchange by twice advancing its discount rate and by opening a credit of $250,000,000 with the bank of France and the Federal Reserve bank of New York, the acute weakness in Sterling caused unusual concern.

In New York the foreign exchange market reflected the unsettlement that had developed in London before the opening of this market. The pound fell to $4.85¼, a decline of eleven-sixteenths cent. At that price, bankers said, the exchange was quietly firm and good orders came into the market.

The best explanation that bankers could suggest for the unusual movement was that Paris had again become alarmed for the security of its London balances and begun to call them in.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 5.—The most unusual transaction the London exchange has ever seen take place was the arrival today of $2,500,000 from Paris at a moment when the sterling was falling sharply in Paris and New York.

The movement was attributed here to a friendly gesture to Great Britain, since it was carried out at a loss and at a time when gold could profitably be shipped to Paris.

The British explanation of today's sudden raid is another case of French nerves in face of Sunday's Prussian diet referendum: "Sterling once more is suffering from the Frenchman's distrust of Germany," financial experts observe.

REORGANIZATION PLAN REPORTED FOR BANK OF U. S.

New York, Aug. 5.—(AP)—A plan for the reorganization of the closed Bank of United States will be announced within ten days or two weeks, the Associated Press learned from reliable sources today.

While details of the plan could not be learned, it was understood that Arthur W. Little, a former director of the Bank of United States, would be chairman of the board of the new organization. Other directors are to include Edward B. Lewis, vice president of the Borden company and Herman A. Metz, vice president and treasurer of the American I. G. Chemical corporation.

The Bank of United States was closed by the state banking department on Dec. 11, 1930. It has no connection with the federal government.

COTTON AT 8 CENT LEVEL

Cotton prices dropped to a level of 8c for spots in New York yesterday and futures were weak, with a decline to new low levels. Weakness was due to a break in Liverpool and to poor support, with Bombay said to be a good seller. October in New York was down to 8c, which brought support for a time but spreading operations were increased and the trade became fairly active. Liverpool finally closed with net losses of 9@10 points, with spot sales 3,000 bales. The close of domestic markets were at lower prices than heretofore with losses on futures of 15@21. New York being off 16@20 points, and Chicago off 15@19 points. Spots dropped 15 points to 7.85c in New Orleans, 7.90c in Galveston and 7.80c in Houston.

Estimates by six private crop reports average 14,022,000 bales, the lowest being 13,325,000 bales and the highest 14,327,000 bales.

The weekly government crop report said temperatures were above normal in the eastern belt, but otherwise mostly normal. Rains were largely local in character. In all it was a favorable week for the crop. Prices follow:

BELMONT INTERESTS FORMING $50,000,000 BANKING INSTITUTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 5.—Belmont interests today announced preliminary steps to organize a new unit in American banking, the American Bankers' Acceptance corporation, with authorized capital of $50,000,000.

A corporation known as Pomeroy & Salmon, Inc., whose headquarters will be with August Belmont & Co., has been organized to further this and other branch and group banking projects sponsored by the Belmont interests.

The American Bankers' Acceptance corporation's principal purpose will be to act as a rediscount corporation for banks, discounting paper which is not eligible for rediscount with the federal reserve bank and which is difficult to place with correspondent banks. The organization work of the new acceptance corporation will be begun immediately, it was stated.

The new corporation is not to be confused with the project formulated by certain interior and western banks about a year ago to establish a corporation with $5,000,000 to deal in and market their bankers' acceptances.

Directors of the new organization include Edward Rice, partner of August Belmont & Co.; Arthur P. West, vice president of the National Surety company; Pierpont H. Hamilton, Eugene C. Pomeroy, and George H. Salmon. The organization will be headed by Mr. Salmon.

3 GOTHAM BANKS CLOSE; DEPOSITS TOTAL $15,000,000

New York, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Three of the smaller Manhattan banks and a safe deposit company were closed today by order of the state banking department. They are: The American Union bank, the International-Madison Bank and Trust company, the Times Square Trust company, and the latter's affiliate, the Times Square Safe Deposit company.

The deposit liabilities of the three banks, taken as of the close of business Aug. 1, total approximately $15,000,000. Superintendent of Banks Joseph A. Broderick said that the banks had experienced a depreciation in the value of their assets.

Broderick added, however, that liquidation of the banks would start at once and that he expected a dividend to be paid within ninety days. He issued a statement explaining that "because of nonliquid condition" it was deemed "unsafe and inexpedient to permit the institutions to continue in business."

CRUCIBLE STEEL SIX MONTHS' NET TOTALS $482,830

New York, Aug. 5.— (AP) —The Crucible Steel company of America today reported for the first six months of this year net earnings of $482,830, compared with net income of $2,317,773 for the like period of 1930.

H. S. Wilkinson, president, in his report to stockholders said the company during the first quarter had about 50 per cent of normal business, but since then orders and production had dropped with the general decline in the steel industry, until the business had reached the lowest volume it has had since 1921.

"We are continuing to pay dividends on the preferred stock as we did in 1921," Mr. Wilkinson said, "using a sufficient amount of our surplus to enable us to do so in the belief that this period of depression will not last long enough to warrant their discontinuance."

Up to the present time, Mr. Wilkinson said, no attempt has been made to change the wages of labor, but in January a reduction of 20 per cent was made in the salary pay roll.

"We believe," he said, "the extent of this depression through which we are passing is now only a question of a few months before our business will start forward again, and that we will advance from that time on until we reach normal condition."

Lumber Orders 7 Per Cent Ahead of Mills' Output

Orders for lumber during the week ended July 25 were approximately 7 per cent greater than the output of mills, telegraphic reports from 826 leading hardwood and softwood mills to the National Lumber Manufacturers' association indicate. Production of these mills amounted to 203,329,000 feet. Their shipments were 16 per cent above production. A week earlier 806 mills reported orders 1 per cent above and shipments 3 per cent below production of 208,052,000 feet.

GOVERNOR OF BAY STATE ASSAILS RAIL RATE BOOST

Boston, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Gov. Joseph B. Ely today instructed Attorney General Joseph B. Warner to oppose a 15 per cent increase in freight rates requested by railroads and now pending before the interstate commerce commission.

"I am firmly convinced that such an increase is extremely detrimental to Massachusetts industry," Gov. Ely said in his order to Warner. "As our process of manufacture requires us to bring into the state the raw product and ship it out as finished goods, our industry would be subject to a 15 per cent increase if the petition were granted, not only upon the finished but upon raw materials. Such a situation would penalize Massachusetts industry substantially 30 per cent."

Raps Increase Plan.

Portland, Me., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Robert P. Hazzard, shoe manufacturer, at a sectional hearing on the proposed 15 per cent increase in railroad freight rates, today charged the carriers with attempting to place upon shippers finacial burdens caused by their own inefficiency.
